Hurricane Dorian Threatens Southeast Coast; Tropical Storm Watch Over Eastern Shore

By Linda Cicoria

Accomack and Northampton counties were bracing for tropical storm conditions from Hurricane Dorian Wednesday as the Eastern Shore Post went to press a day ahead of schedule to beat the possibility of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel closing before newspapers could make it over and in time to allow distribution so workers wouldn't be out in the weather. For the most up-to-date information, readers should visit the Eastern Shore Post's Facebook page or website at www.easternshorepost.com, the National Hurricane Center at <https://www.nhc.noaa.gov/>, the National Weather Service in Wakefield at <https://www.weather.gov/> (enter zip code in upper left hand corner for local forecasts), and local emergency management sites.

The storm was a Category 5 hurricane when it left widespread destruction and caused several deaths in the Bahamas. It remained far enough off the Florida coast to avoid the worst, and was leaving the Florida coast and was poised to batter the Georgia and the Carolinas at press time.

Gov. Ralph Northam declared a state of emergency Monday. "A state of emergency allows the commonwealth to mobilize resources and to deploy people and equipment to assist in response and recovery efforts," read a press release issued with the announcement. "The declaration also allows officials from Virginia to coordinate planning and evacuation resources with the state of North Carolina."

Northampton County is on alert and has

BAYSHORE CONCRETE SOLD TO CHESAPEAKE'S COASTAL PRECAST SYSTEMS

By Stefanie Jackson

Bayshore Concrete in Cape Charles is officially back in business with a new name and a new owner.

Coastal Precast Systems, of Chesapeake, Va., is setting up shop at the former Bayshore plant under the direction of owner Paul Ogorchok. With the help of two business partners, he recently purchased the bulk of the Bayshore property for more than $11 million, not including equipment costs and other expenses.

The initial stages of the concrete plant's re-opening will mean 50 to 100 new jobs in Northampton County, and recruiting efforts are already underway, Ogorchok said.

The company is looking to fill a variety of positions including laborers, operators, mechanics, technicians, and journeymen.

Dan McGhee is the new manager of the Cape Charles concrete plant, which is Coastal Precast Systems' third location.

The plant, which has been abandoned for about a year and a half, is currently undergoing repairs and upgrades that are expected to be completed by November.

Ogorchok already has projects lined up for the plant, including the pre-casting of about 1,000 concrete beams and 500 concrete deck planks that will be shipped to Connecticut for construction of a federal government building.

He brings decades of experience to the table. He started working with concrete at age 16 and has been in the pre-cast concrete business for 25 years.

Coastal Precast Systems is a "long-standing" business dating back to 1946, Ogorchok said.

He has no intent to make a "quick deal" and be gone, he added.

a 'virtual' emergency operations center activated, said emergency management director Hollye Carpenter. The county could open a partial Emergency Operations Center for Thursday night.

Neither county is planning to open shelters as of press time Wednesday.

Storm surges were expected at some point on the Shore as heavy rain was predicted to arrive Thursday with tropical storm conditions Thursday night and all day Friday. The Category 2 storm, while no longer the powerhouse Category 5 storm, has expanded in size to 175 miles. With its strong winds covering a larger area, it is capable of generating giant waves and pushing large amounts of water toward the shore. There were reported signs that Dorian was attempting to intensify over the waters northeast of Florida Wednesday morning, with a ring of thunderstorms building up around its center. If this trend continues, it could mean even worse impacts for the Carolinas.

These areas face a triple threat of "destructive winds, flooding rains, and life-threatening storm surges," according to the National Hurricane Center.

Dorian defied early forecasts and largely spared Florida, but is expected to make a closer approach to the Georgia and Carolinas' coastline between late Wednesday and Thursday and could even make landfall at more than one location.

Around Charleston, S.C., wind gusts could hit 80 mph, and water levels could rank among the top five levels ever recorded due to the combination of ocean surge and up to 15 inches of rain. Higher wind gusts could lash North Carolina's Outer Banks, leading to power outages and damage.

ANEC is preparing for local effects of Hurricane Dorian. With the forecast heavy rain and strong winds, there is a potential for power outages associated with fallen limbs and trees. An ANEC official said Wednesday "tree trimming crews are prepared to respond to any outages related to tree damage associated with the storm."

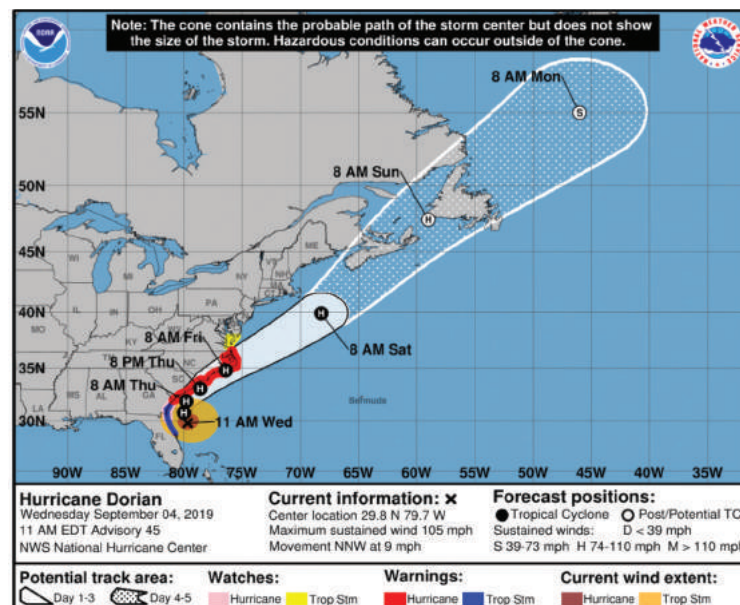

"We will continue to monitor the storm's path and will be ready for any outage issues associated with it," said Brian Charnock, ANEC director of operations and construction services. "The storm continues to track very close to our area so it would be best for members to be prepared in case the storm's forecast suddenly changes."

Cooperative crews will be ready beginning Thursday night to be dispatched to restore power if outages occur.

If power should go out, residents should cut off heat pumps, electric water heaters, and other major appliances so that load will not be excessive when lines are being re-energized. "After power has been restored for several minutes, gradually restart only those necessary appliances. After about 30 minutes you should be able to return to normal operation."

ANEC also warns people to stay away from downed wires or damaged electric equipment. Touching energized wires can lead to injuries and death. If you see downed wires, call ANEC or 911 immediately. Never run a generator inside your home or garage. Some produce carbon monoxide fumes, which can be deadly. Make sure your generator is installed properly. A generator must be installed with a double-pole, double-throw transfer switch to keep it from back feeding in the cooperative's distribution system.

Accomack School Board Forum Delves Into Education Issues

By Connie Morrison

This November election will mark the first time Accomack County voters will select school board members at the polls, rather than having them being appointed by a commission.

A forum for sitting Accomack County School Board members and new candidates was held Aug. 26 at Nantuxa High School, sponsored by the local chapter of the National Education Association. This is the second of two articles about the forum.

Four candidates participated: District 6 candidate T.J. Johnson, District 4 candidates Connie Burford and Gary Reese, and District 2 candidate Edward Taylor.

After candidates had a chance to introduce themselves and answer the questions they received ahead of time, they turned their attention to questions submitted by the audience.

Restorative Practices

The first question asked if candidates had researched restorative practices and whether they would consider them in Accomack County schools. Restorative practices take the place of traditional discipline that excludes students from classrooms, focusing instead on restoring damaged relationships and accepting responsibility for actions.

A 2018 study by the Virginia Legal Aid Justice Center placed Accomack and Northampton in the top 25% in the state for suspension rates (10.6% and 14%, respectively) and disproportionate suspension rates in both counties for African Americans and students with disabilities. According to the report, Virginia schools that have implemented restorative practices saw “school discipline incidents decrease, academic achievement increase, and students reporting (a) more positive school climate.”

Burford said she has researched restorative practices and would consider restorative practices “if that’s what’s in the best interest of the children.”

Reese, a sitting board member, seemed unfamiliar with the concept “and that would be the answer is ‘no’ because I’m not sure,” he said. “I can’t answer that question.”

Johnson said he has researched restorative practices and the data show suspensions don’t work. “As educators, we need to try something different if suspensions are not working.” He wants to research it more but would consider the practice.

Taylor said he didn’t know enough about it and needed to do more research to be able to give an answer.

Special Education Committee

The next question dealt with the district’s special education committee, which advises the school board on policies and issues that affect special education students and their families.

Taylor said he had heard of the committee, but “I don’t know it extensively.” Johnson called the committee “a very important outlet for parents and a very important way for the county to communicate with parents.”

Reese had heard of the committee but “this is a committee that, again, to my knowledge ... has not ... brought forth any issues” during his time on the board.

Burford was very familiar, having served on the committee until she had to choose between the health committee and the special education advisory committee. “I was told I could only be on one committee ... so I had to choose,” she said.

Armed Guards in Schools

Speaking to the question of armed guards in the schools, Johnson said they probably weren’t necessary, given the good relationship with the Accomack County Sheriff’s Office and the school resource officers it provides. “I think that they’re doing a fine job,” he said.

Reese said the resource officers are a deterrent and “we should have more, if we could, and if it’s able to be funded by the county,” but he would not go as far as arming teachers.

Burford also acknowledged the role of the resource officers in keeping schools safe, but doesn’t think more should be hired. “If we’re worried about school safety, I think that we should use the metal detectors at the door” before getting any more officers.

Taylor said there should be no price on school safety and the board should look into possibly hiring more resource officers and other safety measures. “We need to look at each school and see ... what direction we need to go in.”

Preventing Embarrassing Incidents

Another audience member asked how candidates would “prevent another embarrassment to the county” like the internationally known episode that saw the classics “Huckleberry Finn” and “To Kill a Mockingbird” temporarily pulled from school shelves. The school board and administration believed they were acting in accordance with adopted school board policies, only to discover later they had amended their policies and did not need to pull the books.

The key to avoiding another such episode is to “know the policies,” said Burford. “You end up with egg on your face” by reacting too quickly. “I research policies all the time,” she said.

Reese’s solution: “Do not make a rash decision,” he said. “If we have to table it for a meeting” and get more information, then “that’s what we need to do ... and then try to make the best decision that we can.”

Taylor concurred with slowing down. “When you make a quick decision, it's not always the best decision.”

Johnson said sometimes sensitive issues put boards in a tough spot. “You have to lean on your policies, not act too quickly, and explore all the options,” he said.

Helping Students Who Fall Behind

The last question for all candidates was how they would support state instructional initiatives to help Accomack students who continue to fall behind.

Burford suggested evaluating students who were not progressing to find out why they are falling behind. “Once you find that out, and once you figure that out you can address it,” she said.

Taylor would look to teachers. “They know the students,” he said. “All children need to be supported.”

Johnson would stay abreast of available programs and supports pre-K for all students as a way of giving students “a leg up.” If students are “not reading on grade level by second grade,” he said, “usually they stay behind their peers.”

Reese said there are a lot of programs in place already, but there is a tendency to focus on grades three through five, and “we somehow forget about the pre-K through second (grade).” The district, he said, has “put in extra aides that help in our early grade to help with our kids that are falling behind” and brings forward other ideas to ensure “every kid can get an education.”

Distinguishing Characteristics

Burford and Reese were asked what distinguishes each from the other candidate.

Burford said, “I can empathize with teachers who are struggling to make ends meet while they are working two and three jobs,” and with single parents. She would also like to see more women on the school board. “We need the female voices on that board. We are very under-represented,” she said.

“There is a right way and a wrong way for things to be done,” said Reese. He said sometimes people have great ideas, “but sometimes they go about it the wrong way.” He called the current board “a great group that really tries to do things the right way,” working out problems “without becoming negative.”

Johnson was asked to distinguish himself from Turner, who was not able to attend. He highlighted his “many experiences in education,” and reiterated he is running for school board to “give back to the community.”

Closing Statements

“I feel that everyone in this county needs to be concerned” about who sits on the school board, even those without school-age children,” Taylor said.

Johnson grew up on the Eastern Shore around Deep Creek and Leemont, graduating from Nandua High School in 1994. He thinks it’s important “to show young people ... you can go out and make a good life for yourself, even if you grew up around here.”

Reese said being on the school board is a lot of work. He described school board responsibilities as hiring and evaluating the superintendent, approving policies, dealing with budgets, negotiating the budgets with the board of supervisors, and handling personnel matters. Working together is crucial to achieve what is “best for our children in Accomack County. That’s our goal.”

Burford said with only two of nine members being female (District 5 member Camesha Handy and District 7 member Naudya Mapp, who is not running for re-election), it is important to elect females to the board. Nationwide, “44% of school board members are female,” she said. “Women need more representation.”

Forum Participation

Candidates not in attendance were asked why they didn’t participate. Of those who answered or returned a reporter’s calls, most said they did not receive enough notice.

District 9 candidate Malcolm F. “Pep” White said the first he heard of the forum was when his sister told him about it on Friday. “I felt like they were bullying me into an event,” he said, adding he would attend the next one “if they do it correctly,” which he explained, means sending out “formal invitations.”

School board chairman Ronnie Holden said he didn’t know anything about it “until I saw it in the Post,” and by then he already had plans. He denied a circulating rumor that he asked or suggested current board members not attend. He said he asked “if they had received an invitation, and that was it.” Organizer and forum facilitator James J. Fetterman said another forum is scheduled for Monday, Sept. 30, at 6 p.m., in the Nandua High School auditorium.

Temperanceville Man To Serve a Year in Jail

A Temperanceville man will serve a year in jail for forcing open the door of a family member's home and beating her in August 2018.

Macavis Rice, 32, of Saxis Road, was sentenced in Accomack Circuit Court last week to five years in prison with all but six months suspended for breaking into the home of Benita Brown and 12 months with half suspended for assault and battery of Brown. The terms were set to run consecutively. Indefinite probation was ordered.

According to court records, Brown told Deputy J. Sharp that Rice forced open her door on Gaskins Court in New Church. Brown said Rice pulled out her hair, threw her to the ground, grabbed her throat and face, and hit and kicked her multiple times. When an officer arrived at the scene, the victim was swollen, bleeding, scratched, and missing chunks of hair.

In another case, Lanaeja Kellam, 20, of Boston Road in Painter, was sentenced to three years with all but three months suspended for unlawful wounding of Kailah Custis on June 10, 2018. Good behavior was ordered for five years and Custis was allowed to report to jail on Sept. 6.

Tyris Javon Davis, 30, of Kelly Road in New Church, was sentenced to three years with all but a month suspended for unauthorized use of a vehicle and hit-and-run with all but a month suspended. He was remanded to jail. The offense occurred Aug. 4, 2018.

Connie Jolanda Walker, 54, of Mini Road in Accomac, was given three-year suspended sentences each for credit card larceny, credit card fraud, and credit card larceny in connection with incidents that occurred March 16, 2018. Good behavior was ordered for three years. Walker was put on unsupervised probation.

David Tyler Nalls, 26, of Indian Trail Road in Belle Haven, was sentenced to five years in prison with all but a year suspended for felony destruction of property that occurred Sept. 2, 2018. Good behavior was ordered for 10 years with restitution of $1,700 for Norman Pitt.

Faron Victor Giddens, 41, of Kia Lane in Pungoteague, was sentenced to 20 years in prison with all but three years suspended for possession with the intent to distribute cocaine on July 26, 2017. He pleaded guilty to the crime. An identical charge was made in connection with an incident that occurred July 27, 2017, and was not prosecuted. Supervised probation was ordered for three years. Giddens will be on good behavior for 20 years.

Chincoteague Man Charged With Felonies

A Chincoteague man was charged with 48 counts of forging and uttering checks valued at a total of $7,425, according to records filed this week in Accomack General District Court.

Brian Wayne Doughty, 59, of Chester Park Drive on the island, is accused of forging 24 checks belonging to "Ms. Fields" and 24 counts of uttering them.

The offenses occurred this year on May 9, 15, and 22; June 2, 10, 11, 13, 14, 18, 20, 24, 26, and 28; July 1, 3, 4, 9, 11, 15, 17, 18, and 19; and Aug. 1. Fields told Officer Jeff Stevens of the Chincoteague Police Department that she did not sign the checks. The record stated Doughty had signed the back of the checks.

Doughty was arrested Aug. 29. A preliminary hearing was set for Oct. 28. A secured bond was set at $3,500.

In another case Gary Joseph Fleig, 43, and his wife, Amanda Kelley Fleig, 29, both of Saxis, were charged with two counts each of possession of a Schedule I or II drug on Aug. 28. They were arrested the same day and are being held without bond. Deputy K.A. Reese investigated.

2 Men Sentenced in Northampton

Two men were sentenced Tuesday in Northampton Circuit Court.

Ashude Na-Val Antomez, of Elizabeth City, N.C., pleaded guilty to assault and battery, a misdemeanor. He was initially indicted on a count of assault and battery of a police officer, which is a felony. The offense occurred March 1. Antomez was sentenced to a year in jail with six months suspended. Restitution of $36.57 was ordered.

In another case, John William Reid, 46, of Cheapside Drive in Cape Charles, pleaded guilty to petty larceny. He was initially charged with a third or subsequent offense of shoplifting, which is a felony. The incident occurred Jan. 27 and involved property belonging to Food Lion in Cape Charles. Restitution of $145 was ordered. He was sentenced to time served. The online court record did not specify how long that had been.

COMMUNITY COLLEGE PRESIDENT: ESCC IS 'BEST ECONOMICAL DECISION'

By Stefanie Jackson

New Eastern Shore Community College President James Shaeffer addressed the Accomack County School Board Tuesday night on a variety of challenges facing ESCC that could affect high school students interested in taking dual-enrollment classes or obtaining an associate degree after graduation.

"I'm not going to talk about the fact that we're going through a three-year reboot," said Shaeffer, who prefers to call the exercise a "refresh."

"If you have to reboot, you're not doing anything right, and that college is doing a lot of things that are right," he said.

Total enrollment at ESCC is 214, down by nine students from 223 last year. But fewer students are taking more courses, Shaeffer said.

There are 117 Accomack students participating in dual enrollment at the community college: 53 from Nandua High School, 48 from Arcadia High School, 15 from Chincoteague High School, and one from Tangier Combined School.

Shaeffer observed four problems compounded by ESCC's financial challenges.

He called the community college a food desert and said eating junk food from a vending machine is not a good way for a student to start the day.

But the ESCC Foundation has decided to invest $1,500 in starting a new program that will provide healthy snacks to ESCC students from breakfast time until 4 p.m. every day. ESCC has also received a $4,600 grant that will help fund the program, Shaeffer said.

Homelessness and lack of transportation are other issues some ESCC students face, he said.

Some potential ESCC students can't enroll due to financial need. The ESCC Foundation is working to create more scholarships to address that issue, Shaeffer said.

He wrapped up on a positive note by announcing that ESCC now offers an associate degree in industrial technology. Students who pursue this degree will learn about mechanics, electric, hydraulics, pneumatics, welding, and HVAC.

A student could transfer the credits earned to a four-year school or go straight into the workforce with a "good paying career, without having to leave the Shore," Shaeffer said.

School board member Jesse Speidel and vice chairman Ronnie Holden spoke in favor of a community college education.

A full year at ESCC, including tuition, books, and transportation, costs about $8,000, Shaeffer said.

Community college shouldn't be viewed as the "last chance to get a higher education," he said. "It's your best economical decision."

Birds, Brews and BBQ Is Sept. 14

By Stefanie Jackson

Local nonprofit Eastern Shore Birding and Wildlife Programs Inc. is having its first Birds, Brews, & BBQ, Saturday, Sept. 14, 2 p.m. to 5 p.m., at Cape Charles Brewing Company, an all-you-can-eat event promoting education about Eastern Shore birds and wildlife.

Free birding walks are also offered, beginning at 7:30 a.m.

The all-you-can-eat dinner will include barbecue, macaroni and cheese, clam chowder, and a craft beer. Tickets are $40 in advance or $50 at the door and are available at Cape Charles Brewing company or www.eventbrite.com

Birds, Brews, & BBQ is made possible in part by a $2,700 Virginia Tourism Corporation marketing grant, one of 44 VTC grants totaling more than $965,000 recently announced by Gov. Ralph Northam.

"These grant funds help destinations improve our communities, create jobs for our citizens, and make Virginia an even more attractive place for visitors and businesses alike," Northam said.

Participation in the VTC Marketing Leverage Program requires a partnership of three or more Virginia entities, including cities, towns, counties, chambers of commerce, businesses, museums, attractions, and other tourism-related businesses.

Eastern Shore Birding and Wildlife Programs partnered with Cape Charles Brewing Company, Coastal Virginia Wildlife Observatory, and the Eastern Shore Tourism Commission to apply for the grant.

Every dollar awarded by the grant program is matched and leveraged by partners at a rate of about 3-to-1. That's nearly $2.9 million in matching funds, bringing the total of new Virginia tourism marketing dollars to more than $3.8 million.

Fate of Railroad Track Uncertain

By Linda Cicoira

A Pennsylvania expert thinks it will cost nearly $539,000 to repair the railroad tracks between Parksley, where massive Associated Grain silos sit beside the defunct line, to Hallwood, for a seven-mile hike.

That's about six times less than the $3.4 million estimated by a Delmarva Central Railroad employee last month.

But, DCR President Mark Rosner told Canonie Atlantic board members Tuesday night the lower price doesn't include the $80,000 in yearly maintenance that would be needed and it wouldn't bring the line up to DCR's standards.

"It comes down to dollars and cents," said Rosner. "If he's wrong on one tie, we get fined by the federal government ... what you're proposing is very basic and it doesn't get us where we want to be. You can't get contractors down here. They don't want to come down for a small job."

In addition, work would have to be done on another five miles from Oak Hall's Lecato Station to Hallwood to get the cars north. Rosner said DCR has already invested $1.75 million of its own money. "We didn't expect to have pricing issues" or to lose customers. "We're committed to the Eastern Shore, but we can't spend any more money."

DCR also doesn't want to employ a second shift of workers. "Our guys only work 12 hours a day," which is possible when cars go 25 mph. If the cars go slower, it takes longer.

"From an economic standpoint we need to be able to have the speed, that is safe, that we feel comfortable running," Rosner said 700 cars a year would be needed to make it worthwhile.

DCR just upgraded the line from Lecato to Pocomoke City, Md. to Class 2. That means the cars could go 25 mph. The job involves replacing 2,300 ties per mile. From Lecato to Hallwood, 700 ties per mile were replaced making that area Class 1, which allows cars to go 10 mph.

Richard Lewis, of Association Grain, has guaranteed 250 cars a year for three years. He wanted the seven-mile area to be taken out of the federal abandonment request. Lewis thought the initial figure to improve that portion of the line was too high so he hired the track consultant who made an inspection Aug. 22.

Marty Kemp, of Pep-Up propane, also expressed interest in using the rail from south of Lecato. Canonie Chairman Donald Hart, who is also chairman of the Accomack Board of Supervisors, suggested Kemp and Rosner get together to talk about it.

Lewis was greeted by a more optimistic Canonie panel last month when members informally said if the railroad sold its property at Cape Charles or Little Creek, Va., it could afford to help update the Hallwood-Parksley route with $1 million. Remarks this week were grim.

"The first question ought to be ... where is the money going to come from," said board member Spencer Murray, who is also chairman of the Northampton County Board of Supervisors. "Canonie wants as much rail activity as we can get. We wanted it all the way down to Cape Charles."

But companies weren't using the line. Nearly two years ago, much of the railroad tracks that once ran from Cape Charles to Pocomoke City, stopped being used. The tracks had not been properly maintained; Canonie's bank account was down to $800. Lewis said he had to get into the trucking business to move his product.

The track between Hallwood and Parksley is in "good shape" for 10 mph or a Class 1 track, Lewis' consultant wrote. "Minor work" was needed to allow cars to go 25 mph, or Class 2. That consultant's plan called for $80,180 in labor, $200,000 for materials, $25,000 for subcontractors, $98,000 for equipment, and $66,100 for various other costs. It also included an additional 15% or $70,392 for profit.

Replacing deteriorating ties was the key. "A Class 1 track only needs five good ties within a given 39-foot segment of track," the report continued. "Class 2 requires eight good ties." The report suggested replacing three ties for every 39 feet or 2,850 ties. "For estimating purposes, we will use 3,500 ties to be replaced or 17%."

Canonie board member Paul Muhly, who is also an Accomack supervisor, motioned for the board to get estimates to see what the contractors had to say about the costs. Several contractors were recommended and another from Norfolk, Va., was added to the list. Muhly questioned Rosner about the difference between DCR's standards and the consultant's suggestions.

"We upgrade to a very solid Class 2 probably some that are Class 4," with the ability to go 60 mph, said Rosner. Regarding expanding to Parksley, "It's just something we don't want to do. We lease only to Hallwood. We're not interested in leasing beyond."

At first, none of the other members would second Muhly's motion. Finally, Ron Wolff, another Accomack supervisor, sec-ended the motion to allow for discussion. "Personally, I would want to see the rail come to Parksley," said board member Reneta Major, also an Accomack supervisor. "If DCR is not willing or doesn't see it as feasible, ... we're knocking our heads against the dead post."

Muhly said the purpose was to find out the cost, which might make it more attractive, or "someone else might want to start a railroad."

Murray said getting contractors to spend their time and money to make bids is wrong if there is no money for the job. "Are you acting in good faith when you don't know if you are ever going to do business?" he asked.

"I'd love to do this too," said John Coker, another Canonie member, and a Northampton supervisor. "I think we have the cart before the horse. If we sold Cape Charles for $10 million or Little Creek for $10 million, it would be a different ballgame. I might vote very differently."

Eventually, Muhly withdrew his motion.

Louise Johnson, of Greenbush, voiced opposition to the railroad property being turned over to Rails-to-Trails Conservancy to solve issues of abandonment. The non-profit organization is "dedicated to creating a nationwide network of trails from former rail lines and connecting corridors to build healthier places for healthier people."

Johnson said in other places where trails were begun, the money ran out and the job was never completed. She wanted to know who would maintain it. Johnson also noted that there was "nothing to see" along the route as the highway is on one side and soybean fields are on the other. She wanted to see the Lankford Highway and Route 316 widened for safety instead.

Murray said the trails program will allow the railroad to keep its leases. It would preserve broadband and electric lines and could someday allow a rail to come back. "There could be a bullet train 50 years from now," he said. "What rails to trails does is it avoids abandonment ... it keeps everything alive. You have to get the right sponsor." He also said the endeavor would keep Canonie from having to be responsible for maintaining crossings.

Murray said the Navy is interested in discussing security at Little Creek, which could eventually lead to the Navy purchasing the Canonie property there.

He also reported Showtime is interested in using local rails to film segments of a mini-series based on James McBride's novel, "The Good Lord Bird," about abolitionist John Brown and starring Ethan Hawke.

Northampton High School Bathrooms Get a Groovy Makeover

Submitted Story and Photos

New Ravenna, an Exmore-based company who designs and manufactures high-end mosaics for residential and commercial projects around the world, used its talents to beautify two bathrooms at Northampton High School.

Megan Lawson, director of marketing at New Ravenna, stated, "As the largest private-sector employer in the county, and with so many of our employees being Northampton High School alumni, we wanted to find a way to make a difference in such an important place.

"Painting uplifting murals in the bathrooms felt like the best way to make use of our creativity to inspire students through design and color. We hope these spaces bring smiles to the students, faculty, and community members who visit them."

The project was undoubtedly a labor of love as New Ravenna employees drafted mural designs, which were then stenciled onto walls and eventually painted by volunteers in the main hall's girls and boys bathrooms.

Northampton Lumber was a huge project donor, helping the volunteers secure a grant that covered the cost of the paint and supplies.

Lawson noted, "It was so wonderful for us to be a part of such an impactful community project. We are honored to have contributed to something so truly unique and memorable for the school and its students."

A colorful mural ready to welcome NHS students back to school.

Off the Shelf: News From Eastern Shore Public Library TO INFINITY AND BEYOND! BE PART OF LIBRARY2020

Submitted Article and Image

The Eastern Shore Public Library will soon launch the construction of the new regional library and Eastern Shore of Virginia Heritage Center in Parksley. It is scheduled to be completed in December 2020. While this is a major project for the Eastern Shore, the building is only part of the plan to provide the library services Shore families need and deserve. The building is a needed tool, a space, but a very large and important tool! It isn't just a place to store books on a shelf.

We invite you to join us for Library2020, to develop a clearer vision for what the public library on the Shore can be and will be. At the August board of trustees meeting, I presented a library plan that focuses on four initiatives: Nonprofit Capacity, Heritage Hub, System Capacity, and Culture of Reading. Over the next 12 months, we will implement steps that will fulfill these initiatives that will enhance lifelong learning, wellness, equity, and thriving communities on the Shore. You may not readily observe these steps as many take place behind the scenes as we prepare for the move to our wonderful new facility.

One of these initiatives you can participate in is helping us develop a culture of reading in your town and on the Eastern Shore of Virginia. This September, Eastern Shore Public Library is joining the American Library Association (ALA) and libraries nationwide for Library Card Sign-Up Month, a time to remind parents, caregivers, and students that a library card is the first step towards academic achievement and lifelong learning. Studies show that children who are read to in the home and who use the library perform better in school and are more likely to continue to use the library as a source of lifetime learning.

Since 1987, Library Card Sign-Up Month has been held each September to mark the beginning of the school year. During the month, the ALA and libraries unite in a national effort to ensure all children sign up for their own library cards. If your church, club, or organization would like to have a presentation on the Library2020 plan or a group library card sign-up event, please contact Library Director Cara Burton at 757-787-3400.

For more information about how to sign up for a library card, please visit your local public library in person or call the library at 757-787-3400. The Eastern Shore Public Library System has libraries in Accomac, Cape Charles, Chincoteague, and Nassawadox. Your ESPL library card can be used at any of the four libraries. To learn about the regional library building project and ESVA Heritage Center in Parksley, opening in 2020, or to donate visit www.shorelibrary.com For more information about your library services, hours of operation, or your library account, "like" us on Facebook and Twitter, visit www.espl.org or call the library at 757-787-3400.

Firebirds Take Sting Out Of Yellow Jackets In 51-0 Win

Story and Photos

by Matthew Yoder

For a school looking to make significant gains in 2019, the Arcadia Firebirds opened the season with a real statement in idyllic late summer conditions. Tenacious pursuit on the defensive end of the ball, balance on offense, and big plays on special teams paced a 51-0 clinic on the road against the Northampton Yellow Jackets.

Arcadia coach Alan Hall strode the sidelines pregame stating, "This is the start of the finish," alluding to 17 seniors on the team determined to make their mark on the schools' record books this season.

From the outset, the game, dubbed the inaugural Battle of the Bay, quickly became a match of disparity in both experience and speed. The Yellow Jackets opened with strong runs by Tyrell Crockett, but for them, the game stagnated into a contest of one step forward, two steps back. Arcadia's pursuit on defense was relentless and at times unstoppable.

Coach Hall was enthusiastically pleased with the play of his defense, a unit that surrendered only 44 yards all night and never allowed Northampton to cross midfield.

"I'm happy with the pursuit and gang tackling, the line is pushing back three yards," Hall said at halftime.

At times five or six defenders converged on a tackle, leaving the public address announcer lost in a mass of jerseys and left to proclaim on numerous occasions, "A host of Firebirds on the tackle."

Players such as Keith Grinnage, Demonta Copes, and many others up and down the roster charged a porous line, which left the Yellow Jackets fighting against third and long situations all night.

"This was a learning process. We had 14 sophomores playing and we were sophomores heavy on the line," said Northampton coach J.T. Edney.

Northampton lost 17 seniors to graduation, and their depth chart and playbook was further challenged by early injuries to starting quarterback Liam Flynn and tight end Jeremiah Major.

Northampton ran schemes with Crockett under center to no avail, and as Arcadia deciphered its adjustments, the Yellow Jackets increasingly became one dimensional.

William Scarborough, one of Arcadia's host of defenders, summed up Northampton's struggles following the loss of Flynn.

"The offense is simple, they run the ball to the strong side," he said.

Assistant coach Dan Macca instructed his team all night to "establish the corner, gang tackle, and get a good clean hit."

And so it was all night.

Arcadia's offense was equally impressive. The pace set by quarterback Lethon Williams and running back Tiair Bibbins was without match.

Arcadia opened the game primarily on the ground. A first-quarter touchdown by Williams on the team's second possession opened the scoring.

The Firebirds began to make the game a runaway in the second quarter behind impressive runs by Bibbins. He often cut back across the field reading defenses on the fly and his speed and the ease at which he eluded tacklers led to two scores in the quarter. He credited strong play from his teammates.

"I've got faith in my team, thanks to my blockers," said Bibbins.

A second touchdown by Williams and ensuing two-point conversion by Brandon Bibbins contributed to a commanding 28-0 lead at halftime.

The start of the second half displayed a flurry of big plays by Arcadia's special teams. A kick return for a touchdown, a safety on Northampton's first possession, and another return for a touchdown on the free kick following the safety pushed the score to 44-0 and activated the continuously rolling clock.

A sizeable and spirited crowd cheered voraciously for the Firebirds through the action.

One such spectator, Arnita Ward said, "I'm gonna be hoarse tomorrow," shouting "Firebirds are fired up," with counterpart and self-proclaimed number one granny cheerleader, Regina Finney.

Finney, whose grandson Airey is one of Arcadia's mature senior leaders said, "He insisted I be at the first game," and stated that the support has the power to "turn the game around, they've gotta know somebody's behind them."

For Airey, his mother and grandmother were passionate examples of that.

"You gotta love it, I wanna do good for them, their support plays huge on the team," Airey said.

On this night, the intensity of a hungry senior-laden team was silencing to the opposing crowd. Their well-packed stands could be overheard saying "let's keep fighting" deep into the game, but Arcadia continued to press.

Arcadia used their closing drives on offense to open the passing game and Williams acclimated to sitting in the pocket expertly. He connected on tight spirals to Jaden Hope and a touchdown pass to Tiair Bibbins to conclude the scoring.

Coach Hall looked at the waning moments of the game not as a means to drive up the score but as a "great opportunity to run live situations."

Postgame, as his kids exited the field in jubilation, Hall was done and on to the next game in his head against Decatur this Friday.

"I'm already game prepping," Hall said.

He, too, was impressed by the speed of Arcadia on both sides of the ball and said his young team needs to be "getting used to the speed of the game."

"We'll get it corrected," said Edney confidently.

"Everything comes down to film and we'll get the right 11 on the field," Edney concluded.

For Arcadia, optimism permeates the humble attitude of its team moving forward.

"We're doing something we haven't done in a long time," said Bibbins.

Lethon Williams sits comfortably in the pocket and unloads on a tight spiral downfield.

Warriors Rattled by First-Game Jitters in a 59-21 Loss to Rappahannock

Warriors found running room but were hampered by turnovers and penalties in their 21-59 loss to the Rappahannock Raiders. The score shows a loss, but the Warriors gained valuable experience that should provide a strong building block for a team with only five seniors.

Nandua's season started with a coin flip that put the ball in the hands of Rappahannock quarterback Kalique Gaines, who picked and prodded the Warriors defense apart. He scored early on his feet and then several other times throughout the game.

Nandua didn't get much going in the first half on defense but it was full steam ahead in its run-dominant offense. Warriors quickly got to work with several runs that put them into scoring position on their first two offensive possessions. Unfortunately they were unable to convert good positioning into points as senior Joe Teasley threw two costly interceptions that would translate into two scores for the Raiders.

The half came to a conclusion with Nandua trailing 36-6, with the team's lone score coming from Zykeese Davis on a 27-yard run.

The second half was a different story for Nandua. The defense shook its first-game jitters and the offensive legs were right back to running the ball.

Jaheim Bailey, who ran for 119 yards on 17 carries, started the half with a 31-yard run that put Nandua on the Rappahannock's 28-yard line. After a series of penalties that pushed the Warriors back, Joe Teasley was able to convert on a clutch fourth-and-6, which then allowed for his four-yard rushing touchdown. What seemed to be a comeback was quickly derailed as the Warriors racked up several penalties through the last two quarters.

At the end of the game, their 229 rushing and 51 passing yards weren't enough to overcome the half-time deficit.

The Warriors' defense was highlighted by Tyler Greene, Larry Jones, and Markay Collins who led the team with six tackles apiece. Collins and Jones also joined forces for the team's only sack of the night.

The Warriors will be on the road this week as they travel to Washington High for a 9 p.m. Friday night game.

#4 Zykeese Davis gets outside for a short gain. He would later go on to score the first TD of the season for the Warriors.

Broadwater Posts a Volleyball Win

by Brennan Waldorf

Broadwater Vikings captured their first victory of the season in front of a home crowd in Exmore. They defeated Denbigh Baptist Christian School in three straight sets 25-13, 25-16, 25-9, with a final score of 3-0.

A roster that boasts mainly seniors is highlighted by sophomore Emily Nordwall, who captured eight kills for the lady Vikings along with seven aces. Fellow teammate Virginia Ross also had a good showing, recording eight kills and two blocks at the net. The Vikings opened their season last week against Isle of Wright Aug. 8, falling in three straight sets. They will play at home Friday, Sept. 6, against Hampton Christian.

PONIES LOSE MORE THAN GAME WHEN PLAYER BREAKS LEG

Story by Matthew Yoder

The scoreboard read 51-21 at the conclusion of the game, but for the Chincoteague Ponies and their fans the loss was more directly experienced and intimate.

Star running back and senior Dakota Bowden suffered a broken leg in the second half of the Aug. 29 game against Windsor, after having tallied more than 100 yards on the ground and scoring one touchdown.

"It sounded like a shotgun," said Chincoteague coach Tony Nock of Bowden's broken tibia and fibula.

Amidst fans audibly overcome with emotion Bowden said to Nock, "I think I just broke my leg."

But for a team and player fighting to get back into the game with opponent Windsor, Bowden followed by asking, "coach, did I get the first down?"

For Nock, the spirit of his star summed up the evening.

"The score was not indicative of how we played," Nock said.

"The kids played their hearts out and held their own with a 2A school," said Nock.

Nock described some tackling mis-cues and missed opportunities on offense, but admitted "as soon as Bowden got hurt, the kids glazed over."

Understandably so; Bowden was a dynamic player who drew the praise of assistant coach Control Brown.

"He was amazing, he can switch directions, and it was fun to watch him run," said Brown.

When Bowden exited the game the score was 38-13 and the coaching staff was impressed that their team rallied to score after such a horrific situation.

Nock spoke of team unity prior to the season and in a tremendous show of support Bowden's teammates raised over three thousand dollars at a car wash last Saturday to raise funds for his medical costs.

For Bowden, the prognosis appears positive. He has already resumed walking and baseball has been discussed as part of his future.

For the Ponies, the challenge becomes replacing the irreplaceable and soldiering on with a roster strong in heart, but lacking numbers.

Next up is a home matchup with Snow Hill, a team eager to enter the win column.

Bowden is visibly in the heart of his coaches, but the game must go on, and coach Nock is first to recognize this.

"We're gonna regroup. It's football," said Nock.

Friendly + Knowledgeable =

"I always feel like they put me first."

YMCA of South Hampton Roads Names Anthony Walters as New President, CEO

Submitted Article

The YMCA of South Hampton Roads announced last week it has named Anthony Walters as its new president and chief executive officer, effective Dec. 2, 2019. Selected by the Y's board of directors, following a three-month search, Walters will succeed Billy George, who will enter retirement after more than 44 years at the Y. In his new role, Walters will be responsible for continuing to position the Y as a nonprofit leader committed to youth development, healthy living, and social responsibility.

"I am very excited that Anthony will be our next CEO and look forward to working with him in his new role," said Terrie Edwards, chair of the board of directors for the YMCA of South Hampton Roads. "His passion for the Y, his commitment to partnering with the communities that we serve, and his skill in leading and developing strong teams, will enable him to build upon the solid foundation that Billy George has laid over the past seven years. Anthony is a strategic thinker who listens well and leads with conviction. He has the full support of our board of directors, and we look forward to working with him as our next CEO."

"Growing up in Wilmington, Del., the Y was a daily refuge for me. I played basketball there frequently with my friends, developed my confidence, sharpened my athletic skill set, and gained an understanding of the importance of a healthy lifestyle. And now, after nearly a 20-year career with the Y movement, I have been given the opportunity to lead an organization with which I am deeply connected. I am blessed," said Walters.

Walters currently serves as the chief strategy officer at the YMCA of South Hampton Roads. In his current role, he has led hundreds of volunteers to over 250,000 hours of volunteerism to benefit causes of community outside of the walls of local YMCAs. Walters also notes that one of his more gratifying accomplishments in his current role is the growth and expansion efforts for the YMCA of South Hampton Roads through mergers with the YMCA of Portsmouth and the YMCA of South Boston/Halifax County. Prior to his time with the YMCA of South Hampton Roads, Walters worked for the YMCA of Greater Charlotte, and spent time as a high school English teacher with Durham Public Schools. Walters holds a bachelor's degree from Norfolk State University, is a TowneBank Leadership Alliance Board Member, a member of Norfolk State University's Foundation Board, and a member of Virginia Wesleyan University's President's Council.

29th Onancock Bay Challenge Scheduled for Oct. 12

The 2019 Onancock Bay Challenge, presented by the Eastern Shore of Virginia Anglers Club, is set for Saturday, Oct. 12. Now in its 29th year, the popular event emphasizes families and youths angling for the diverse fish species available on the Eastern Shore. It is broadly supported by Eastern Shore businesses, with proceeds going to fund scholarships for Accomac and Northampton County youths to attend environmental education/adventure/discovery camps at the Chincoteague Bay Field Station.

Over $6,500 worth of prizes will be presented to registered participants in awards and drawings at the weigh-in, where there will also be musical entertainment by Thelma and Erika Peterson, and light snacks supplied by Janet's Cafe.

Youths 15 and under are eligible to fish for free in the Onancock Bay Challenge, while there is only a $25 entry fee for others. Adult plaques, youth trophies, and gift certificates will be awarded for the largest and second-largest entries in eight categories: spot, bluefish, flounder, gray trout, speckled trout, sand mullet, striped bass (from 20 to 28 inches long) and red drum (18 to 26 inches long).

Other sponsored awards include:

Best adult-caught fish – $600 cash award
Best Angler's Club member fish – $600 cash award

Best youth angler-caught fish – $600 cash award

All participants will be entered into drawings for dozens of valuable fishing-related prizes, leading up to the Grand Prize drawing worth more than $300.

Anglers must register prior to the event, and all people fishing from the same boat must be registered for the event. Fishing is with rod and reel or handline only, and begins at 6:30 a.m. Anglers have to present their fish to be weighed in at the Onancock Wharf by 5:30 p.m., and are encouraged to release anything that they will not eat or enter in the event. Oct. 13 is the alternate day in case of bad weather.

New this year are performance fishing shirts featuring Mark Susinno's original artwork of striped bass. These shirts will be available at the weigh-in site. Bay Challenge rules and registration forms are available at Sea Hawk Sports Center, Seaworthy Marine, K&E Marine, and the Onancock Town Office. ## VMRC Adopts Additional Striped Bass Protection Measures

By Bill Hall

On Tuesday, Aug. 27, 2019, the Virginia Marine Resources Commission passed additional regulatory measures affecting Virginia's commercial and recreational striped bass/rockfish fisheries. These "emergency actions" were in response to the Atlantic States Marine Fisheries Commission's (ASMFC) 2018 Striped Bass Benchmark Stock Assessment, which indicated that the biomass of East Coast striped bass (Maine to North Carolina) has been reduced due to overfishing and continues to be overfished.

The ASMFC has developed a list of potential options to reduce the East Coast striped bass catch by 18% in a document entitled "Draft Addendum VI to Amendment 6 to the Interstate Fishery Management Plan For Striped Bass," which can be found at http://www.asmfc.org/files/PublicInput/StripedBassDraftAddVI\_PublicComment\_Aug2019.pdf This document (one of the proposed options is expected to be approved in October) calls for an 18% reduction in the recreational catch of striped bass and a 1.8% - 18% reduction in the commercial catch, to reach the targeted striped bass population goal in 2020.

In addition to closing the Spring Coastal Striped Bass Trophy Season, Virginia has implemented the following recreational regulations:

The Chesapeake Bay Spring/Summer Striped Bass Season will begin on May 16 and run through June 15. The minimum length will be 20 inches and the maximum length will be 28 inches. There will be a one fish per person limit.

The Chesapeake Bay Fall Striper Season will begin on Oct. 4 and run through Dec. 31. The minimum size limit will be 20 inches and the maximum size limit will be 36 inches. There will be a one fish per person limit.

The Coastal (Seaside) Striped Bass Season will be open from Jan. 1 to March 31, then reopen on May 16 and run through Dec. 31. The minimum legal size limit will be 28 inches and the maximum size limit will be 36 inches. The limit will be one fish per person.

The public will have the opportunity to voice its opinion on these emergency regulations prior to the Oct. 4 Chesapeake Bay season opening during the public hearing portion of the September meeting of the VMRC in Newport News, Va.

Fishing from the Shore

By Bill Hall

It feels kind of surreal, typing this report while keeping an eye on the weather channel, hoping that a massive hurricane heads out to sea before it gets off our shores. A fishing report seems mighty minuscule in comparison to those that may lose life and property. Last week, we were feeling the effects of northeast winds; this week, the remnants of a one-time Category 5 hurricane. Mother Nature is not giving anglers much of a break.

Wachapreague – Captain Lindsay Paul told me that “everyone is packing up and getting out” when I spoke to him. Some were already scheduled to leave after Labor Day, others were worried about the possible effects of Hurricane Dorian. Paul said that there were a few flounder still being caught, with a good percentage being throwbacks. A significant portion of the croaker population seems to have departed since last week’s nor’easter. Captain Paul did guide angler David Lundblom to a 25.75-inch doormat flounder that weighed an even 6 pounds. Offshore, a few marlin were released and lots of dolphin were caught over the Labor Day weekend. Lindsay had not heard of anybody fishing the inshore wrecks this week.

Chincoteague – Donna Rae Roeske, at Captain Bob’s Marina, reported the fishing continues to greatly exceed expectations for this time of year, with some longtime anglers claiming that 2019 has produced the best local action in the last decade. Although flounder has cooled down over the last two weeks, anglers are still able to catch enough for dinner. The Chincoteague Channel and buoys 17, 19, and 21, as well as the Queen Sound Bridge, have been the areas that have received the most attention. Minnows with 5 to 6-inch Berkley Gulp have put the majority of keepers in the coolers. The pier at the Robert Reed Park has produced some larger croaker and a few flounder. Anglers fishing from the shoreline east of the Curtis Merritt Harbor have landed flounder, kingfish/whiting, and croakers. Fisherman’s Point is still holding a few Spanish mackerel. Anglers fishing in the surf of Assateague have been catching an assortment of small bottom fish, some Spanish mackerel, and a variety of sharks and rays. Sharks are still the dominant catch just outside the inlet and up off the Wallops Island surf. The inshore structures on Blackfish Banks produced an 8-pound flounder for Captain Kenny Cromwell. Cromwell was using an orange sparkle-colored Gulp with a jumbo live minnow. Wahoo to 55 inches and dolphin up to 25 pounds have been brought in from the offshore waters.

Jimmy Vasiliou, at Captain Steve’s Bait and Tackle, reported the Chincoteague Channel Bridge has produced rockfish to 32 inches, another large sheepshead, and a few more keeper flounder over the Labor Day weekend. The shop’s youth croaker tournament runs through Sunday, Sept. 8. At the time of writing this column, a 16.88-ounce hardhead was in the lead. Pete Vasiliou added croaker fishing has been good off Memorial Park and the downtown pier. He added the Saturday of Labor Day weekend experienced great offshore fishing as the shop registered citation catches with wahoo, blue-lined tilefish, and a white marlin release. Vasiliou had heard of a couple of small puppy drum showing up in the creeks but has not seen any brought in yet.

Lower Shore – Chris Snook, at Chris’ Bait and Tackle, reported that a population of spot has shown up south of Kiptopeke and are being caught in the same waters as sea mullet. Flounder fishing around the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel has been inconsistent due to the recent windy conditions affecting the clarity of the water. Big red drum are being released around the bridge-tunnel in the evenings, but cobia fishing is on the decline. A few spadefish linger around the bridge-tunnel pilings and around the fourth island. Speckled trout are being caught in the creeks on the seaside and the bayside, where small rockfish are also being reported.

Upper Shore – Alan Ring, at the Sea Hawk Sports Center, reported the Spanish mackerel fishing has been the hot ticket off Crisfield in the middle bay, the Puppy Hole, and near buoys 70 and 72. Most Spanish mackerel anglers have been trolling with Clark Spoons behind #1 planers or in-line sinkers. Ring said rockfish and speckled trout were being caught in the bayside shallows by anglers using paddletail plastics and jigheads. Salt-and-pepper-colored paddletail bodies with chartreuse tails have been the hot color pattern. Over on the seaside, Ring said flounder fishing was “still hanging in, but has become a little bit spotty” around the inlets since the northeast blow. Minnows or silversides tipped with Berkley Gulps have been the baits of choice for the flounder fishermen.

Learning About Ancestors is Awesome

By Linda Cicaira

Thomas M. Chandler, a native of Drummondtown, which later became Accomac, turned clay on a potter's wheel producing functional items like milk pans, pitchers, jugs, and even chamber pots, in the 1800s.

He was so good at it he has been referred to as "a master potter whose skills provided financier Rev. John Trapp (1798-1876) with the means to keep his pottery in operation." Chandler earned that praise from his work in South Carolina but he still manages to provide a source of pride from his native land.

The Miles files from the Eastern Shore Public Library website states, "The 1840 census lists Chandler as living nearby the proprietors of the Phoenix Factory, a stoneware manufactory," in South Carolina, where Chandler landed after being in the military and marrying a woman from Edgefield District, S.C.

Many of Chandler's creations have surpassed the test of time and were recently shown at a South Carolina museum, where Chris Chandler, a descendant who grew up in Onancock, visited in July and was awed.

"Thomas Chandler set a new standard and is pretty much known for changing the look and the fashioning of utilitarian stoneware pottery in the South," said Chris Chandler, who now lives in Norfolk. "I think that in itself is pretty amazing ... Who knew so much information was out there on a Chan-dlar who had been dead for over 160 years. And what an incredible life he led ... it was well worth the excursion to see this exhibit and to experience a piece of history that somehow links my DNA to this incredible and talented craftsman."

Chris Chandler plays blues and rock with the band HammerHead, from Portsmouth, Va., and the Shore group, Corn Funk Revue. He's been writing songs, playing guitar, and singing since he was a kid. So his kinship with his ancestor is natural.

Chris Chandler and his wife, Rita, got to the exhibit, which ended July 20, on the last day. "We talked with some folks who had driven all the way from Alabama to see it." They weren't fellow Chandlers. "They were just interested in his work. They then asked me if I was related and I held up my genealogy book and talked with them about the connection and growing up the Eastern Shore. It was pretty awesome! And to see that Eastern Shore exhibit sign and all, well, made me really proud to be a Shoreman."

Thomas Chandler's father apprenticed with a Windsor chairmaker in Baltimore. His uncles were also chairmakers.

Thomas Chandler worked at the Phoenix Factory for several years before partnering with Trapp. Pottery from both places is similarly decorated with iron slips. Thomas Chandler founded his own pottery in 1850, when an advertisement in the Edgefield Advertiser directed customers to Kirksey's X Roads, in Edgefield District. His jugs were marked "Chandler Maker, -- Warranted."

The Chandlers are also descendants of Capt. Edmund Scarborough, a burgess at Jamestown and Anthony West, one of the first families in Virginia.

Now Chris Chandler sometimes plays his music in Craddockville, at a chairmaker's studio. It's the Eastern Shore full circle. The modern musician, who is in his early 60s, bought a book about the potter while visiting the museum, but he has yet to learn what kind of musician Thomas Chandler was.

"When Thomas signed up for the militia in 1832, he listed his occupation as a musician, not as a potter," said Chris Chandler. "When I read that, the hair stood up on the back of my neck. Not sure why, but that little bit of personal info really made him truly real to me and ... well, family."

Railroad Service May Be Gone From Cape Charles, but It Is Remembered at Cape Charles Museum

Submitted Article and Photos

Times are changing in Cape Charles. There's downtown renewal, a surge in tourism, and the beach draws ever more bathers. And then there is the railroad.

Cape Charles was created by the railroad and sustained by it for most of the town's history. But last fall, Bay Coast Railroad, which had leased the railroad since 2006, formally ceased operations and ended more than 120 years of railroad service on the Eastern Shore.

It was announced that the Cape Charles Railroad yard would be cleared, with all its contents sold for scrap or otherwise disposed. The owners of the railroad, knowing the dedication of the Cape Charles Historical Society to preserving the town's railroad history, offered to donate any artifacts, including railroad cars, that could be moved within 90 days.

The historical society acquired five railroad cars, including the 2000 locomotive, the pilothouse off the Captain Edward Richardson car float barge, a locked safe dating from the New York, Philadelphia, and Norfolk Railroad (NYP&N) era, signage, and a host of other objects and documents that many longtime railroad employees helped identify.

Now the Cape Charles Historical Society is charged with keeping this history alive. All the cars and the pilothouse need costly repairs to preserve them and make them accessible and safe for visitors, as well as educational signage.

Historical society members hope the pilothouse will become a museum annex dedicated to railroad history.

But the acquisitions came at a price – about $30,000 so far. Moving the cars was complex, due to the deterioration of the railroad yard tracks; moving the pilothouse from the railroad yard to the museum cost $15,000, and the pilothouse needs a foundation.

The railroad will be the core of the Cape Charles Historical Society's 2020 exhibits.

Trade has always been essential to life on the Eastern Shore. People relied on commerce with markets in the north and across the Bay, with transport provided by log canoes and sailing vessels – the famous skipjacks and others.

With the coming of the railroad in 1884, trade quickly expanded. Shore farmers, watermen and businesses used the NYP&N to transport their products, and in return goods and visitors came south. Car float barges, elegant steamers, and later, automobile ferries, connected rail service to cities across the Bay. The Eastern Shore economy thrived from the late 19th century to the mid-20th century.

The NYP&N joined the famous Pennsylvania Railroad (PRR) and operated well into the 20th century, when it was passed on to several other railroad companies.

Founded and built in 1884 as the terminus of the railroad and the port from which the ships and barges embarked across the bay, Cape Charles bustled with activity for years. With four trains a day from New York and barges and two or three passenger steamers (later ferries) crossing back and forth, the town was a profitable intermodal transportation hub. Jobs on the trains, steamers, and the large railroad maintenance yard were plentiful and well-paying, drawing new residents.

But times changed. As automobile and truck transport replaced trains, the importance of the railroad to the Shore dwindled after World War II. In 1950, the ferries moved to Kiptopeke Terminal seven miles south. PRR steamer service ceased in 1953. Passenger trains stopped running in 1958. Ferry service across the bay ended with the opening of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel in 1964.

For much of the Cape Charles railroad's later life, it was the Eastern Shore Railroad, but in 2006 it was leased to Bay Coast Railroad by the railroad's owners, Canonic Atlantic Co.

Bay Coast operated the railroad line for industrial transport, but with insufficient business it stopped running trains in May 2018 and closed. In the past year, the former Cape Charles railroad yard, its associated buildings and remaining cars and tracks have been cleared in preparation for sale of

THE DETAILS

The Cape Charles Museum is open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m., Saturday from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m., and Sunday, 1-5 p.m.

Contributions to the Cape Charles Railroad Preservation Fund can be sent to the Cape Charles Historical Society, P.O. Box 11, Cape Charles VA 23310, or through its website www.capecharlesmuseum.org

Donations are tax-deductible. Volunteers are also welcome for a variety of projects. Call 757-331-1008 for more information.

the property.

Many newcomers and visitors may not have seen trains coming into town and the car float barges loaded with rail cars at the harbor, but they are why the small, charming town of Cape Charles is here. The railroad is the history of Cape Charles.

Now on site at the Cape Charles Museum are a modernized 1956 General Motors GP 9 diesel locomotive, nickel plate railroad caboose, Richmond, Fredericksburg, and Potomac baggage car, former GATX (General American Transportation Corporation) tanker, mid-century short boxcar, 1953 army surplus flatcar, and mid-1930s steamera short-sided gondola car. Three remaining historic gondola cars were donated to other museums. The pilothouse of the Captain Edward Richardson railroad car float barge is on the west side of the museum building. The safe has been opened and is inside the museum.

The Cape Charles Museum displays and archives have always contained lots of railroad history, and the historical society learns every day, from conversations with museum visitors and their comments left in the visitor register, how fascinating this history is to people; they thank the society for saving and displaying it.

The historical society hopes the community will participate in preserving this transformative railroad history by providing financial assistance and other volunteer efforts.

The Rosenwald Cape Charles Elementary School is still the featured exhibit at the Cape Charles Museum, but there are also railroad items, including models of the steamers and the railroad barge.

Health Matters Fetal Alcohol Exposure

Courtesy of the National Institute of Health

Fetal alcohol exposure occurs when a woman drinks while pregnant. Alcohol can disrupt fetal development at any stage during a pregnancy—including at the earliest stages before a woman even knows she is pregnant.

Research shows that binge drinking, which for women means consuming four or more drinks per occasion, and regular heavy drinking, put a fetus at the greatest risk for severe problems. However, even lesser amounts can cause damage. In fact, there is no known safe level of alcohol consumption during pregnancy.

Alcohol passes easily from a mother's bloodstream into her developing baby's blood. Alcohol present in a developing baby's bloodstream can interfere with the development of the brain and other critical organs, structures, and physiological systems.

Prenatal alcohol exposure is a leading preventable cause of birth defects and neurodevelopmental abnormalities in the United States. It can cause a range of developmental, cognitive, and behavioral problems, which can appear at any time during childhood and last a lifetime.

The most profound effects of prenatal alcohol exposure are brain damage and the resulting impairments in behavioral and cognitive functioning.

Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorders (FASD)

Scientists define a broad range of effects and symptoms caused by prenatal alcohol exposure under the umbrella term Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorders (FASD).

The medical disorders collectively labeled FASD include the Institute of Medicine of the National Academies (IOM) diagnostic categories:

- Fetal Alcohol Syndrome (FAS)
  - Partial FAS (pFAS)
  - Alcohol-Related Neurodevelopmental Disorder (ARND)
  - Alcohol-Related Birth Defects (ARBD)
- In addition to the IOM medical diagnoses, the latest edition of the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders (DSM-5) includes the psychiatric diagnosis, Neurobehavioral Disorder Associated with Prenatal Alcohol Exposure (ND-PAE). People who meet criteria for an FASD diagnosis according to the IOM may also meet criteria for ND-PAE.

The essential features common to the IOM medical diagnoses and the DSM-5 psychiatric diagnosis are prenatal alcohol exposure and central nervous system (CNS) involvement.

Evidence of CNS involvement can be structural (e.g., small brain size, alterations in specific brain regions) or functional (e.g., cognitive and behavioral deficits, motor and coordination problems). Advanced imaging studies have revealed differences in brain structure and activity that are consistent with data from neuro-psychological testing, including deficits in sensory processing, cognition, and behavior in persons with FASD compared to people without FASD.

FASD-Related Problems

Each individual with FASD experiences a unique combination of day-to-day challenges that may include medical, behavioral, educational, and social problems. People with FASD may have difficulty in the following areas:

- Learning and remembering
- Understanding and following directions
- Shifting attention
- Controlling emotions and impulsivity
- Communicating and socializing
- Practicing daily life skills, including feeding, bathing, counting money, telling time, and minding personal safety

Ruth R. Wise Scholarship Recipients

A scholarship fund established in memory of late educator and community activist, Ruth Wise, awarded five scholarships to local college students from the Eastern Shore.

In addition to academic and financial need requirements, students or their parents must be from the New Road Community. For those who are not from the community, eligible students may also attend Virginia State University, which is Wise's alma mater, or the Eastern Shore Community College where she was an instructor for nearly two decades.

Alexis Wilkerson, a sophomore at Hampton University, Kayshella Sturgis, a freshman at University of North Carolina – Greensboro, both directly descend from families who are or were in the New Road Community for many generations. They both will receive $1,000 scholarships for the 2019-20 school year. Prior to her attendance at Virginia Union University, Wyneka Bartol resided with her grandmother who lives in the New Road Community. She will receive a $500 scholarship as will Wise's grandson, Mahagee Wise, who will be returning to UMES in the fall.

Jaylen Smith is the brother of last year's Virginia State University scholarship recipient, Destiny Smith. Following in his sister's footsteps, Jaylen Smith is also attending Virginia State University.

Vasante Brothers will also be a freshman at Virginia State University this fall. "It would be a privilege to be awarded the scholarship named in honor of a great woman that gave so much of herself to her community," said Brothers.

By Linda Cicaira

There have been so many things to learn this year. Yes, I know there are still several months to go. But in my life, the year revolves around my birthday, which is Oct. 21, and that date is fast approaching especially since I begin the month-long celebration 30 days before the all-important day.

I read this year that a 90-minute special session of the General Assembly about guns and associated proposed bills cost taxpayers nearly $45,000 or $500 a minute. It's hard to believe that the cost of the session, where nothing much was accomplished, got little fanfare, but some people in Accomack are upset that children will be served a free lunch at school. I think $45,000 would have paid for a few meals. Don't you?

Eastville was listed as being among the top municipalities for issuing summonses that result in fines. The town's budget includes $252,556 in "law enforcement fines." Perhaps the town should be in charge of raising money for a new high school in Northampton County.

Then there is the skyscraper-sized asteroid set to pass near Earth on Sept. 14, that I haven't heard any conversation about. Okay, so it's not supposed to collide with Earth, but according to the Center for Near Earth Objects, this blob of rock is twice the size of the Empire State building. It could be a tourist opportunity. Is there anyone you'd like to blast onto the asteroid, for example? What an opportunity.

I think I'll look up in the sky when it passes or at least out the window. It will be going 14,361 mph and it will be about 3.3 million miles away or 13.87 times the distance between Earth and the moon. I have a feeling I won't see it but I can still shout, "It's a bird. It's a plane. Yippee!"

The asteroid crossed our path in 2000 and will do so again on Oct. 19, 2038, for my 80th birthday month extravaganza. It appears I'll still be working so maybe someone at the Eastern Shore Post will plan the party? Angie? Kimberly? Stef? I'm counting on you all.

And Yippee! That birthday lands on a Tuesday so it won't interfere with the Accomack Board of Supervisors' meeting.

In May, a 17-year-old girl was the first patient to ever receive a genetically engineered virus to treat a drug-resistant infection. Yippee! Perhaps this could be used to eradicate Lyme Disease. I haven't read any discussion about it but those who were not quickly diagnosed can dream, can't they? It would be an alternative to antibiotics.

July was the hottest month on record globally. Ugh! So where was it cooler? Parts of Scandinavia and western and eastern Russia had temperatures at least 2.7 degrees below average.

Did you know sleep problems are no better in space? It's true. Popular Science reports that NASA researchers have been studying the problem and have learned there is no snoring in space. That's got to help.

We have evolved quite a bit in a century. In the early 1900s, among the quackery being sold was radium pendants to treat rheumatism, all-natural radon water for vigor, uranium blankets for arthritis, thorium-laced medicine for digestion, radioactive suppositories for vitality, and thorium toothpaste. There were also perfumes, creams, facial powders, and lipsticks that contained thorium-chloride and radium.

The German company Burk & Braun sold chocolate between 1931 and 1936 that contained radium. The promotion stated that the chocolate made people younger.

Triple-distilled water with at least one microcurie of Radium-226 and 228 isotopes was manufactured between 1918 and 1928 by Bailey Radium Laboratories, of New Jersey. "Whether it be arthritis in its several forms, rheumatism, or gout, more than 30 per cent of all people past fifty are afflicted with disturbances of some sort in the joints. Though such conditions have resisted all other treatment, results are now possible with Radithor, not a drug the Modern Weapon of Curative Science."

On that note, I'm looking forward to 2020, which begins on Oct. 22.

Lunch Letter Prompts Responses

Dear Editor:

This is in response to the Aug. 30 letter about free school lunches.

Well, lady, let me tell you this: we are not in the same times you grew up in, if you have not noticed. Groceries do not cost the same. It is almost cheaper to buy a $29 smart phone from Dollar General than it is to feed your family for a week from Walmart, Dollar General, or Food Lion.

The assistance cards that you see being used, you are not sure if that is from the government or if that is child support. You are speculating. What you should be complaining about is why do criminals in jail get free three squares a day off the taxpayer dime, why do they get Blue Cross and dental coverage?

Your anger is geared in the wrong direction. We are not feeding these kids' parents, we are feeding the kids, and if we expect the Eastern Shore to grow, we have to give these kids every chance to do so, starting with a meal so that they can function while in class.

We should stop worrying about what others are doing and focus on making the Eastern Shore the best place it can be. That is why the Eastern Shore is so underdeveloped, because helping someone is a crime in these parts.

I am glad these kids are able to get free lunch. It's a help for most of Eastern Shore's children that live with their grandparents who may not feel like cooking breakfast due to their age or their moms have to leave home at 5 a.m. to go to work, so no, they did not get a packed lunch. Maybe she has not had a chance to buy groceries. You have no idea what a person's personal situation is so you should not comment on it. If you don't want to contribute, move, but I do not think these kids should suffer when we are going to be taxed for something else in it's place. I'd rather it be for the kids than for something else.

Post Office Mail

Terra Custis, Exmore

Dear Editor:

Since you feel our children don't deserve food, I'll make it really simple to understand. A single parent making $9 an hour for 40 hours is $1,440 a month before taxes, so take home is $1,200. Rent $700, $200 lights, $50 water, $200 food = $1,150 leaving $50 for the month. I didn't include health insurance, medication, car insurance, toilet paper, gas, or other necessities. School breakfast & lunch money comes from where?

Apparently you didn't do your research. Children cannot control their parents' money! You want us to teach our children that even if you do work to provide, you still don't eat because no one cares that you're hungry? That teaches them not to care. Shame on you! Teach them it's ok to let you kids go hungry because it's considered a handout. Did you consider some people just need a little help not because they're getting their nails done, because they paid their bills and have no money left!

I would love for you to visit the homes of children that have no milk, no cereal, and tell that child even though your dad worked all week there isn't enough money for food. Have you seen what minimum wage is? You may not mind your children or grandchildren going hungry, but I do.

What you wrote is very selfish, uncaring, and heartless. These are children. And you stated "in ancient times" all children had lunch money. You may still be in "ancient times," but our children of the world are not, and shall not be punished because some people still are!

Kelly Chapman, Cape Charles

Sale of KOA and Maui Jack's

Dear Editor:

This is in response to an article in an earlier edition about the sale of Chincoteague KOA and Maui Jack's water park ("Quail Run and Maddox Campground Sell").

This transaction is a deepening of the relationship between Blue Water Development and Sun Communities, Inc. Blue Water will maintain management and operations at both Chincoteague Island KOA and Maui Jack's waterpark, so our guests can expect the same first-class experience and service that they have come to love.
