Assateague beach move gets funding

Feds tab $17.7M for project to shift beach to wider area

BY CLARA VAUGHN
Eastern Shore Post

Plans to move the recreational beach at Assateague Island National Seashore have been decades in the making.

The project is one step closer to construction, thanks to $17.7 million in federal funding announced this week.

The money will help build a new access road, parking lot, boardwalks, and paving for a multiuse path to access a wider area of beach just north of the ribbon of public beach now in use, according to a joint release by Sens. Tim Kaine and Mark Warner Monday.

“We are thrilled to see these federal dollars go towards enhancing beach access at Chincoteague and Assateague – a project that will help preserve this natural trea-

Community organizers will hold a vigil for Erika Bailey on Saturday, June 17, more than two months after she was hit and killed by a vehicle on Nocks Landing Road near Atlantic.

Members of the public wishing to attend should meet at 3:30 p.m. at the Mary N. Smith Cultural Center near Accomac to convoy to the site of the April 12 incident, where there will be community speakers and a candlelight vigil for the 26-year-old mother who passed away.

The vigil is “a way of remembering Erika and being sure that the community does not forget that it has been over 60 days without any further action taken by the commonwealth’s attorney,” who is

Sheriff warns of telephone bond payment scammers

Northampton County Sheriff David L. Doughty Jr. is asking residents to be wary of telephone bond payment scammers.

He said the Northampton County Sheriff's Office will not be calling to request bond payments or personal information over the phone. Recently, several Northampton County residents have received calls from what appears to be the sheriff's office number. They are advised that they failed to report for a federal court summons and therefore need to pay a bond to avoid being arrested.

The sheriff's office number is being spoofed and the call is not really from the sheriff's office. Doughty advised the recipient of the telephone call to hang up. Do not provide your personal or financial information over the phone. People who believe they have been victimized can call the sheriff's office at 757-678-0458.

Lilliston sets re-election for Accomack treasurer

Accomack County Treasurer James A. Lilliston has announced he will seek re-election for the office of treasurer of Accomack County in the Nov. 7 election.

Lilliston has worked in the treasurer's office since May 2005 and won his first election in November 2019.

Lilliston said he is grateful for the residents of Accomack County and their support and kind words of encouragement during his first term.

"It is a great feeling when people visit the office and say, 'Keep up the good work.' It is certainly a team effort and I do not do it by myself," he said.

Lilliston said personal property and real estate collections have been positive since his term began and he looks to continue to improve on those efforts.

Lilliston said he is "thankful to the staff of the treasurer's office for all their efforts and all the various departments for being a great resource."

Lilliston said his office faced several challenges during his term but "nothing could have prepared us for COVID. It revealed to us changes we had to make regarding not only our office procedures but to the continuity of government."

Lilliston said he had the opportunity to assist with the Continuity of Operations Plan to ensure the county is as prepared as possible in the event of a crisis or natural disaster.

"Certain services must go on if a natural disaster or crisis occurs," he said.

Lilliston said he is proud that three of the six employees in his office are certified and accredited through the Treasurer's Association.

While not mandatory, certification means "we are practicing all the best policies that govern us under the Code of Virginia. It is time-consuming, especially with the regular duties the staff are responsible for, but staff is working to get it done."

Lilliston serves on the board at Burton's Chapel as one of the finance chairs. He is also a board member of the United Way of the Eastern Shore.

"I ask for your support and vote on Nov. 7 as I run for office again as your treasurer of Accomack County."

The Eastern Shore Post will print at no cost candidate announcements for county or state elections. The announcements should be no more than 450 words, are subject to editing, and may include a head-and-shoulders photograph. Free announcements will not be accepted after Oct. 1. Rotary Club looks for volunteer painters

The Historic Painting Crew of the Cape Charles Rotary Club seeks volunteers.

Anyone able to wield a paint brush or roller is invited to join the crew and its effort to paint the railroad caboose behind the Cape Charles Museum.

The crew meets at the caboose at 10 a.m. each Wednesday, weather permitting, and works for two hours. Other times may be scheduled as volunteers become available. Students seeking community service hours are invited to join.

Even those who prefer to paint from the ground are welcome. There's plenty of undercarriage to keep everyone busy.

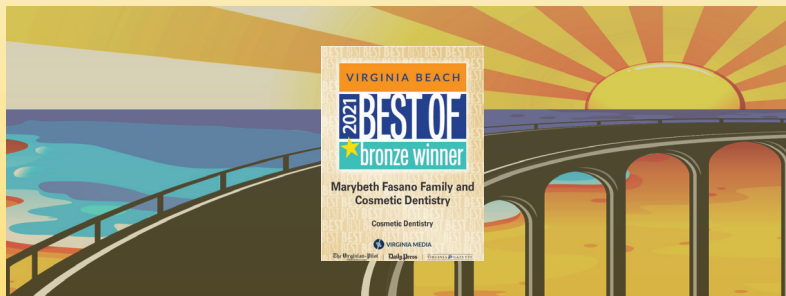

Organizers say it is called the Historic Painting Crew because "its members are so old that we're each historic." Call Jim at 443-944-7430 for details or visit www.capecharlesrotary.org

SERVING VIRGINIA'S EASTERN SHORE

THE PAPER'S POSITION

The local history lesson of the Juneteenth holiday

There will be Juneteenth celebrations in Accomack and Northampton counties on Saturday, June 17, as our area celebrates the freeing of enslaved African Americans. Juneteenth is Monday, June 19, and is a federal holiday, as befits a day of such significance and import.

That date — June 19, 1865 — became the portmanteau Juneteenth. The name and date commemorate the end of chattel slavery, an abominable and sinful practice directly in opposition to our country's objectives of liberty and freedom.

Juneteenth is an opportune time to reflect on the end of the national scourge of slavery, commemorate our country's stated commitment to freedom and opportunity for all, and look back on the odd way slavery ended on the Eastern Shore of Virginia.

The Eastern Shore was specifically omitted from the language of the Emancipation Proclamation, President Abraham Lincoln's momentous executive order that freed millions of enslaved people effective Jan. 1, 1863.

It is remarkable to consider Lincoln, viewed by historians as a president of the first order and a world leader of renown, writing by hand the names of our counties on the famous document. It is haunting to consider our counties' exclusion from the order, hence their mention.

The reason for exclusion: the Emancipation Proclamation freed the enslaved people in states occupied by the Confederacy. Our area was quickly occupied by the Union army at the dawn of the Civil War, meaning our enslaved people were not liberated by Lincoln's decree.

However, the enslaved on the Eastern Shore were liberated well before the welcome passing of the 13th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which ended slavery. They also were freed well before June 19, 1865 — Juneteenth — when the Union army arrived in Texas to announce freedom for the enslaved.

Eastern Shore counties were reporting to the reconstituted Union-supporting state government that abolished slavery on April 11, 1864 — a largely forgotten day here, but one of unrivaled importance.

Another view on a billboard under scrutiny

To the editor:

I write in response to the letter to the editor in the June 9 edition of the Eastern Shore Post, "Billboard is in poor taste," wherein the self-proclaimed God-fearing author decried the Historic Palace Theatre's billboard near the Kiptopeke Elementary School as being overly suggestive in its imagery.

I do not find the image to be as suggestive, let alone corruptive, as described. But that evaluation is both subjective and ancillary to my point.

In the letter the author asserts that "any sane, rational adult who is seeing what is going on in the school system throughout this country, and on children's television shows, and on the outfits available at Target, (sees) what this is — it's grooming."

Sane, rational adults fear neither God nor sexuality.

Sane, rational adults don't perceive plots to groom sexually at every turn, because adults

Likes use-your-own bag policy with Walmart pickup

To the editor:

Kudos to Walmart. Since I'm old and lazy and still a bit COVID shy, I usually pick up groceries.

Food Lion puts them in paper bags but Walmart used plastic.

I wrote Walmart about it and just noticed they have an option when you order online to use your own recyclable bags.

It worked out very well with the associate separating items like frozen foods.

We have a long way to go to eliminate polluting plastic.

Sooner is a lot better than later given, for instance, the impact on our oceans and sea life.

sure, provide visitors with a better experience, and generate more economic activity in the region,” the senators said.

“The beach is our lifeline,” said Chincoteague Mayor Arthur Leonard of the seashore that generates an estimated $150 million each year and hosts around 1.5 million visitors, according to the National Park Service.

“We’ve benefitted for 58 years from the beach being a national park and I don’t know what the town would be without it,” he said.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and National Park Service manage Chincoteague National Wildlife Refuge and Assateague National Seashore.

Fish and Wildlife staff, with Park Service input, applied for a grant last fall through the U.S. Department of Transportation’s Nationally Significant Federal Lands and Tribal Projects Program, which funds the construction, reconstruction, and rehabilitation of nationally significant projects in, beside, or accessing federal and tribal lands.

It is not the first time the agencies sought funding to relocate the recreational beach and its amenities, but it is the first time they succeeded in securing a grant.

The Bipartisan Infrastructure Law reduced minimum project sizes from $25 million to $12.5 million, allowing the Fish and Wildlife Service to secure funding for the first phase of the project.

Funding for the new access road, parking lot, and other amenities is a crucial first step, said Hugh Hawthorne, superintendent of Assateague Island National Seashore in Maryland and Virginia.

“The hardest thing for us to get funded was the roads and the parking, and we’ve got that now,” he said. “If the road’s not there, we can’t do the rest of the project.”

The exact scope of the project’s first phase depends on updating existing cost estimates, said Chincoteague National Wildlife Refuge Manager John Kasbohm.

National Park Service staff rebuild the Assateague beach parking lot after a September 2022 nor’easter. The Park Service spends between $300,000 and $600,000 annually to repair the parking lot after winter storms, but a move to a more stable location is in the works, thanks to a $17.7 million grant announced this week.

road,” he said of construction, but planning and permitting can begin once the NSFLTP funds are released in the coming months.

Plans to address Assateague’s shifting shoreline began decades ago. The 1993 Chincoteague National Wildlife Refuge Master Plan directed the Fish and Wildlife Service to coordinate with the Park Service and Town of Chincoteague to “identify a suitable off-site beach parking area to be used once the existing beach parking is lost.”

“It’s not been a surprise that the current beach has been repeatedly damaged and needed repairs,” Kasbohm said.

Barrier islands shift naturally, but the existing recreational beach is situated on “one of the most unstable portions of Assateague island,” he said.

Each year, the National Park Service repairs the parking lot’s almost 1,000 spaces at a cost of between $300,000 and $600,000, Hawthorne said.

“We have to rebuild the parking lot every spring because of storms over the winter,” he said.

“It’s only a matter of time before we have a major storm that completely destroys the location, and so the decision was made that ... if we were going to keep a public beach open, we have to move,” he said.

The new recreational beach is roughly 1.5 miles north of the existing national seashore. The island is wider there and offers more stability for the parking lot and other amenities, which will include boardwalks over the dunes, restrooms, showers, changing rooms, lifeguard stands and, eventually, a visitor contact station staffed by the Park Service.

The plans are based on a 20-year-minimum design.

“The infrastructure (for the new site) was kept out of the areas that were most susceptible” Kasbohm said. “We have much more time to deal with Mother Nature and these types of events.”

The move will also take beachgoers farther from piping plover and American oystercatcher habitat, making it “a win-win” for the wildlife refuge and recreational uses, he said.

“After nearly 20 years of work, we are finally seeing money put towards a federal project that has been shovel-ready for over five years,” said Accomack County Supervisor Billy Joe Tarr, whose district includes Chincoteague.

“My thanks is extended to our Honorable Senators Kaine and Warner, as well as the many years the Park Service has kept parking for us and our visitors,” he said.

Hawthorne said the agencies are “confident” they can secure funding to complete future phases of the project.

“The Park Service and Fish and Wildlife Service will be working really hard in the next six months to try to fill in the gaps,” he said.

Almira Watson

Mrs. Almira Parker Watson, 93, was called home to be with the Lord on Thursday morning, May 25, 2023, at her residence in Makemie Park. Born on March 31, 1930, in Accomack County, she was the daughter of the late Orville L. and Janie W. Parker.

Mrs. Watson

Almira, affectionately known as “Myra,” grew up in Makemie Park. She attended Accomack County Public Schools and in later years received her high school diploma at Wheaton High School in Wheaton, Md. under a special program.

Myra was joined in holy matrimony to Johnny Watson for many years.

In 1974 she moved to Washington, D.C., and became a recording clerk for Labor Union #74. She worked for the government as an associate representative for the metropolitan area for liberation of ex-offenders for D.C. Employment.

After her retirement in 1992, she worked as a recording clerk on several jobs, which included being an officer of elections in the D.C. metropolitan area, the A. Phillip Randolph Institute (APRI D.C. Chapter), encouraging people to register to vote. She was also a recording secretary for that organization for more than 10 years. She also worked for the D.C. Government Youth Equal Opportunity Employment program, where she was responsible for obtaining summer employment for young people by working with employers within the metro area to hire youth for the summer.

During Myra’s Christian journey, she joined Mt. Zion Baptist Church in Spotsylvania County, where she sang in the choir and was president of the Ladies Auxiliary for many years. She also attended Salem Baptist Church and became a member of the Intercessory Prayer Ministry. She also worked as a part-time employee at Royal Farms on Wallops Island for many years. Myra rejoined the Mt. Olive Baptist Church in Jenkins Bridge, under the leadership of the Rev. B. F. Burton and was ordained as a deaconess.

Funeral services were held on Saturday, June 10, 2023, from Mt. Olive Baptist Church, Jenkins Bridge, with the Rev. Brenda Peterson officiating. Interment was in the Groton Community Cemetery, Messongo.

Myra leaves to cherish fond memories: loving nieces and nephews; her cousin who cared for her, Arnold L. and Leona Parker of Chesapeake; Pastor Brenda Peterson, her devoted Pastor of Mt. Olive Baptist Church; and many cousins and her special friends.

Roger LaPlant

Mr. Roger Albert LaPlant, 70, husband of Kate Evans LaPlant and resident of Melfa, passed away peacefully on Thursday, June 8, 2023, at his home.

Born on Nov. 4, 1952, in East Hartford, Conn., he was the son of the late Edward H. LaPlant and Marjorie E. LaPlant.

Roger moved to the Eastern Shore over 30 years ago when he came to work with an old friend from Connecticut at Bobtown Nursery. He loved landscaping and could grow just about anything. He not only had a green thumb, but he also loved all things green – it was his favorite color. He could be seen working on his and his wife’s property in Melfa, listening to Frank Zappa and planting trees and plants around his pool. When he wasn’t pruning vegetation, he was tinkering on vehicles and grasscutters in his “Happy Place,” his garage. He even watched garage TV shows or auto shows with Kate and his kids.

He will be missed by all who knew him. Roger was a character. But his legacy will live on with his wife, children, and grandchildren.

He is survived by his wife of almost 25 years and children, Megan, Jason, Mary, J.L., and Christopher; brothers, Eddie, Gary, and Timmy, and their wives; 10 grandchildren; many best friends; and fur babies, Abby and Smoky.

Per Roger’s wishes, there will be no public service.

Stan Sieja

Mr. Stan Sieja, a familiar face on Delmarva, was lifted by angels from his easy chair in northeastern Wisconsin on May 22, after a long day of farming corn. Stan was 75. His life revolved around travel adventures, agricultural flying, his Catholic faith, and the family farm. A former Marine captain, he landed jets on aircraft carriers in the early 1970s. He was an agricultural pilot for many years on the Eastern Shore and at Chorman's Spraying in Delaware, where he was due to fly this summer.

On an icy day in 1985, Stan departed Onancock Creek on a 26' sailboat purchased from local banker George Schoolfield. He spent four years sailing around the world with no modern gadgets. A few years later, he took off from Johnson's airstrip in Onancock in a 1946 Piper and flew around the world, again with no modern technology.

Following more crop spraying stints and farming, he drove halfway around the world in a 1950s Willy's Jeep, completing that trip on a 1977 Harley-Davidson now on display in a North Carolina museum.

In 2017 Stan departed Cape Charles for a six-week sail to Portugal, encountering three hurricanes. Friends on the Shore and in Virginia Beach reported him missing to the Coast Guard. When asked what safety equipment he had on board, his friend Mary responded, "A rosary, a Bible and a flashlight." He was late for the religious event he planned to attend, so he turned around and spent another six weeks sailing back to Cape Charles, where he checked into a local B&B for a good night's rest.

Stan wrote three books, still undistributed, about his round-the-world journeys. While Stan was known as "Farmer Stan" in rural Wisconsin, in Delaware he was referred to as "Stanley Super Sonic Sieja."

He is survived by four siblings and admiring friends around the world who loved to hear his stories.

Arrangements were handled by Roubal Funeral Home with a Mass of Christian Burial celebrated at St. Augustine Catholic Church in Wausau-kee, Wis.

This will be the first official visit to Cape Charles by a tall ship since the tall ship festivals of 2012-2015, which brought thousands of visitors to the historic Chesapeake Bay town.

Tickets for two-hour Chesapeake Bay sails aboard Virginia are $60 per person. They may be purchased online at the following website:

<https://nauticus.org/events/schooner-sail>

The ship can accommodate up to 55 guests per sail. Private charters by clubs, corporations, and other organizations are also available. Visit the website <https://nauticus.org/explore/schooner-virginia> for more information.

The Virginia, a 122-foot gaff-rigged knockabout tall ship, is a modern replica of the last pure tall sail vessel built for the Virginia Pilot Association. The original ship sailed for the pilots from 1917 to 1926, training apprentice pilots in seamanship and navigation.

The modern Virginia was commissioned by the Virginia Maritime Heritage Foundation in 2005. It was sold to the Nauticus Foundation in 2016 and is docked along the Elizabeth River at Nauticus, where it is used in their programs as a platform for STEM and maritime education. It participates in major events such as Norfolk Harborfest and the Great Chesapeake Bay Schooner Race as well as in community service projects and with local maritime-focused nonprofit organizations.

Responding to an outreach by the Cape Charles Yacht Club, Nauticus has agreed to Virginia's visit to Cape Charles with a goal of furthering its mission here and garnering revenue to support its maintenance and activities.

investigating the case to determine whether the driver will face criminal charges, said Karen Downing, who is coordinating the event with others including Willie Justis, Marvin Giddens, and Shenita Davis.

"It's important to me, personally, being a mother, and to us, collectively, because of the trauma of the incident itself," Downing said. "When there is an accident, particularly involving a child, it's one that touches a lot of people."

Bailey died on impact around 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday, April 12, when she and her boyfriend, Duane Lee Turner, 39, were walking with her 6-year-old on Nocks Landing Road.

Driver Jessica Greenley Waterfield, 36, of Atlantic, was heading east in a sport utility vehicle when the SUV struck the family from behind, according to state police reports.

Turner and the child suffered serious injuries and were transported to the hospital, State Police Spokesperson Michelle Anaya said.

Neither speed nor alcohol were contributing factors in the crash, she said. Waterfield and her 3-year-old passenger were not injured in the crash, said Anaya.

Since April 12, an online petition advocating bringing charges against the driver has drawn over 3,000 signatures and posts with the "Justice for Erika" hashtag have circulated online.

Community activists and friends of Bailey rallied outside the Accomack courthouse on June 2, anticipating an answer from Accomack's commonwealth's attorney about whether Waterfield will face any criminal charges.

"A lot of people were waiting ... on that statement from his office," Downing said. "Nothing has definitively happened since the accident on April the 12th."

She said she has not spoken to the prosecutor.

Accomack County Commonwealth's Attorney J. Spencer Morgan is investigating the case to determine whether the driver will face charges in the incident.

He told the Post in an interview last month that charges are still pending an ongoing investigation and that the investigation is operating "on a normal timeline."

"One of the reasons we're taking so much time is we want to make the right decision," Morgan said.

Members of the public wishing to attend the vigil for Bailey should meet Saturday, June 17, at 3:30 p.m. at the Mary N. Smith Cultural Center, 24577 Mary N. Smith Road, off U.S. Route 13 near Accomack.

A police escort will assist the convoy in safely crossing Route 13 before it travels north to the site of the April 12 incident on Nocks Landing Road, where the vigil will take place, Downing said.

Attendees may bring battery-operated candles or other lights for the candlelight vigil.

The Help Needed to Succeed: Alexis Lazari

Alexis Lazari graduated from Accomack County Public Schools with honors, but was unable to continue her education after graduating due to serving as a caregiver for her family. Now a single working mom of an eleven year old son, Alexis began Healthcare Fundamentals at ESCC in Fall 2022. Alexis commented that “being a caregiver taught me early on that this was something I wanted to pursue as a career.”

She transitioned to Nurse Aide in Spring 2023 and recently completed Healthcare

“I am so appreciative of all the ESCC faculty and staff who helped me achieve my goals and the ESCC Foundation scholarships which helped me complete and impacted my mental health in a positive way.”

Ethics to earn her Career Studies Certificate. Nursing instructor Felicia Blake explains, “Alexis is extremely responsible, dedicates ample time to studying, and she had the highest grade point average in her classes.”

It’s been a big help to Alexis to be pursuing the same path as her sister Gena Mullen, who started at ESCC during COVID. “We’ve been a great support system for one another and we’re both excited to see each other having success reaching our goals.”

Alexis lives on Chincoteague so gas cards and help with childcare from an RSVP grant, as well as ESCC Foundation scholarships for tuition, have provided critical support to continue her education. She is enrolled in two summer courses to earn college credit and will carry a full-time load in Fall 2023. Her plan is to complete the Practical Nursing program in 2024 and continue at ESCC to earn her RN credential. Her goal is to become a registered certified nurse anesthetist.

She explains, “I am so appreciative of all the ESCC

faculty and staff who helped me achieve my goals and the ESCC Foundation scholarships which helped me complete and impacted my mental health in a positive way. I can’t wait to continue my journey at ESCC!”

Alexis is quick to point out to others how ESCC is here to help. She emphasizes that “the school works with you to balance the work, family, and costs. Somehow it all becomes manageable with Eastern Shore Community College.”

A first-generation college student, Alexis is the recipient of the Bill and June Wurtz Memorial Scholarship and the Miss Lucille Nursing Scholarship.

In Exmore, a $26.5M sewer project — and ‘hurt feelings’

BY STEFANIE JACKSON
Eastern Shore Post

Exmore’s sewer project has a budget of more than $26.5 million, which includes construction of a new collection system, installation of equipment, and a contingency.

The project’s funding has numerous sources, including:

- Up to $7 million in loans from the Virginia Water Facilities Revolving Fund of the Virginia Resources Authority

- $6.3 million in grant funds and a $3.2 million loan from the U.S. Department of Agriculture

- $8.3 million in American Rescue Plan Act grants

- $1 million in a Virginia Department of Housing and Community Development block grant

- $750,000 in grant funds from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Absent from the list of funding sources was an additional $750,000 that U.S. Sen. Mark Warner reportedly had attempted to acquire for the project.

During the May Town Council meeting, Town Manager Robert Duer had said the senator appeared to have “reneged” on his offer.

Former U.S. Rep. Elaine Luria had assisted in acquiring the $750,000 HUD grant, but Duer said the $750,000 that Warner had offered was from a “different pool of money.”

Warner’s press secretary, however, said in a subsequent email that the combined efforts of Warner, Luria, and U.S. Sen. Tim Kaine resulted in the single $750,000 grant award.

She noted that the federal government spending bill for fiscal year 2023 could not include two separate awards for one project, nor could it combine funding requests from the House of Representatives and Senate for one project.

Warner’s office “called and said I hurt their feelings,” Duer remarked at the June Town Council meeting.

But borrowing an extra $750,000 would cost Exmore another $3 a month per person – assuming the new sewer system serves 815 customers – over the course of 40 years.

“Now whose feelings should be hurt?” Duer asked. “And that’s the last thing we’ll say about it,” he said.

Exmore Director of Utilities Taylor Dukes said the $3.5 million loan forgiveness grant from the Virginia Department of Environmental Quality was not included in the sewer project budget because DEQ wants Exmore to spend all the “free money” first.

“They’re actually looking out for Exmore,” he said.

The town expects the sewer project will be completed for less than $23 million: about $18.5 million for construction, nearly $3.4 million for grinder pumps to process the sewage into a slurry before transporting it through the new collection system to a treatment plant, and about $1 million in contingency funds.

Dukes said a strongly worded reminder letter or “nasty gram” had been sent to Exmore property owners who still had not signed easements allowing the town access to their property for sewer system repair and maintenance.

Duer said, “The reason is if we don’t have the easements recorded at the courthouse, we don’t get the money” from the Virginia Resources Authority.

Dukes said the representative of Kevcor, the Norfolk contracting company on the sewer project, is “excited to go. They’re ready to move forward and get the project going as much as we are.”

Bay to Beach Trail, named in honor of Jack Tarr, set for dedication

BY CLARA VAUGHN
Eastern Shore Post

When work began on the John H. Tarr Bay to Beach Trail, leaders aimed to provide a safe connection between downtown Chincoteague and Assateague Island.

The town will celebrate those leaders, particularly John H. “Jack” Tarr — who served as Chincoteague’s mayor for almost two decades — during a trail dedication ceremony and bicycle ride Wednesday, June 21, at 2 p.m.

“It’s a long overdue dedication to Jack,” said Mayor Arthur Leonard, who replaced Tarr when he decided to not run for re-election.

“He gave the town 17 years of service. He led us through a long, long time and a lot of growth,” Leonard said.

Conceptual work on the trail began around 2015, when Tarr was serving as mayor. The goal was to improve road conditions and the connection between downtown Chincoteague and the Chincoteague National Wildlife Refuge.

“With the growth in the tourism industry ... we wanted to be able to provide a safe corridor for bikes and footpaths that wasn’t along the road,” Leonard said.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in 2017 awarded a $1.5 million grant for the project, completed two years later.

The trail running from the Chincoteague Volunteer Firemen’s Carnival grounds on Main Street along quiet back roads before feeding into Maddox Boulevard “eases some of the congestion on Maddox,” he said.

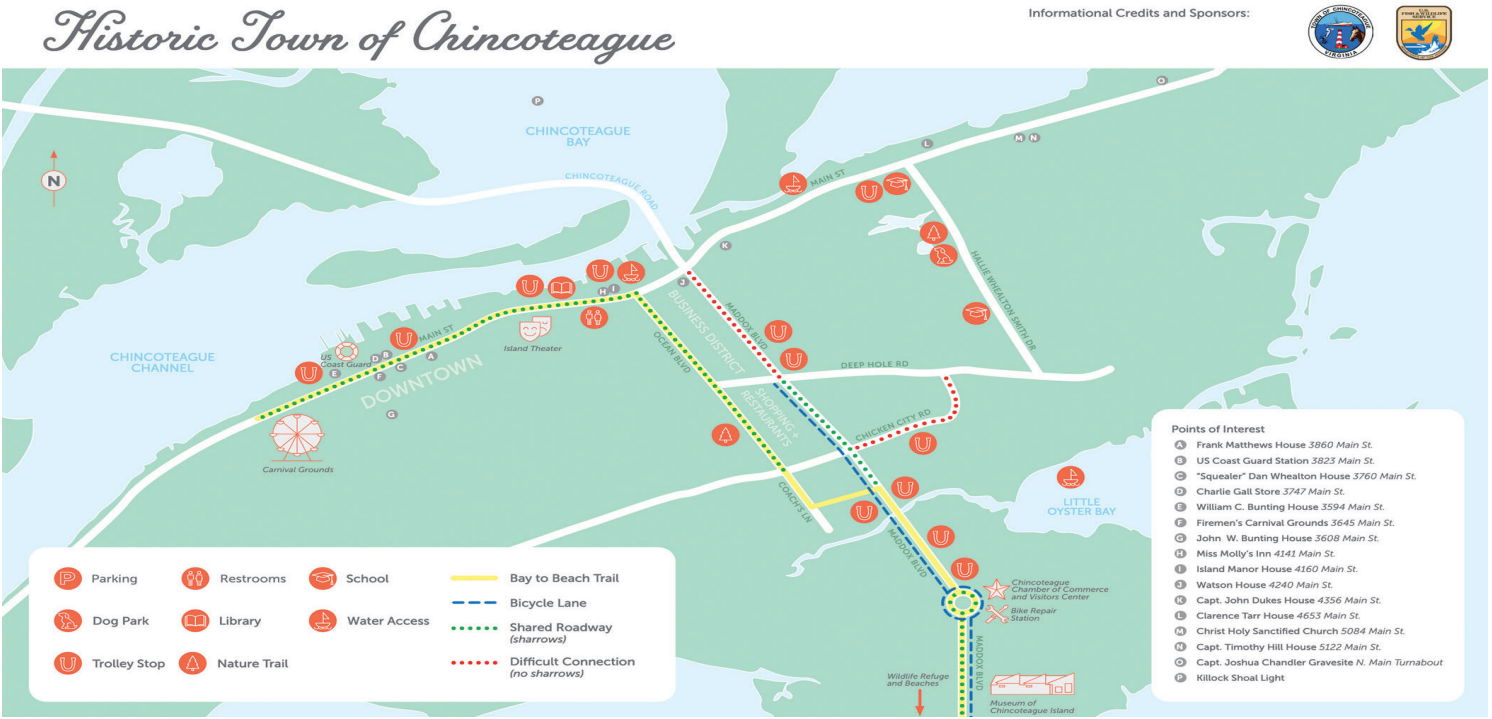

“It was all about perpetuating good access to the wildlife refuge,” Leonard said.

Chincoteague’s town council voted in 2019 to name the trail after Tarr to mark his years of service to the town.

“He did a lot for the town,” Leonard said. “He sacrificed a lot in those 17 years, so it’s well deserved.”

The dedication ceremony begins at 2 p.m. at the carnival grounds at 3648 Main St. A trail ride will follow the ceremony. Participants will be entered to win a new bicycle.

After the ride, there will a reception at 3:30 p.m. at the Town Office at 6150 Community Drive. The public is invited.

Juneteenth events grace Eastern Shore Saturday, June 17

BY CLARA VAUGHN

Eastern Shore Post

When Union soldiers arrived in Galveston, Texas, on June 19, 1865, enslaved people there received the news of their freedom. It was more than two-and-a-half years after President Abraham Lincoln signed the Emancipation Proclamation in 1863.

Known as Juneteenth, the date marks a milestone in U.S. history and is celebrated with family and community gatherings.

Accomack and Northampton residents can celebrate with free public festivals this weekend.

Celebrations kick off at 10 a.m. Saturday, June 17, in the Exmore Town Park with the annual Eastern Shore of Virginia Juneteenth Celebration. A Unity Parade starts at noon at the Fresh Pride plaza and travels down Main Street to join the festival.

Accomack County's Juneteenth celebrations begin at 11 a.m. the same day at the Mary N. Smith Cultural Center, on Route 13 in Accomac.

Festivities continue the next day, Sunday, June 18, with a Father's Day tribute and live music at the Do-Drop Inn in Weirwood from 4 to 7 p.m.

All three events are free and open to the public, though donations will be accepted at the door for Sunday's show at the Do-Drop Inn.

"It's continually growing," Jane Cabarrus, founder and coordinator for the Exmore Juneteenth Festival, of the Eastern Shore's Juneteenth celebrations.

"It's very important that we know where we've come from and where we are now," she said of the holiday.

Juneteenth is the oldest known celebration commemorating the end of slavery in the United States.

Long before former Gov. Ralph Northam declared the day an official state holiday in 2020 and it became a federal holiday in 2021, Juneteenth was a day for celebrating freedom through family and community gatherings.

The Juneteenth festival on the Eastern Shore began 24 years ago and continues this Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. with live music, food, games, free health screenings, educational booths, and more in Exmore's town park on Main Street.

The Gala Unity Parade begins at 12 p.m. in the former Fresh Pride plaza, at the intersection of Route 13 and Main Street, and will travel down Main Street to join the festival. Pastor Felton T. Sessoms will serve as parade Grand Marshal this year.

Live music by Frankie Davis, a gospel singer from Paris, France, begins at 1 p.m. in the park. R&B performers the Bridge Band, from Richmond, will play at 2 p.m.

On Sunday, Northampton's Juneteenth celebrations continue at the Do-Drop Inn with live music by the Down 'n Outs band from 4 to 7 p.m. Doors open at 3 p.m. at the establishment at 8204 Bayford Road, in Weirwood.

Donations will be accepted at the door and food will be for sale during the show, Cabarrus said.

"We continue to bring people together in diversity," she said of her father's dream for the Do-Drop Inn, which he opened in 1967. "We all could be together, laugh together, dance together, and have a nice time."

Accomack County's Juneteenth celebrations will be Saturday from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Mary N. Smith Cultural Center, 24577 Mary N. Smith Road, near Route 13 in Accomac.

The Accomack NAACP held its inaugural Juneteenth festival there last year and will continue the tradition with food trucks, vendors, children's activities, games, raffles, live performances, and more.

"It's just an opportunity for people just to come together," said President of the Accomack chapter NAACP David Sabatino. "We have a multicultural gathering of people."

Both counties' Juneteenth celebrations are free, family-friendly, and open to the public. The Drop Do Inn event Sunday is by donation at the door.

Local anglers welcome opening of 2023 cobia season

After a few weeks of having to release their catches, cobia fishermen welcomed in the opening of the 2023 season on June 15. Anglers targeting the hard pulling fish have enjoyed success sight casting live eels to surface cruising fish, as well as fishing chunks of bunker on fishfinder rigs on the bottom while chumming.

Upper Shore

The Sea Hawk Sports Center is hosting the “Michael C. Taylor Flounder Frenzy,” a two-day flounder tournament to be held on June 16 and 17, benefitting the National Down Syndrome Society. Additional information and registration can be obtained at the tackle shop.

Matt Abell and the staff reported that flounder fishing on the seaside improved with the recent clear water. Berkley Gulp in white chartreuse, pink, and salmon-red colors teamed with silversides on a Sea Hawk flounder rig have proven productive, especially from the last of the flood tide into the first half of the ebb tide.

On the bayside speckled trout numbers have not been huge, but their sizes have been impressive. Trophy-sized specks have come on peeler crab baits fished in the grass beds as well as artificial baits such as Mirrolures, Rapalas, and soft plastic paddletails.

Rockfish to 30 inches, and bluefish up to 25 inches have been hitting Rapalas cast over bottom structures.

Offshore, yellowfin tuna catches have come from the area between the Washington and Baltimore Canyons.

Justin and Colby Kavounas caught and released this cobia in the lower Chesapeake Bay.

Chincoteague

Jimmy Vasiliou, at Captain Steve's Bait and Tackle, reported that kingfish (whiting) fishing has been good inside the inlet. The shop weighed in a 6-pound flounder that was caught in Queen Sound.

Several boats ventured offshore over the weekend and were rewarded with limits of black sea bass on the offshore wrecks, with larger flounder caught over the inshore wrecks.

A 10-pound sheepshead was landed from the town's Main Street Pier. Most of the summertime panfish have made their local appearances in the surf, including spot, whiting, and pigfish.

A few large sharks have been landed in the Assateague surf, the largest measuring over 7 feet, according to Vasiliou.

Wachapreague

Amanda Ramos, at the Wachapreague Inn, reported that the charter vessel Teaser Sportfishing LLC had a very successful offshore trip last week, with a mixed catch consisting of nine yellowfin tuna, one dolphin (mahi), a skipjack tuna, a mako shark, and 12 tilefish.

Closer to shore, two guests caught their limits of flounder on Monday and Tuesday, while other guests had mixtures of keepers and throwbacks. The waters in front of the old Coast Guard Station were cited as one of the better flounder-producing areas.

Captain Lindsay Paul welcomed the return of good flounder action following the recent northeast winds. Limit catches have been made in clean water by anglers using Berkley Gulp and live minnows. Offshore, Captain Paul reported catches of sea bass on the wrecks, with tuna and a few dolphin (mahi) in the canyons.

Lower Shore

Jeb Brady, at Bailey's Bait & Tackle in Cape Charles, said that the fishing is getting better with the warmer weather, with spadefish becoming a huge target species over the last week.

Improved numbers and sizes of spades were reported from the Chesapeake Light Tower and the fourth island of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel. A few gray triggerfish were mixed in with the spadefish.

Large red drum continue to be caught and released along the lower barrier islands.

The Virginia recreational cobia season opened on June 15 and sight fishing anglers have enjoyed success casting live eels into the newly-arriving schools of fish cruising the surface. Flounder fishing has also improved with the more stable weather conditions.

tions, with catches reported around the Fisherman Inlet Bridge and in front of the concrete ships. Sand mullet (whiting) are staged over the Cabbage Patch and in front of the Kiptopeke breakwater. The lower bayside piers are producing small gray trout and croakers.

ON THE WATER

Bay and ocean deserve better

BY RUSSELL VREELAND

Guest Columnist

When you boat do you have a favorite spot for just hanging out, or for fishing, crabbing, watching the birds congregate, or going for a swim? Have you experienced the excitement of having a pod of dolphins playing in your bow wake as you travel? Or had a huge whale surface near you and watch you and your boat like the master of the realm checking out these new strange beings and their fragile craft? Aren't these happenings the stuff of family legends and stories for life?

But suppose they no longer happen. Suppose we have to look at the Chesapeake Bay or the ocean without any sea life. Right now, our oceans and bays are dying. They are filled with ghost crab pots and tons of fishing line that continue to catch and kill animals.

The unwanted fish killed during a harvest are called by-catch. In some areas and for some species, there are 10 pounds of by-catch for every pound of food. That cannot be sustained.

Also, all animals need oxygen, yet today agricultural and city wastes flow into the oceans and create areas without oxygen that become dead zones. The first dead zone was found in the Chesapeake Bay in 1970 and still exists today. In 2022 the entire U.S. Gulf Coast from Florida to the horn of Texas was a single continuous dead zone. This is a terrible human-caused situation. We must do better as the stewards of the waters on which we work and play.

These boating safety articles are produced by U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 12-02, which covers the entire Virginia Eastern Shore and needs your help. If you have a few hours to volunteer each year, call Russell Vreeland at 757-387-7530.

GOLF SCHOLARSHIP

David Hughes, pictured with his father Paul Hughes in photo at left, was the recipient of the inaugural Stewart R. Custis Memorial Scholarship. The scholarship is funded by Eastern Shore Yacht & Country Club members to honor Custis and his family. It is given to middle school and high school students ages 12 to 19 to provide opportunities for young and aspiring golfers to pursue their passion in the sport. Stewart Custis, an outstanding athlete in several sports, passed away in 2022 at the age of 46. At right is Grayson Ford, who received the ESY&CC Junior Scholarship given in honor of Custis. An anatomy of two wetlands restoration projects

Initiatives by The Nature Conservancy near Parksley and Exmore are examined

BY STEFANIE JACKSON

Eastern Shore Post

Since Virginia was first colonized in the 1600s, it has lost around 45% to 50% of its wetlands, and nonprofits like The Nature Conservancy are striving to save what remains.

Since 1995, the conservancy, a global nonprofit organization with land holdings on the Eastern Shore, has preserved and restored thousands of acres of wetlands in Virginia through the Virginia Aquatic Resources Trust Fund.

On the Eastern Shore, the conservancy maintains two restored wetlands sites: Level Ponds, near Parksley in Accomack County, and the new Custis site on U.S. Route 13 near Exmore in Northampton County.

Level Ponds, on the bayside, is approximately 12 years old and was created to offset the impact to non-tidal wetlands from the construction of Walmart in Onley.

The Custis site, on the seaside, was built to offset development in the Atlantic Ocean Basin, which includes parts of Virginia Beach in addition to Accomack and Northampton counties.

Nontidal wetlands

Most people are familiar with tidal wetlands like the salt marshes that are common across the Shore, but both of the conservancy's local mitigation projects are nontidal wetlands.

Nontidal wetlands often appear similar to other areas of land, especially during the dry season when they may have no standing water.

Wetlands, whether tidal or non-tidal, must meet three criteria: they must have the correct types of soils, plants, and hydrology.

A nontidal wetland cannot be identified simply by observation. The soils must be studied and identified by color and the land must remain inundated by water for at least 28 days during the growing season.

Despite its name, a nontidal wetland can appear completely dry, especially in the summer, but will often have standing water during the winter.

Project types

When construction will impact existing wetlands, state and federal agencies will require a plan to mitigate those impacts before issuing permits.

One option is for the developer to purchase offset credits from a wetland mitigation bank. One credit equals one acre of wetlands. The number of credits needed depends on the number of acres of wetlands impacted by the construction project.

A wetland mitigation bank first restores or builds wetlands and then sells the credits.

A second option is to purchase "advance credits" from an in-lieu fee program, so named because developers are paying others to perform the mitigation in lieu of doing the work themselves.

The offsets are called advance credits because they are sold before wetlands are restored or built. When the targeted mitigation project is complete, the credits are released.

TNC's Virginia Aquatic Resources Trust Fund is an example of an in-lieu fee program.

A third option is called permittee-responsible, in which the permitted parties, whether large firms or private individuals, are responsible for the wetlands mitigation.

This can be "incredibly more costly and time consuming ... and often less desirable or ecologically successful for the wetland resource," said Karen Johnson, the conservancy's director of wetland and stream mitigation.

Constructing wetlands

How does one construct wetlands? Through science, said Kati Booth, the conservancy's wetland restoration specialist.

Humans can't perfectly replicate nature, but by applying science, they can plant and grow a functional wetland.

Those qualified to construct wetlands are called "wetland engineers," said Johnson.

Wetlands engineers can be professional engineers, professional wetlands scientists, environmental scientists, biologists, ecologists, hydrologists, and geologists.

Choosing the project site

Farmer Phil Custis contacted the conservancy about a field he owned that was too wet to be productive enough to turn a profit.

The field was wetlands about 100 years ago and contained the hydric soils needed to support wetlands.

Level Ponds also was previously farmland and it is not uncommon for farms to be used as wetlands mitigation sites.

However, active farmland, which on the Shore often consists of bojac soils, is not desirable for conversion to a wetland.

Former farmland containing bojac soils that have been sterilized through saltwater intrusion could be possibilities for wetlands conversion, but wet soils like the nimmo at the Custis site are preferable.

The terms "construction" and "wetlands" may not sound like they go together, but converting a farm field back into a wetland is similar to a construction project.

Like a construction project for a school, office building, store, or restaurant, a wetlands mitigation project is designed and engineered by professionals.

Private company Resource Environmental Solutions was the engineer for the Custis site. The company is a wetland mitigation banker but did not work on the Custis project in that capacity.

A map of the site is drawn and includes a "planting palette," a chart of all the species of grasses, shrubs, and trees to be planted and the number of each to be planted.

EASTERN SHORE POST/STEFANIE JACKSON

The Custis wetlands mitigation site near Exmore is in the early stages of growth. The berm visible to the rear eventually will be covered with vegetation and blend into the landscape.

Heavy equipment was brought to the Custis site to remove the topsoil, dig down about 1.5 feet to reach groundwater level, and then replace the topsoil.

The spoils were used to build a seven-acre berm around the site. The berm prevents "hydrologic trespass," which is wetting or flooding adjacent properties that are not part of the mitigation project.

More than a dozen species of wetland and upland trees and shrubs were planted, including loblolly pine, willow oak, red maple, blackgum, and persimmon.

Both wetland and upland herbaceous seed mixes were planted, including grasses such as Indiangrass and Virginia wild rye and flowers like common milkweed and blackeyed susan.

The site also was designed with several depressional ponds that will fill with water and attract shorebirds and other wildlife.

Community benefits

Kelley Galownia, the conservancy's media relations manager, said wetlands mitigation sites benefit not just developers but the entire community by protecting both property and the drinking water supply.

The idea that property near wetlands is at increased risk of flooding is a misconception, Galownia said.

Wetlands protect property from flooding by acting as sponges that soak up and hold rainwater.

Wetlands also filter the water that flows into rivers and streams. More wetlands mean cleaner drinking water.

Conservancy's role

The Virginia Aquatic Resources Trust Fund is administered through a partnership of the conservancy, the Virginia Department of Environmental Quality, and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Norfolk District.

DEQ and the corps of engineers are involved in permitting and regulations, but the conservancy's focus is on the location, design, construction, and management of the wetlands mitigation sites.

As a nonprofit, the conservancy does not pocket any leftover funds from a wetlands mitigation project. The money is returned to the aquatic resources trust fund, which is monitored closely, like a grant.

The Custis site is a 26-acre parcel worth 18 offset credits. Each credit costs $100,000, for a total value of $1.8 million.

The conservancy has spent more than $1 million constructing the Custis site and over the 10-year monitoring period will replant native species and remove invasive species as necessary.

The conservancy will ensure the wetlands are protected through a Virginia Eastern Shore Land Trust conservation easement.

Northampton returned to play in the Virginia High School League Class 1 boys soccer championship game for the second consecutive year. But this year, the team brought home the big trophy.

The Yellow Jackets defeated Westmoreland High School, 4-1, in the state championship game at Salem High School in Salem on Saturday, June 10.

"The goal was to get back to the state finals," said

Coach Chase Baxa after Northampton lost last year's state championship game to Galax High School.

In Saturday's game, Northampton had goals from Luke Jones, Martin Montalvo, Diego Montalvo, and Kevin Maldonado.

It is the school's first team athletics championship since Northampton's wrestling team won the state title in 1995.

Northampton's soccer squad earned a berth in the title game on Friday, June 9, with a satisfying semifinal win over Galax — the school it lost to in last year's championship.

Northampton also won the match, 4-1, with two goals from Anthony Castillo, and one goal apiece from Manuel Montalvo and Thomas Dix.

Baxa said the players on the bench were just as talented as those on the field, and that he had confidence all season long that any combination of players on the field could win.

He also has confidence in next year's team, and emphasized this year's team saw contributions from upperclassmen and underclassmen alike.

"It was a super-special group. They carried each other," Baxa said.

Yellow Jacket girls fall in state semifinals

Northampton's girls soccer team made it to the state final four but ran into stiff competition in Salem, falling to Eastern Montgomery, 9-0 on Friday, June 9.

Eastern Montgomery was the eventual state champion, winning the title the following day.

Still, Northampton players represented themselves well at the state level as several Yellow Jackets earned all-state selections.

Jacqueline Santos was named first-team all-state as a forward.

Second team all-state selections were Edith Palacio, Ryan Jones, Abigail Locklear, and Johans Molina.

Date set for next Northampton graduation: Thursday, June 13, 2024

BY STEFANIE JACKSON
Eastern Shore Post

The Northampton School Board decided in a unanimous vote to hold next year's high school graduation on Thursday, June 13, 2024, a date that will not require any student to choose between two milestone events.

This year's commencement was re-scheduled twice due to scheduling conflicts with the Virginia High School League's state finals in track and field. Northampton High School graduates received their diplomas on the afternoon of Sunday, June 4.

Students shouldn't have to "make a choice between two extremely momentous occasions in their life," Superintendent Lisa Martin told the school board in April.

School board Chair Liz Jones had said changing next year's graduation date was a "no-brainer," but choosing the new date was not so simple.

At the May 28 school board meeting, Martin noted that next year's VHSL state finals will conclude on June 8, and Accomack County's two largest high schools, Arcadia and Nandua, will hold their commencement ceremonies on June 10 and June 11, respectively.

She suggested Northampton High School also hold its graduation on Tuesday, June 11.

School board member Charlena Jones was amenable to the idea but preferred a later date to avoid potential scheduling conflicts for grandparents or parents who may have one child graduating from Nandua and another graduating from Northampton.

Wednesday, June 12, also was suggested as a possible graduation date, but Jones pointed out that many local churches have services on Wednesday nights, which would create yet another scheduling conflict.

Martin said she would contact Accomack County Public Schools to determine the time Nandua High School's graduation will be held and if it would conflict with Northampton High School's graduation. The matter was tabled.

When the school board reconvened on June 8, Martin proposed rescheduling the 2024 graduation to June 13, 14, or 15.

The consensus of the board was to choose Thursday, June 13, 6 p.m., before the last day of school on Friday, June 14.

The last week of school will consist of half days for students.

"I like June 13 because it gives the seniors some type of incentive ... finish the day early, graduate ... before the rest of everybody else finishes," Jones said.

Northampton school board meetings are typically held on the second and fourth Thursdays of every month, which could pose a conflict, but Martin said the June 13, 2024, school board meeting could be re-scheduled or the graduation could serve as the evening's school board event.

It will be the first time in years that a Northampton High School graduation will not be held on a weekend.

Eastern Shore Public Library's Summer Reading Program begins June 20

Thanks to donations, the Friends of the Eastern Shore Public Library will be sponsors of the Children's and Youth Summer Reading Program, which will run from June 20-Aug. 11.

Megan Gallipeau, the Eastern Shore Public Library's youth services librarian, has a slate of activities lined up for the participants.

The program will kick off on June 20 with a visit by the Salisbury Zoo to the Accomack Library. The Salisbury Zoo on June 26 will visit the Nassawadox Library.

There are a variety of activities planned for all ages, from story time to a reading scavenger hunt for the youth.

There will be prizes for reaching reading goals, and a raffle and pizza party to wrap up the summer of reading fun.

Visit espl.org/kids-and-teens/ for more details on activities and times and locations.

Nandua Middle wins at FCCLA state competition

From April 13 to 16, members of the Nandua Middle School Family, Career and Community Leaders of America chapter attended the Virginia State Leadership conference.

Four teams competed in STAR Events, with three receiving outstanding ratings, resulting in the opportunity to represent the state FCCLA at the national level in Denver, Colo., July 1 to 6. STAR stands for Students Taking Action for Recognition.

The contests focus on rubric-based criteria and are highly competitive. Competitions are task-oriented and require problem-solving.

"We had so many great things going on for a chapter active for only two years. Four of our members were chosen to work as assistants with state contest judges and seven out of nine presenters were chosen for nationals. This is remarkable for a new chapter," said Jennifer Kidwell, the chapter advisor.

State winners going to nationals are:

■ Community Service Project Display: Bryan Morales-Chan, Zada Smith, and Brianna Zavala, who created "The Clothesers," a team dedicated to organizing and running an in-school clothes closet with impressive monthly stats keeping students with dress code violations in class, as well as doing laundry for students, repairing clothes, and giving away clothes for want and need. With the help of NMS staff and community donors The Clothesers outfitted over 40 students for the winter formal.

■ Food Innovations: Shelby Fitzgerald (president) and Reagan Rice, who created the Cookie Cutter Café, inventors of a low-sugar, sugar cookie targeted to the middle school audience. Their project tied into diabetes awareness.

■ New Chapter Website Design: Antonio Baines and Parker Shotwell integrated 100% student photography into an educational website about Nandua Middle's burgeoning FCCLA chapter, the benefits, and how new members can join.

State STAR Event attendees were: Antonio Baines, Da'Quais Harmon, Shawn Harmon, and Adrian Mills.

Saylor Saunders and Bella Lane, competed in the Food Innovations category, but landed two points shy of going to nationals.

All members were vital in the chapter's success in attending the VA State Convention, as well as key community members. The chapter raised funds for their expenses with the help of Chef Linda Wessells at the Oyster Farm Eatery in Cape Charles, which gave a sizeable donation to the group for working at their annual ESVA Soup Cook Off. Community members who learned about the chapter activities at the Soup Cook Off also donated.

FCCLA President Shelby Fitzgerald said, "Our success is because we support each other and, as soon as others see us in action, they support us. It's been an incredible experience about the power of community."

The trip to Denver is supported by ACPS, but each student needs to raise money for meals and costs associated with VA delegation activities.

Civic groups, businesses, or individuals who would like to donate are encouraged to contact Kidwell at 757-787-7037 for details.

Town could get electric vehicle charging stations

BY CLARA VAUGNN
Eastern Shore Post

Chincoteague Island could get electric vehicle charging stations in the near future.

Town Manager Mike Tolbert met with leadership of A&N Electric Co-operative last month to discuss the potential charging station at the municipal parking lot downtown.

“We had been thinking about this for some time,” he said during the Chincoteague Town Council meeting last week.

“It’s town-owned. It’s centrally located. It’s near some attractions, which will allow people to go patronize some of the businesses in town while their vehicle’s charging,” he said of the potential charging site.

ANEC is applying for grants that would fund the construction of the charging station, which would have capacity to charge two vehicles at a time, Tolbert said.

He also asked ANEC staff to develop a cost estimate to install a second charging station with the same capacity, allowing four cars to charge at once.

Paving underway

Seasonal paving projects are underway on Chincoteague Island.

Contractors have completed most paving work along Woodland Drive and Maddox Boulevard, and are continuing work on Cropper Street, said Public Works Director Wes Parks during his report to the Chincoteague Town Council last week.

Town workers also repaired a sink-hole on Maddox Boulevard, he said.

They discovered and repaired a leaking water line along the street, but further investigation revealed a storm drain leaking in the same hole, Parks said.

“That is actually tide water coming out of the storm drain pipe, and that’s with the pump running,” he said. “It’s just an extreme amount of water that’s leaking out of that storm drain.”

“Eventually we’re going to need to tackle that issue, but it was good that we found it when we did,” Parks said.

New moorings unfunded

Chincoteague was not successful in its application for funding from the Virginia Port Authority’s Aid to Local Ports Program to install new floating dock moorings at the Robert Reed Waterfront Park downtown.

“Unfortunately, this year, there were a lot of projects,” said Tolbert during Chincoteague’s town council meeting last week.

“The town has been very successful in obtaining grants from Virginia Port Authority’s Aid to Local Ports program” in the past, he said.

The Chincoteague Harbor Committee will meet in the fall to pick a project to submit for the funding next year, Tolbert said, adding that he believes the Robert Reed park project would be a competitive future application.

Boat ramp open

A new boat ramp at Veteran’s Memorial Park opened last month.

“It’s a great improvement to the old one that was down there,” Mayor Arthur Leonard said during Chincoteague’s town council meeting last week.

SCHOLARSHIPS AWARDED

On May 31 Dockside Properties awarded three scholarships as part of the company’s 3rd annual scholarship program. One of Dockside Properties’ main goals is to give back to the communities it serves. This year’s winners include Kathleen McAuliffe of Nandua High School, Walter Coulthard of Holly Grove Christian School, and Kendyl Farrell of Chincoteague High School. The partners, agents, and staff of Dockside Properties were present to celebrate and award these students at the Dockside Properties office on Maddox Boulevard on Chincoteague Island. Agriculture Week is celebrated

Gov. Glenn Youngkin has proclaimed June 11 to 17 as Virginia Agriculture Week, to recognize and celebrate the Commonwealth’s agricultural community. The Virginia Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services encourages the public to join in recognizing the Commonwealth’s largest private industry by purchasing locally produced agricultural goods.

“Virginia’s agricultural industry contributes over $82 billion to our economy, with more than $43 billion in value-added impact, and provides over 381,000 jobs throughout the Commonwealth. Virginia’s agricultural producers are vitally important as they provide the food, fiber and fuel we use every day,” said Youngkin. “I encourage all Virginians to applaud and support the state’s agricultural community.”

According to the USDA National Statistics Service data, the Commonwealth is home to approximately 41,500 farms that cover 7.7 million acres in the state. Virginia’s diverse agricultural production includes livestock, field crops, fruits, vegetables, poultry, dairy, greenhouse and nursery, aquaculture, and vineyards. When compared with other states, the Commonwealth ranks among the top ten in the nation for several commodities, including third for the production of leaf tobacco; fourth for seafood landings; sixth for turkeys, apples, and pumpkins; eighth for peanuts; and ninth for broilers measured in head and pounds.

In 2022, Virginia exported more than $5 billion worth of agricultural and forestry products to markets around the world, including Canada, Egypt, China, United Kingdom, Venezuela, Switzerland, Mexico, Japan, Vietnam, and Taiwan.

“Virginia farmers and agribusinesses play a critical role in providing a safe, abundant, and affordable food and fiber supply, and function as a growth engine and source of jobs throughout rural Virginia. The industry also provides green spaces, recreation, tourism, flood mitigation, improved water quality, soil stabilization, land preservation, and wildlife habitat,” said Virginia’s Secretary of Agriculture and Forestry Matthew Lohr. “I hope all Virginians take the opportunity to show appreciation for Virginia’s agricultural community by thanking farmers and choosing Virginia Grown products.”

Eyreville now listed on the Virginia Landmarks Register

Among 11 places newly listed in the Virginia Landmarks Register are a historic district featuring one of the nation's few remaining pedestrian-only downtown streets, an Eastern Shore estate that includes what experts believe is the oldest colonial site to be excavated on the Delmarva Peninsula, one of the earliest premier golf resorts in the Shenandoah Valley, and a rare surviving company coal town from the early 20th century.

The commonwealth's Board of Historic Resources approved the Virginia Landmarks Register listings during its quarterly public meeting today.

The register is the commonwealth's official list of places of historic, architectural, archaeological, and cultural significance.

In Northampton County, the bay-side estate of Eyreville sits on the west side of U.S. Route 13, occupying a flat neck of land that extends into Cherrystone Inlet, which opens onto the Chesapeake Bay.

The 6.5-acre property includes the main historic dwelling, several outbuildings, an ornamental garden, and a recorded multicomponent archaeological site, which experts in Virginia believe is the oldest colonial site to be excavated on the Delmarva Peninsula to date.

The Eyreville estate revolves around a two-and-a-half-story brick mansion featuring three distinct sections built in 1800, 1806, and 1839. While the dwelling was initially completed in 1800 in the Federal architectural style for one of its owners, William L. Eyre, Greek Revival- and Colonial Revival-style additions and alterations were added in later decades.

Documentary and archaeological evidence reveals English colonists may have settled at Eyreville as early as 1623, but the first recorded occupation dates to 1637, when the first English colonist associated with the property, John Howe (ca. 1594-ca. 1638), patented the land.

From the 17th and 18th centuries to the turn of the 20th century, Eyreville was owned by families of high social, economic, and political standing, including the Kendalls and the Eyres.

In 1942, Eyreville was acquired by Guy L. Webster (1885-1976), who owned one of the largest canning businesses in the nation during the mid-20th century.

Webster, who used Eyreville as a private home and social space for entertaining guests, made upgrades to the mansion, including a rear colonnade that connected to an indoor swimming pool, and added many surrounding outbuildings as well as a formal garden.

Ongoing archaeological work suggests Eyreville possesses the potential to yield additional sites, features, and artifacts that could further inform the study of early Chesapeake society, trade relations between the colonies and Europe, and other research topics related to exploration, settlement, and architecture.

IN HEAVEN,
REESE!

I hope you can feel the love I'm sending your way. No matter how old I get, your special day will always be the most special day of the year for me. And I will always celebrate you.

Not only would you officially be an adult - you would also be graduating from high school and headed off to college in the fall. That's why I treasure this photo of your kindergarten graduation at St. Jude and feel blessed that you were able to wear a cap and gown and experience the pride of graduating.

I'm often reminded of your grit and grace when I hear the words to your favorite song, The Climb...

There's always gonna be another mountain, I'm always gonna want to make it move. Always gonna be an uphill battle, sometimes I'm gonna have to lose. Ain't about how fast I get there, ain't about what's waiting on the other side...It's the climb.

Thank you for teaching me how to climb, my sweet angel. I will never let today become just another day, it will always belong to you.

Happy 18th Birthday!
Love, Mom
