'Remember to carry as you climb'

Federal judge Jamar Walker, a Shore native, gives address as more than 1,000 attend ESCC graduation

BY TED SHOCKLEY
Eastern Shore Post

Twenty years after U.S. District Judge Jamar K. Walker graduated from Nandua High School, he was back on a local stage with graduates.

But this time, Walker wasn't receiving a degree — he was offering advice to more than 360 students who earned diplomas and certifications at Eastern Shore Community College's 53rd annual commencement on Wednesday, May 8.

Walker told them in his commencement address that advancing on the ladder of success comes with a responsibility to help others.

"Remember to carry as you climb," he said.

On a warm afternoon in a parking lot shaded by tall pine trees on the college campus in Melfa, more than 1,000 attendees applauded Walker and other speakers.

Graduates donned black robes and mortarboards and a brass band played.

College President James Shaeffer had the graduates recognize the attendees, saying "many of you in the audience played a big

Bird Club plans seaside boat trip

The Eastern Shore Bird Club is having a seaside birdwatching boat tour with Capt. Meriwether Payne on Tuesday, May 21.

The event will allow participants to get a close look from the water at the birds of the barrier islands.

The trip will include a visit to the wild, undeveloped lagoons and marshes behind the islands, home to an abundance of seabirds and shorebirds, including the American oystercatcher, Whimbrel, terns, gulls, and raptors.

Trip times are 8 to 11 a.m., 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., and 3 to 6 p.m.

It is recommended that participants be at the boat ramp at least 10 minutes prior to departure

Participants can meet at the Wachapreague boat ramp, 32 Atlantic Ave. The program is $20 per person. Each time slot is limited to six participants. Always be prepared for the sun, bugs, and the weather.

Reservations are required with trip leader by text or phone. Contact Payne at 757-710-2454.

School board OKs teacher signing, retention bonuses

BY STEFANIE JACKSON
Eastern Shore Post

The Northampton school board unanimously approved bonuses of $2,000 each for newly recruited teachers and $2,500 for current teachers who sign contracts for next school year.

Past recruitment and retention bonuses “have been intended to help alleviate teacher shortages and to fill vacancies in specialized and certified instructional positions,” said Chief Financial Officer Brook Thomas.

Those teaching positions are directly linked to mitigating learning loss from the COVID-19 pandemic, she said.

The new round of bonuses is different from bonuses that were given last year to all Northampton County Public Schools staff and were funded by the American Rescue Plan Act, Thomas said.

Last year, returning Northampton teachers who had not qualified for a state-funded retention bonus received a $2,500 bonus from the school division in September.

New teachers who started work by August 2023 received a $2,000 recruitment bonus.

Those bonuses were given to all full-time staff who were paid by the teacher pay scale and were licensed by the Virginia Department of Education, including reading specialists, speech language pathologists, school psychologists, school social workers, and behavior intervention specialists.

Thomas said she had just received notice that Northampton schools will receive state funding for teacher recruitment and retention bonuses and may not need to pay for this year’s bonuses with federal funding from the third round of Elementary and Secondary School Emergency Relief, or ESSER III, as originally planned.

The plan for 2024 bonuses included 25 teacher recruitment bonuses of $2,000 each and 125 teacher retention bonuses of $2,500 each.

Thomas proposed paying for the bonuses with nearly $54,000 in federal Title I funding and about $234,000 in ESSER funding.

The bonuses will be paid to teachers before Sept. 30, the deadline to spend ESSER III funds.

The school board raised concern about teachers who may receive bonuses and then resign before the end of the school year.

Thomas said it would not benefit the school division to require a teacher to return a bonus because no local funds are involved and the money would have to be returned to the federal government.

Northampton school officials noted that 2024 likely will be the last year in which the recruitment and retention bonuses are offered because they are provided through temporary funding sources that will soon expire.

Thomas anticipated identifying funding and presenting a proposal for bonuses for other school staff in May, but teachers are the top concern.

She said, “This really is our priority, making sure that we do everything we can do to get licensed, highly qualified teachers in the classrooms with our students.”

Town's $11.75M budget includes Maddox sewer line

BY STEFANIE JACKSON
Eastern Shore Post

Chincoteague's proposed budget for the 2025 fiscal year that begins July 1 is the town's biggest budget ever, at nearly $11.75 million.

That includes around $2.6 million in grants, a total that was pushed "unusually high" by about $1.1 million in American Rescue Plan Act funding for Chincoteague's future public sewer system, said Town Manager Mike Tolbert on Monday, May 6.

Tolbert reported that in April, the town received the first documents on the design of the sewer collection system from the Salisbury, Md., architectural and engineering firm Davis, Bowen & Friedel Inc.

The sewer line will be 11,700 feet long, starting at the Sunset Bay treatment plant on Main Street, continuing along Main Street and Maddox Boulevard, and ending at the Museum of Chincoteague.

Tolbert expects all construction documents for the sewer system to be complete in October, allowing adequate time to put the project out to bid, award a contract, and encumber the $1.1 million in ARPA funds before the Dec. 31 deadline.

Chincoteague's projected revenues for FY 2025 include $1.3 million in meals taxes and $2.2 million in transient occupancy taxes from lodgings such as hotels and motels.

These taxes combined make up about 30% of Chincoteague's total annual revenue.

Real estate taxes generate about $675,000 in revenue — "not quite as much as you would think," Tolbert said.

All taxes collected annually on Chincoteague Island equal almost $4.7 million — only 40% of the town's total revenue.

Projected expenditures for FY 2025 include $2.6 million for the public works department, or 22% of all expenditures for the year, which is "artificially high" because of the sewer project, Tolbert said.

Chincoteague's general government expenses will edge out public works in FY 2025, with $2.7 million in projected expenditures.

The town's police department and emergency services department each will cost approximately $1.4 million to operate.

Of every dollar Chincoteague is set to spend in FY 2025, 43 cents is for payroll, 24 cents is for capital projects (including the sewer system), 21 cents is for operations, and six cents is for purchase services like trash collection.

About three cents of every dollar spent will promote tourism, and two cents of every dollar will be saved in the town's reserve fund.

Chincoteague's debt payments will be only about one cent of every dollar the town spends.

"That is unusually low for ... an entity with an $11 million budget, and that is something to be proud of," Tolbert said.

In addition to the general fund, the budget contains two enterprise funds, public water and the town harbor; and two hybrid funds for the Chincoteague Center and trolley service.

The largest expenses in each of the four additional funding categories are: about $381,000 for payroll for public water, around $359,000 for fuel at the harbor, about $143,000 for Chincoteague Center operations and payroll, and roughly $54,000 for trolley service payroll.

role" in the success of the graduates.

The graduates, he said, "are proof of the potential we hold so close to our hearts."

Walker, who took his oath of office last year as a federal judge in the Eastern District of Virginia, earned his undergraduate and law degrees from the University of Virginia.

At Nandua, he was a four-year class president. He cited the influence of the late Carla Savage Wells, a Nandua teacher and forensics coach, in organizing a speech entitled "Carry The Banner, Carry Your Fears, Carry As You Climb."

"I didn't come from a family of lawyers and doctors," he said. "I didn't come from money. I didn't come from the big city."

He said none was required for success. But he added: "Once you get to wherever it is you're going, carry those who come behind you."

Walker also spoke lovingly of his nephew, Kentrelle Walker, who is a case manager at the college and who introduced his uncle as the keynote speaker.

Jamar Walker thanked the college "that has been so important to someone who is so important to me."

Also speaking was Jackson Thierfeldt, the college's student government president and a resident of Hallwood.

"I want to follow in your footsteps," Thierfeldt, a first-year student, told the graduates.

His advice was to get involved.

"No matter where you go next, take initiative," he said.

Shaeffer said the college's enrollment has had an increase of 17%, the highest of any school in the Virginia Community College System.

The Rev. Keith Moody Jr., of Cape Charles Baptist Church, gave the benediction. Paul Weitzel, a longtime former assistant professor at the college, was named professor emeritus.

Commencement marshals were Margaret P. Bennett and Bonnie Nordstrom, both nursing faculty who are retiring from the college.

2023 Annual Drinking Water Quality Report Chincoteague Bay Trails End Association

PWSID No. 3001140

INTRODUCTION

This Annual Drinking Water Quality Report for calendar year 2023 is designed to inform you about your drinking water quality. Our goal is to provide you with a safe and dependable supply of drinking water, and we want you to understand the efforts we make to protect your water supply. The quality of your drinking water must meet state and federal requirements administered by the Virginia Department of Health (VDH).

Este informe contiene información importante acerca de su agua potable. Haga que alguien lo traduzca para usted, o hable con alguien que lo entienda.

For information pertaining how you may participate in decisions regarding your water supply you may contact:

Mr. Samuel K. Merritt
Chincoteague Bay Trails End Association

757-824-3428 ext. 6

GENERAL INFORMATION

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or human activity.

Contaminants that may be present in source water include:

- Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations, and wildlife;
- Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally occurring or result from urban storm-water runoff, industrial or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming;
- Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban storm-water runoff, and residential uses;
- Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban stormwater runoff, and septic system;
- Radioactive contaminants, which can be naturally occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

Drinking water, including bottled drinking water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, the EPA prescribes regulations which limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. Food and Drug Administration regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water, which must provide the same protection for public health.

MCLs are set at very stringent levels by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. In developing the standards EPA assumes that the average adult drinks 2 liters of water each day throughout a 70-year lifespan. EPA generally sets MCLs at levels that will result in no adverse health effects for some contaminants or a one-in-ten thousand to one-in-a-million chance of having the described health effect for other contaminants.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by cryptosporidium and other microbiological contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

SOURCE OF YOUR DRINKING WATER AND TREATMENT

The source of your water is ground water. The Trails End water system receives its water from three wells located within the Trails End subdivision. Your water is routinely treated with chlorine.

The Virginia Dept. of Health conducted a Source Water Assessment of the Waterworks in 2020 on wells that are inactive. The wells that are currently in service have had Source Water Assessments conducted. The assessments in 2020 found the well to be of low susceptibility. The assessment report consists of maps showing the Source Water Assessment area, an inventory of Known Land Use Activities and Potential Conduits to Groundwater utilized at Land Use Activity sites in Zone 1, Susceptibility Explanation Chart, and Definition of Key Terms. The report is available by contacting your waterworks system owner/operator at the phone or address included in the CCR.

WATER QUALITY RESULTS

Contaminants in your drinking water are routinely monitored according to Federal and State regulations. The EPA requires that Table I reflect monitoring results for the period of January 1, 2019, through December 31, 2023. The state allows us to monitor for some contaminants less than once per year because the concentrations of these contaminants do not change frequently. Some of our data, though accurate, may be more than one year old. Only the most recent sample results from the prescribed period are reported. The table lists only those contaminants that had some level of detection. Many other contaminants have been analyzed but were not present or were below the detection limits of the lab equipment.

DEFINITIONS

In this report you will find many terms and abbreviations you might not be familiar with. The following definitions are provided to help you better understand these terms:

- Non-detects (ND) – Lab analysis indicates that the contaminant is not present.
- Parts per million (ppm) or milligrams per liter (mg/L) – One part per million corresponds to one minute in 2 years, or a single penny in $10,000.
- Parts per billion (ppb) or micrograms per liter (µg/L) – One part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.
- Action Level (AL) – The concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.
- Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL) – The highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.
- Maximum Contaminant Level Goal (MCLG) – The level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.
- Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level (MRDL) – The highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.
- Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level Goal (MRDLG) – The level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.
- Treatment Technique (TT) – A required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.
- Level 1 Assessment – An evaluation to identify the possible presence of sanitary defects, defects in distribution system coliform monitoring practices, and (when possible) the likely reason that the system triggered the assessment.
- Level 2 Assessment – An evaluation to identify the possible presence of sanitary defects, defects in distribution system coliform monitoring practices, and (when possible) the likely reason that the system triggered the assessment in a more comprehensive investigation than a Level 1 assessment.
- Sanitary Defect – A defect that could provide a pathway of entry for microbial contamination into the distribution system or that is indicative of a failure or imminent failure in a barrier that is already in place.

A note about lead in drinking water: If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. We are responsible for providing high quality drinking water but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at <http://www.epa.gov/safewater/lead>.

A note about arsenic in drinking water: While your drinking water meets EPA's standard for arsenic, it does contain low levels of arsenic. EPA's standard balances the current understanding of arsenic's possible health effects of low levels of arsenic, which is a mineral known to cause cancer in humans at high concentrations and linked to other health effects such as skin damage and circulatory problems.

A note about nitrate in drinking water: Nitrate in drinking water at levels above 10 ppm is a health risk for infants of less than six months of age. High nitrate levels in drinking water can cause blue baby syndromes. Nitrate levels may rise quickly for short periods of time because of rainfall or agricultural activity. If you are caring for an infant, you should ask for advice from your health care provider.

Drinking water does not play a significant role in sodium exposure for most individuals. Those that are under treatment for sodium-sensitive hypertension should consult with their health care provider regarding sodium levels in their drinking water supply and the advisability of using an alternative water source or point-of-use treatment to reduce the sodium. For individuals on a very low sodium diet (500 mg/day), EPA recommends that drinking-water sodium not exceed 20 mg/L. The World Health Organization has established a drinking water guideline of 200 mg of sodium/L on the basis of aesthetic considerations (i.e., taste). On July 26, 2022, our water had a sodium content of 55 mg/L.

No E. coli was detected during the year.

All water systems are required to comply with the state Total Coliform Rule. Beginning April 1, 2016, all water systems were required to comply with the federal Revised Total Coliform Rule. The new federal rule maintains the purpose to protect public health by ensuring the integrity of the drinking water distribution system and monitoring for the presence of microbials (i.e., total coliform and E. coli bacteria). The U.S. EPA anticipates greater public health protection as the new rule requires water systems that are vulnerable to microbial contamination to identify and fix problems. Water systems that exceed a specified frequency of total coliform occurrences are required to conduct an assessment to determine if any sanitary defects exist. If found, these must be corrected by the water system.

SYSTEM ASSESSMENTS FOR TC+ - No assessments were required for this system for this reporting period.

SYSTEM ASSESSMENTS FOR EC+ - No assessments were required for this system during this reporting period.

VIOLATIONS – There were no violations for this system during the reporting year.

SERVING VIRGINIA'S EASTERN SHORE

THE PAPER'S POSITION

Embracing the Eastern Shore's growing diversity

Some changes on the Eastern Shore in the past quarter-century have been very obvious. Cape Charles has become a showplace. Wallops agencies, initiatives, and contractors have grown in exciting ways. Eastern Shore tourism has flourished. Our summer highway traffic on weekends has become unbearable.

There's also one big change in our community in the last quarter-century much less talked-about than rocket launches and ecotourism. The Eastern Shore is home to a growing number of Hispanic and Haitian families.

People who work in education and health care are well-aware of this burgeoning segment of our population.

Some among us, however, are completely unaware of this demographic shift — and seem maladapted to it. The words and actions of some folks — even some elected officials — toward immigrants certainly are discordant with the Eastern Shore's "You'll Love our Nature" slogan.

In selected instances, there hasn't been much love shown to immigrants. It makes our nature seem insular and exclusionary.

But facts are facts: Almost 25% of students in Accomack County schools are Hispanic or Latino. In Northampton County Public Schools, there is almost the same percentage of Hispanic students as White students. This population is growing on the Eastern Shore.

We would all do well to embrace this cultural shift, celebrate our growing diversity, and try to find commonalities and understanding.

That's a much better tack than just saying "the Shore is hurting because of immigrants," and then making fun of their living conditions, as Accomac's town mayor recently did. These ridiculous statements showed her to be out of step with the present and future of the Eastern Shore.

Serve immigrant families in need

To the editor:

When I read the April 26 headline "40 kids and their 60 vehicles and their 30 dogs" and Accomac Mayor Pat Smith's words targeting immigrants in the April 26 edition of the Eastern Shore Post, I gasped.

Of course, each of us in the United States has a right to our opinions, and the First Amendment gives us the right to express them.

Still, it was distressing that someone in a position of power would make such hurtful comments and shocking that she would do so at a public meeting.

I wonder if Smith has ever really stopped to ask herself why immigrants who are new to the Eastern Shore might live in deplorable conditions. I wonder, too, if she thinks of these immigrants as human beings.

Those of us who were raised in the church know that Jesus commands us to welcome the stranger.

And everyone familiar with the Golden Rule understands that targeting vulnerable people is wrong.

Newly arrived immigrant families living in awful conditions are doing so because they are struggling.

They are from countries whose governments protect the rich and the well-connected, while the larger populace is left to fend for itself and is often at the mercy of rebels and corrupt authorities.

Smith is right about one thing: We should do more than complain about the living conditions of our new neighbors. We can take action.

Rather than targeting immigrants, we can stand on the side of these newcomers, welcoming them with compassion and a smile.

We can contact organizations that work with the Shore's immigrant populations and find out what we can do to help.

We can teach English, offer a ride to an appointment, share our seldom-worn clothing, donate food, advocate on behalf of immigrants to our friends and neighbors, support the construction of low-cost housing, and contact our area representatives.

We can be part of the community of Shore residents who are blessed to experience the rewarding feeling of serving immigrant families in need.

Online college-roommate services help students

To the editor:

As someone who is transferring to a four-year college next fall, I'd like to provide some perspective on using online services to choose a roommate. This is in response to the column, "During college acceptance time, two ideas for students," in the May 3 edition of the Eastern Shore Post.

It is apparent how divided our modern society has become. From political views and socioeconomic status to splits along the lines of gender, ethnicity, and race, the American people struggle to find common ground on many issues.

I agree with Pamela Paul — interacting with someone outside of your group is the one great "social leveler."

Being exposed to different ideas helps you grow into a critical and independent thinker; which, in my opinion, is what college should be about.

However, living with the constant struggle of a "bad" roommate adds to the stress of an already daunting transition.

Abigail Sullivan Moore writes in her article "The Science of Roommates" about the impacts of a positive living environment on students' mental health: "(F)eelings are contagious. Each happy friend a person has increases that person's probability of being happy by 9%."

If we surround ourselves with positivity, then we are more likely to feel more at ease ourselves.

Overall student happiness isn't the only category that is affected by a "good" roommate. In a study by Grand Canyon University, researchers found that students who were more satisfied with their living situation often completed the year with a higher GPA.

Having the ability to choose a roommate has certainly changed how modern students think about the college transition.

Still, for many of us, I believe these online services to be beneficial. Isolating yourself into one social group does not help students grow, but college is far from isolating.

We attend lectures with diverse people across campus, struggle with different work styles on assigned group projects, and join clubs to experience new opportunities. Picking when we choose to step out of our comfort zone seems to fare students better than being foisted into the unknown.

With so much change, we still need a stable ground to stand on, and choosing someone we're comfortable with as our roommate provides us exactly that.

With appropriate treatment, opioid deaths can be reduced

To the editor:

Many thanks to Northampton County Sheriff David Doughty and Northampton High School for hosting the recent presentation on the fentanyl epidemic.

The presentations by the Drug Enforcement Administration and Northampton Commonwealth's Attorney Jack Thornton were particularly informative and frightening.

Brian Bloedel's letter to the editor last week pointed out that law enforcement, though essential, is not able to contain the problem and changes must be made with our society's demand for drugs of many sorts.

But in the meantime, it is important that we do our best to save lives.

The prevalence of opioid use disorder in the U.S. is conservatively estimated to be greater than 2%.

This doesn't sound like much but that would be about 900 cases in our two Eastern Shore counties.

Currently fentanyl is the primary illicit opioid used either on purpose or through counterfeit pills or heroin.

We currently have very good treatment for opioid use disorder, both medicine (which protects from overdose) and therapies, but we are reaching less than 20% of those who need it.

Let me be clear: With appropriate treatment, the risk of opioid overdose death is reduced by 400%.

Yet 80% of those afflicted are not in treatment.

The reasons for this are many — including the stigma of being identified as an addict and the fact that some are not yet able to give up their addiction.

For these reasons, in addition to the longstanding abstinence-based treatment modality identified with 12-Step groups, the treatment community now offers a "low barrier" approach to engaging people in treatment.

No longer is it necessary to give up all substances immediately. We recognize that complete abstinence, though recommended, is not possible for many.

No longer is it required to participate in groups or treatments that you do not feel are for you in order to get life-saving medication.

The important thing is to get people in treatment to prevent overdose. No longer can we wait until people get to rock bottom in order to be ready to change.

Fentanyl can kill on the first exposure so rock bottom can no longer be the point of intervention.

The Eastern Shore Community Services Board and other local providers have committed to get you or your loved one into treatment and on life-saving medication the day that you call or come in for help.

Please come in and always carry Narcan — you may save the life of one you love.

Doris Merritt

Mrs. Doris Virginia (Carmean) Merritt, 91, wife of the late Elton L. Merritt Sr., passed away peacefully on Sunday, April 28, 2024, at Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital in Onancock. She was a native of Eden, Md. and resided in Cape Charles. She was the daughter of the late Homer Sidney Carmean and Betty Virginia (Townsend) Carmean. Doris was a member of the Full Gospel Church and a volunteer member of the Cape Charles Fire Department for many years.

Mrs. Merritt

Doris leaves behind a legacy of love, kindness, and boundless generosity. She was a pillar of strength for her family and a beacon of light for all who crossed her path. Doris lived a very active and fulfilling life, leaving behind many cherished memories for all her family.

As a devoted mother of seven, she poured her heart and soul into nurturing her family and instilling each one with the values of compassion, resilience, and integrity that will last for generations to come. Along with raising her family, she worked for over 20 years at the Meatland grocery store as the head cashier and later did managerial office work. Because she enjoyed working with the public and meeting new people, she returned to work after retirement and continued working part time until she was 88 years old. With a warm smile and welcoming demeanor, she touched the lives of people from all over.

She enjoyed sitting at the beachfront watching the sunset and chatting with friends, old and new. She loved cooking and baking big holiday meals for her family. If you wanted to put a smile on her face, all you had to do was take her to play bingo and visit the casinos. You could always find her at her favorite slot machine, The Pink Diamond.

She is survived by her children, Mary Phipps (David), Elton L. Merritt Jr., Timothy Merritt (Karen), Teresa Wayman (Bart), Christopher Merritt (Lisa), and Angela Merritt Rosa (Niva); two brothers, Riley and Jimmy Lee Carmean; one sister, Vera Mae Diaz; 15 grandchildren, Derek Abraham, Kris Abraham, Renee Landon, Christina Bonniwell, Elton Merritt Jr., Logan Merritt, Timmy Merritt, Lindsay Merritt, Jeff Wayman, Matt Wayman, Shannon Merritt Castaneda, Laura Merritt, Hunter Elliott, Heather Elliott, Misti Rosa, and Chris Elliott; 20 great-grandchildren, Alyssia, Taylor, Marrison, Tyler, Natalya, Natalie, Aiden, Evelyn, Olivia, Isaac, Haven, Chance, Malachi, Chayce, Ethan, Isaac, Keely, Elijah, Carmelo, and Lia; and two great-great-grandchildren, Kairo and Avalei. Doris will be fondly remembered for her unwavering devotion to her family. She will be deeply missed.

She was predeceased by a daughter, Lillie Merritt Parker; a grandson, Geoff Abraham; a granddaughter, Meranda Merritt; a great-grandson, Wyatt Merritt; a brother, Albert Carmean; and two sisters, Thelma Breyer and Susie Taylor.

A memorial service will be held at Full Gospel Church in Cape Charles on Saturday, May 11, at 2 p.m., with Pastor Randy Lewis officiating. Visitation at the church will be one hour prior to the service. A reception will follow at the church's recreation hall.

Town sewer upgrade is ahead of schedule

BY STEFANIE JACKSON
Eastern Shore Post

Exmore's sewer project is on track to be completed ahead of schedule.

"Downtown is done," said Town Manager Robert Duer on Monday, May 6. "It's actually amazing to see.

"Our neighboring towns with sewer projects, the streets are torn up," but Exmore's main sewer lines are in the ground, he said.

About 300 feet of sewer mains are left to install, Director of Utilities Taylor Dukes clarified. Then the installation of the lateral sewer lines will be completed.

Kevcor, the Norfolk contracting firm heading the project, has billed Exmore for about 63% of the work to be done but has used only 37% of the time allotted.

"So they're well ahead," Dukes said.

The Exmore Town Council on Monday night unanimously approved the latest payment to Kevcor, approximately $1.27 million.

The council also voted to accept four installments of sewer project funding: three payments from the Virginia Department of Environmental Quality totaling nearly $575,000 and almost $390,000 from the U.S.

Department of Agriculture.

Dukes reported that Exmore's old sewer treatment plant is "completely offline," and the Virginia Department of Health is working to remove a consent order it had imposed on the town due to the limitations of the sewer plant.

Exmore could provide sewer service to only 350 customers under the consent order. The town's new sewer system will serve approximately 900 homes and businesses.

Enabled by a partnership with the Hampton Roads Sanitation District, Exmore designed its sewer project to include only a new collection system. The town does not need a new sewer plant because HRSD will transport Exmore's wastewater through the collection system to Onancock's treatment plant, which has excess capacity.

Duer informed the Town Council that Exmore has more than $1 million remaining in American Rescue Plan Act funds that must be spent by Dec. 31.

He said about $490,000 of those funds will pay off the debt on the town's old sewer system, and roughly $100,000 will pay for engineering services.

Duer said remaining funds may be used for repairs such as replacing the main valve on Exmore's water tower.

"That's a major job, and it's out of our hands. We've got to hire that out to be done," he said.

The Town Council consented to staff submitting requests for bids for the repairs.

In other news:

■ The Town Council consented to the Foodbank of the Eastern Shore's Mobile Food Pantry using Exmore Town Park to serve food bank clients. The food distributions in the park will take place on the second and fourth Wednesday of every month, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

■ A public hearing on Exmore's equalized tax rate will be held at the town hall on Monday, May 20, at 7 p.m.

Nandua keeps Arcadia in check over the board

BY THOMAS MOSKIOS

Special to the Eastern Shore Post

History was made on Tuesday, April 30, when over-the-board chess matches were played between Arcadia and Nandua high schools and middle schools. In both matches five players from each school were paired up according to their ratings on chesskid.com, an online chess program that all the chess players participate in.

Each player had 25 minutes with a five-second delay on each move to complete the game. The five pairs of competitors each played three games for a total of 15 games per match. The school with the most wins out of those 15 games was declared the winner.

The lineup for the high school match was: Board 1 — Jonathan Mumford (Arcadia) vs. Ernest Kibler (Nandua), Board 2 — Juan Gonzalez (Arcadia) vs. Ephram Holl (Nandua), Board 3 — Tony Mason (Arcadia) vs. Cole Siegle (Nandua), Board 4 — Aria Matthews (Arcadia) vs. Akeely Stern (Nandua), and Board 5 — Lisandro Mumford (Arcadia) vs. Tyler Furniss (Nandua).

The lineup for the middle school match was: Board 1 — Porter Buyea (Arcadia) vs. Ayden Flynn (Nandua), Board 2 — Eric Baumgardner (Arcadia) vs. Jacob Rice (Nandua), Board 3 — Ethan McCleish (Arcadia) vs. Charlotte Durruea (Nandua, round one) and Mason Kuykendall (Nandua, round two), Board 4 — Abigail Richardson (Arcadia) vs. Jaxon Rice (Nandua), and Board 5 — Sarah Evans (Arcadia) vs. Wyatt Chesser (Nandua).

Nandua won the high school match against Arcadia by a score of 9 to 6. Arcadia was able to eke out wins against Nandua on Boards 1 and 2. Nandua, however, dominated on Boards 3 through 5.

The last game of the match was played on Board 2. This was a long game in which the Arcadia player, after queening a pawn, was able to secure the win with a queen and king versus a king checkmate in the endgame.

Nandua took eight games to Arcadia's seven to win the middle school match. Board 1 for Nandua was the highest rated player at the event. The results on Boards 2 through 5 were mixed.

The venue for the match was the Eastern Shore Regional Library in Parksley. The new library provided a great experience for the chess players.

Students compete in Regional Science Fair

On Saturday, April 20, the Eastern Shore Regional Science Fair took place at the Virginia Institute of Marine Science (VIMS) in Wachapreague. Erin Morgan, the 4-H Agent with Northampton Cooperative Extension, and Julie Head, Education Director with Eastern Shore Soil and Water Conservation District, spearheaded the event, which had not been held since 2019. The two felt strongly that Shore students work hard on their science fair projects and the event needed to be brought back to showcase their efforts.

To be eligible to participate in the Regional Science Fair, the students had to follow the scientific method of coming up with a question, researching their topic, developing a hypothesis to predict an outcome to the question, conducting an experiment to test the hypothesis, making observations/collecting data, analyzing the results, and developing a conclusion. The students then had to participate in their schools' science fairs and be one of the top five exhibits at their schools. The students who participated in the regional science fair had a wide range of topics such as the best fishing knots, which sunscreen is the most effective, the effects of soda and juice on teeth, preventing apple oxidation, and investigating how human urine-based fertilizer affects the growth of peas, to name a few.

The Regional Science Fair had 40 students participate representing the following schools: Accawmacke Elementary, Arcadia High, Arcadia Middle, Broadwater Academy, Chincoteague Elementary, homeschool groups, Kegotank Elementary, Kiptopeke Elementary, Metompkin Elementary, Nandua Middle, and Pungoteague Elementary.

High school winners were the team of Daniela Larriena and Ai-

Morgan and Head would like to thank the judges: Ms. Hélène Doughty, Dr. Doug Higgins, Mr. Joseph Pentason, Dr. Mark Reiter, and Dr. Richard Snyder, who spent their Saturday morning judging the 39 exhibits. Morgan and Head also thank C.D. Marsh Jewelers in Onancock for their support and for providing the trophies for the winners and VIMS for serving as the host site and setting up activities for the students to enjoy while judging was taking place.

POCOMOKE CITY

Entrepreneurs list ideas for city council

BY JANET BERNOSKY
Eastern Shore Post

Two entrepreneurs brought their ideas and issues to the table at the Pocomoke City Mayor and City Council meeting held on Monday, May 6.

Sara Chapman, who owns MS Shore Properties, LLC, with her husband, Matt, asked for a closed meeting with the mayor and council to discuss future investment opportunities they are interested in pursuing.

She also discussed a long-standing zoning issue with a property they own across the street from the library that is zoned residential but has clearly been a multi-family unit since the 1960s.

The Chapmans said they are looking to protect their investment should a tragedy befall the building.

They would seek to rebuild it as a multi-unit structure but would not be able to under its current zoning status. They want to update its zoning status to reflect its actual use.

Mayor Todd J. Nock asked Chapman to submit her request again after city officials complete the 2025 budget process in a few weeks.

Salisbury resident Bret Davis, of Davis Strategic Development LLC, presented his ideas to Nock and the council to potentially create a self-contained, secure intranet system for city personnel between all buildings.

The system would be able to function during a power outage or other possible disasters.

Nock, who has been advocating to bring the city's communication methods "into the 21st century," expressed his interest to learn more.

He asked Davis to submit a business proposal, recognizing that the city's IT personnel should, at some point, outline their needs in order to start to build a long-term solution.

Davis, who recently completed a renovation project on the old firehouse, updated officials on potential plans for his property located at 153 Market St., called the Newberry Building.

His idea is to renovate the upstairs to create nine to 10 apartments. Downstairs, in front, there is room to create three retail spaces, he said, in addition to a large year-round indoor farmer's market that would highlight locally grown produce and other food products.

Davis also discussed with council other residential and industrial space projects he is interested in pursuing in the city.

In other news:

■ Planning Director Dan Brandewie briefly discussed the three proposal options submitted for the Cypress Park flooding mitigation project before recommending the proposal made by Rauch Inc., for $49,730. This bid was slightly higher than the lowest submitted bid but well under the remaining one. Rauch Inc. is a civil engineering, architectural, and professional services firm, with 46 professional employees, with offices in Salisbury and Easton. Councilmember C. L. Marshall voted to approve Brandewie's recommendation, which was then seconded.

■ Although he expressed favor for it, Marshall suggested tabling a potential ordinance to approve the creation of a historic district within the city, as already established by the National Register of Historic Places, because of concerns among council members and residents that restrictions might drive up costs associated with renovating historic homes to period standards.

The same concerns were voiced should someone want to build a new home of a particular style within the district.

Councilmember Monda Marsh, whose district falls within the National Register area, has petitioned for this since February.

Beach wheelchairs are now available in Cape Charles.

Cape Charles Main Street group offers beach wheelchairs

As summer draws near, many people eagerly anticipate spending time at the beach.

However, for those who have mobility impairments, going to the beach can be challenging or even impossible.

Cape Charles Main Street decided to raise awareness of the need for beach wheelchairs during the Giving Tuesday event, which takes place every year on the Tuesday after Thanksgiving.

This event encourages people around the world to use their power to make a positive impact in their community.

Thanks to the kindness and generosity of the Cape Charles community, the fundraising campaign was a success.

Friends, neighbors, and local businesses contributed a total of $7,725, allowing the town to purchase two new beach wheelchairs and also upgrade an older chair with some new features.

These beach wheelchairs are now available for reservation free of charge up to one week in advance by calling Julie Pruitt, special assistant to the Town Manager, at 757-331-3259 ext.18.

For those who live in Cape Charles, the public works department can deliver the chair to an address and will also pick it up when finished.

At Seafood Festival, fritters and fellowship

BY JANET BERNOSKY
Eastern Shore Post

A chilly, overcast day and long lines did not deter the crowd of people who came to eat and have a good time at the 54th annual Seafood Festival held Saturday, May 4, at Tom's Cove Park on Chincoteague Island.

With the goal of promoting the local seafood industry on Virginia's Eastern Shore, menu items included raw clams and oysters on the half shell, steamed clams, single-fried oysters, clam chowder, seafood fritters, fried fish, steamed shrimp, and traditional sides like salad, cornbread, and hush puppies.

The event is sponsored by the Chincoteague Chamber of Commerce.

Evelyn Shotwell, the chamber's executive director, thanked all volunteers, sponsors, and attendees for making this year's event a huge success.

"We are always delighted to see so many happy faces enjoying our delicious seafood — truly a multi-generational event that has been a traditional rite of spring on the Eastern Shore of Virginia for over five decades," Shotwell said.

Joshua Jenkins was the winner of the Extravaganza Basket raffle. It included merchandise and gift cards from local hotels, boat tour companies, other island businesses, and restaurants.

Some proceeds from the drawing benefit the Nicki L. West Memorial Scholarship Fund, awarded annually to a Chincoteague High School graduating senior. West served as the chamber's president in the 1980s.

John and Kim Barnett, of Pennsylvania, traveled from their vacation home near Long Neck, Del., for the day with two chairs and a few disposable aluminum baking trays.

While they love bivalves in general, they admitted to a particular penchant for the clam and always choose to set up near the steam pots and the clam fritters.

"I can't tell you how many bags of those sweet little clams I've had today. I've lost count," said Kim.

Jim Bell, of Wachapreague, offered advice on getting food.

"Just be patient and wait until 1:30 or 2 o'clock. The lines will be much shorter or even nonexistent," he said. "You can get all you want, and more, if you just wait."

Alicia Evans, of Virginia Beach, brought along a colorful tablecloth and matching cloth napkins to entertain friends visiting from Ohio.

"I like to set a nice table and wanted to bring pretty dishes but decided it would just be too messy," she said.

Travis Motooka, a restaurant manager from Hawaii, attended the festival with friends from the Westchester, N.Y., area.

He served up half-shell clams and oysters on the grill with three different sauces.

"I love to cook. I actually attended culinary school in Hawaii," he said.

Julie McCarthy, visiting from North Carolina, was intent on turning festival shrimp into her famous shrimp and grits for her group of friends and family.

She made her cheesy grits in advance, reheating them very slowly in a pot on the grill with some broth cream and even more cheese.

McCarthy, who grew up in Georgia, said, "This is my comfort food. It's what I crave."

Retired Accomack County Parks and Recreation Director Wayne Burton spent the day relaxing and reminiscing a bit with his football buddies from Randolph-Macon College and their "better halves."

His friends joked that Burton's college nickname was "The Flash" because of his preference for wearing a certain trench coat.

"I assure you, no flashing was involved," he said. "I'm innocent. It was a rainy night."

Richard Ryder and his partner Robin Barry were visiting Chincoteague from Currituck, N.C., with their friend, Raven Jolly.

They were here to spend time with Richard's mother, Rita Ryder, who lives on the island.

He was also remembering treasured times spent on Chincoteague with his uncle, Ricky Gaspard, who had a place in the Inlet View Campground on the island. Sadly, Ricky passed away in July 2019, at the age of 71.

"My uncle loved it here and always said Chincoteague was the next best thing to Ocracoke."

"He was so sociable, everyone adored him. He was called the 'Mayor of Inlet View,'" Ryder said.
