‘Music Mayor’ hits right note

Elliott, Wachapreague’s top elected official, is accepted to Country Music Association

BY STEFANIE JACKSON

Eastern Shore Post

Charles Elliott, Wachapreague’s award-winning “Music Mayor,” has been nominated this year for multiple awards by not one, but two major music organizations.

The songwriter and performer also has been officially accepted as a member of the Country Music Association, known for its annual awards show and other special events broadcast on national television.

Elliott’s first breakthrough on the music awards scene was last year, when he went to the Grand Ole Opry in Nashville and won a Josie Music Award for his song, “Life’s Too Short.”

The Josie Music Awards have recognized the work of independent artists of all music genres since 2015.

Elliott will return to the Grand Ole Opry this fall for the 10th annual Josie Music Awards, with nominations in three categories: Emerging Artist, Songwriter of the Year, and Songwriter Achievement for his new song, “When Momma Sang.”

NORTHAMPTON

Supervisors will restart short-term rental regs effort

BY STEFANIE JACKSON

Eastern Shore Post

Northampton County supervisors unanimously passed a resolution to start afresh in creating regulations for short-term vacation rental homes in compliance with state law.

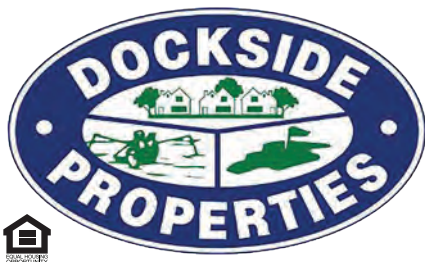

“The long-postponed short-term rental ordinance that we’ve been working on for over a year, since I’ve gotten here, is now out of date,” County Attorney Michelle Clayton told supervisors on Tuesday, June 11.

Northampton County has allowed short-term vacation rental homes by right, or without a permit, since 2019.

But the continued proliferation of the rentals, without regulation, became a nuisance for Northampton residents, who have complained about problems such as noise and trespassing.

Sheryl Dalessio, of Hungars Beach Road, Eastville, called county supervisors to action during public comments on June 11.

Council continues to advocate for inlet study

BY STEFANIE JACKSON
Eastern Shore Post

Chincoteague Island officials continue to advocate for an inlet study that would address sea-level rise and erosion.

“Eight years ... I’ve been on this council, and for eight years this town has fought, clawed, done everything ... about getting this inlet study funded,” said Councilwoman Denise Bowden on Monday, June 3.

She was speaking to Accomack County Supervisor Billy Joe Tarr about a long-awaited study of Chincoteague Inlet by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, which the councilwoman said was never funded.

“Nothing against our counterparts on Tangier, but all they got to do is make a phone call and millions of dollars drop right in on the desk,” Bowden said.

Tangier recently received a $2.3 million grant from the Virginia Department of Environmental Quality to help protect that island from flooding due to sea-level rise and erosion.

Bowden said she has gone out in her boat and observed natural features, like Gunboat Point, that have disappeared or are disappearing due to erosion and sea-level rise.

“The tides are just astronomical coming in here. The state (the Virginia Department of Transportation) has just put more rocks out there to the lowest point of the causeway, because they know it,” she said.

Bowden said Chincoteague needs county supervisors to advocate for the inlet study and suggested possibly hiring a lobbyist.

There was some confusion about the state of the Army Corps study. Tarr said the study was underway, but Bowden disagreed.

The source of the confusion may have been the Chincoteague Inlet Modeling Study by The Water Institute, a Louisiana-based nonprofit. That study also aimed to understand the causes of erosion along the southern end of Chincoteague Island.

Chincoteague Town Manager Mike Tolbert offered clarification on the Army Corps study.

He said the Army Corps authorized the study but has yet “to put it in their budget and actually fund it.”

The cost of the study was to be paid with 50% federal funds and 50% nonfederal funds.

The Virginia state budget for the 2022-2024 biennium included $1.5 million for the Chincoteague Inlet study.

Del. Rob Bloxom “was able to secure our 50% match ... but the (Army) Corps of Engineers never funded it, their 50%, so nothing happened,” Tolbert said.

He noted that Accomack County includes $50,000 in its budget annually to help Chincoteague with the inlet study.

Tarr said that last year, the Army Corps received $26 million for dredging projects on the Eastern Shore. Yet the Chincoteague Inlet study remains unfunded.

He said he would contact the Army Corps of Engineers about the unfunded study.

“We need pressure put on the Army Corps ... the town does, the county does,” Bowden said.

“I don’t want to wait any longer,” she said. “If we wait a little bit longer, then we’ll have the waves up here to the front door.”

EXMORE

Town may be unable to connect 17 properties to sewer system

BY STEFANIE JACKSON
Eastern Shore Post

A few Exmore property owners may be able to evade the mandate to connect to the town's new sewer system, but it could come at a steep cost in the future.

"For some unknown reason ... the building department, somebody, allowed them to build a boiler room, an addition on the house, a deck, or anything, built over the septic tank," Director of Utilities Taylor Dukes told the Exmore Town Council on Monday, June 3.

He had identified, to date, 17 homes and businesses with structures blocking access to septic systems and said the town may be unable to connect those properties to the new sewer system.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture provided grant and loan funding for the sewer project on the condition that all Exmore property owners sign easements allowing the town to connect every home and business to the sewer system.

But Dukes said the scope of the sewer project did not include "going under people's houses. We're not taking up decks. ... We're not doing any of that stuff."

Neither will Exmore run a sewer pipe through a wall or foundation and possibly compromise a structure and risk a lawsuit, he said.

One way the identified structures could be connected to the sewer system is to reroute the plumbing at an estimated cost of $1,200 to $10,000 per structure, depending on the amount of work needed, Dukes said.

He noted that Exmore installed a wastewater pump on each property at a cost of about $30,000 each, and the town must recover those expenses.

"You've got to get your money back to pay off that debt," Dukes told the town council.

Everyone whose property has a pump but is not yet connected to the sewer system will be billed $40 a month, the base fee for sewer service.

Exmore officials discussed whether the property owners should be required to connect to the sewer system now or later, when their septic systems fail; and, if they are required to connect now, whether they or the town should pay for the plumbing modifications.

"I kind of feel like we're obligated," said Councilman Chase Sturgis. "I realize we're a small town and that's ... an increase in expense."

Dukes recommended that, if Exmore submits a change order for plumbing, the property owners should be required to sign legal documents stating the town cannot be held liable for any property damage that may occur.

Town Manager Robert Duer said Exmore is required to connect 815 homes and businesses to the sewer system.

He said the town could afford to get the 17 homes and businesses connected if Exmore hadn't spent thousands of dollars in legal fees suing property owners who refused to sign easements.

Dukes said each unsigned easement cost the town approximately $9,000.

As of June 3, seven easements remained unsigned and a judge had ruled in favor of Exmore in one case. The judgment stated that the property in question must be connected to the sewer system, but no date was specified.

"So we've got to go back to court," Duer said. "I'm at the point where you just skip them," he said of the easement holdouts.

He noted that Exmore has come to an agreement with Belle Haven and will extend sewer service to seven homes in that town.

"That gives us our 815, and we tell these people that when they lose, and the health department makes them connect, it's $30 grand," Duer said.

"We're going to run out of money," he said. "I really don't want to borrow any more. We really can't afford it."

Singer

Elliott has drawn much songwriting inspiration from his mother, Peggy Elliott, who died in May 2023.

His interest in music was influenced by his grandmother, who performed with her sisters at the Grand Ole Opry.

Elliott also has been nominated this year for International Singer-Songwriters Association awards in two categories, Emerging Artist and Song Producer.

In addition to its music awards program, ISSA supports independent music artists by offering membership in the organization, music promotion on social media, artist management tools, and more, all for free.

Charles Elliott has been performing since age 9. Like his favorite music icon, Elvis Presley, he has performed music from multiple genres, including country, blues, gospel, rock, and pop.

Elliott has been consistently working in music for the last 18 years, writing, performing, and networking and collaborating with well-known names in the music industry.

He also has worked with two record labels, NUway and EPI, and released several singles and a full-length album titled "Delicious Love."

Health District at Juneteenth

The Eastern Shore Health District will participate in the Juneteenth Celebration in Exmore on Saturday, June 15, by providing services in their new mobile medical unit.

This will be the first time ESHD will be offering services on the mobile medical unit in the community. It offers a private exam room, lab capabilities, and wheelchair access, and was paid for with restricted funds from the American Rescue Plan Act.

"This mobile medical unit will allow ESHD, along with our community partners, to provide health services at community events like the Juneteenth Celebration and to community members who might not be able to easily travel to a health care facility," said Jon Richardson, health district director.

The services being offered at the Juneteenth Celebration will include blood pressure checks, glucose screenings, and immunizations against tetanus, diphtheria, and pertussis; meningococcal disease; and human papilloma virus. These immunizations are required or recommended for rising 7th and 12th graders.

For students in need of these immunizations, parents will need to bring their insurance card and immunization record with them to the Juneteenth Celebration.

Call the health district office if you have any questions about these services at 757-787-5880.

SERVING VIRGINIA'S EASTERN SHORE

THE PAPER'S POSITION

Immerse yourself in an Eastern Shore summer

The Eastern Shore of Virginia is fortunate to have four distinct seasons with their own traditions, weather, and characteristics.

But an Eastern Shore summer stands apart with its features, flavors, and fun. People from afar flock here for vacation weeks to enjoy it. Those of us who live here should also make time to partake.

Everyone should have an informal Eastern Shore summer checklist to ensure full enjoyment. Here are some suggestions:

It is fireman's carnival season in Wachapreague and Chincoteague. Even those not interested in rides or games should designate a night for dinner at both carnivals.

It is fresh vegetable season on the Eastern Shore. A traditional Eastern Shore summer won't be complete without a tomato sandwich with pepper and mayonnaise, or a bowl of steaming sweet corn on the dinner table.

Summer is a great time to steam some local clams, tuck into some award-winning crab cakes, or crunch on some crispy soft-shell crabs. It's seafood season.

Summer is the season for beloved traditional events, like the Chincoteague Pony Penning, Independence Day parades, Juneteenth celebrations, the Great Pocomoke Fair, and many more.

Summer is saltwater season — boat rides, fishing trips, days at the beach, and more. It a great way to enjoy the warmer weather.

Summer is exploring season. The Eastern Shore is blessed with a number of great restaurants, museums, and items of interest. A summer day trip to Tangier Island is a great family-friendly excursion.

Don't let an Eastern Shore summer pass you by.

Judge the integrity of news providers

To the editor:

As the Eastern Shore Post celebrates its 25 years of service to the Eastern Shore, I'm forced to stop and think about how fortunate this peninsula is to still have a local, independent news source dedicated to traditional journalistic values.

In a world of artificial intelligence-driven social media that feeds customized content based mainly on what consumers want to hear, society can no longer trust that what they see paints a fair or balanced reality.

The rapidly growing divisive culture we're experiencing is the result.

I agree with the editor's contention in the May 31 issue that a free press is essential to ensure accountability in the public discourse — but only if that freedom is combined with appropriate journalistic values.

A free press can also mean that a publication could print slanted or even false information. So touting a free press alone is not good enough.

As citizens and consumers, it is our responsibility to evaluate the journalistic integrity of our news sources so we can have faith in the information we will use to engage in civic matters.

In all the years that I have been reading the Post, I have come to trust its journalistic integrity — and sadly, find it to be all too rare.

As someone who sometimes might not like being on the receiving end of the tough questions, I still find it reassuring that the questions are being asked; and that I'll get a fair opportunity to respond.

So, I want to thank all the editors, writers, and contributors who have provided this

Even more advice for Shore's graduating seniors

High school graduation is my favorite time of year — probably because when I see photos of proud, fresh-faced graduating seniors, I see myself, 34 years ago.

I hear plenty of advice given to graduates these days. Some of it is brilliant. Some of it is dubious.

Here is my contribution to the advice given to today's grads.

It might not lead to a wonderful life. But it could lead to less stress, anxiety, and self-doubt, and make you seem smarter, more refined, and happier.

And it will make your mama proud, which always should be a goal.

■ Don't break the law. I know it sounds simple. Consider, however, the amazing societal impact if nobody broke the law.

Whenever you think about breaking the law, think of your mother sitting in court, crying uncontrollably, while you are sentenced for your crimes by a judge and taken out in handcuffs.

Don't put your mother through that. Don't put yourself through it, either.

would be utopian — and our schools would be staggeringly good.

■ "Grit" and "gumption" are transcendent attributes that will change your life if you develop them.

People don't use the words "grit" and "gumption" much these days, probably because they are rare traits.

Become known for your gumption and your grit.

■ Never talk about your own body weight or your own money. Never talk about someone else's body weight or someone else's money.

■ Make sure you are ready and willing to be a parent who loves, cherishes, nurtures, provides for, and spends time with every child you have.

If all parents did that, our society

Body weight and personal finances are horrible topics that make for uncomfortable conversations that never end well.

■ Don't be a chronic complainer.

Some people are insufferable complainers — they complain about piddly stuff, like the wait at a fast-food restaurant or the traffic on the roads.

They complain about their workplace. They complain about their relatives. They complain about politicians. They complain about the weather.

These people are toxic. Don't fall into the trap of complaining to everyone about everything.

■ Learn how to say "thank you" when complimented.

Some people stink at saying "thank you," and instead say something clumsy or shallow when praised.

Simply accept the praise and thank them for it.

■ Be part of something bigger than yourself. Maybe it is a job. Maybe it is a church. Maybe it is a volunteer group.

When you're not part of something bigger than yourself, all you can think about and talk about is yourself — and that's not good.

■ Employment is important. Get a job — full-time, part-time, nights, weekends, anything.

Work is fulfilling and educational. It gives your life structure. It helps develop your social skills. You get the self-satisfaction of a job well-done.

And you earn money doing it.

■ A co-worker once told me: "The more you see, the more you hear, the less you say, the more you'll know."

I found it to be profound advice. I am much more comfortable with a life of observing and listening than a life as a chatterbox.

■ Finally, don't compare people, experiences, foods, performances — or compare yourself to anyone.

There's an old saying that comparison is the thief of joy.

Instead, celebrate every person and every experience individually.

essential service to the residents of the Eastern Shore for the past two and a half decades. However, I also wish to challenge them, and those to come, to ensure the culture emphasizing these important values can continue for another 25 years.

Keep dogs away from postal workers

To the editor:

Many of us have seen a cartoon or read a comic strip where a dog chasing a letter carrier is often portrayed as a comedic situation. You may have seen a viral video of a letter carrier narrowly escaping a dangerous situation involving a dog.

These instances are no laughing matter. The safety of our employees is a top priority for the Postal Service, and we need help from dog owners to ensure the safety of our carriers.

There were more than 5,800 dog attacks last year across the country with 80 attacks taking place in Virginia. One attack is too many. Any attack can cause significant injuries and have life-altering consequences.

Dogs, even nonaggressive ones, are generally protective of their turf and owners. Securing your dog before the carrier approaches your property will minimize any potentially dangerous interactions.

When a letter carrier comes to your home, keep dogs inside the house or behind a fence, away from the door or in another room, or on a leash.

Our carriers receive regular dog bite prevention training, carry dog repellent spray, and have scanners that alert them to the presence of a dog at a residence.

Still, we need your help to ensure our carriers can deliver your mail and packages safely.

Time to put prayer back in the schools

To the editor:

This is in reference to Northampton Supervisor Oliver Bennett's re-

Jane Cabarrus honored with Wescoat Award

BY DONNA BOZZA
Guest Columnist

When the Citizens for a Better Eastern Shore Board of Directors unanimously voted to present Jane Cabarrus the Suzanne Wescoat Award, I admit I wondered why it had taken us so long.

Jane was one of the founding board directors of CBES back in 1988. She served as CBES vice president while Suzanne was our first president, and both their lives centered around selfless service to community.

But then it was pointed out that the award was originally created to acknowledge only elected or appointed public officials.

Thankfully CBES expanded the pool of potential recipients and it was presented to Jane at our recent annual picnic.

The award is not necessarily presented annually, but only when there is a candidate who stands out for his or her lifelong, exemplary service to our community.

While Suzanne was CBES president and Jane was president of the Northampton Chapter of the NAACP — the first and only woman president of that chapter — they got together with Dawn Goldstine, then Northampton's Superintendent of Schools, and founded the Eastern Shore Community Unity Day 34 years ago.

On the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday, many gathered at Northampton High School to break bread and honor King's legacy of service to one another.

Jane helped fill that cafeteria with students — our youth is always the focus of Janie's work — along with neighbors and local leaders from elected officials to sheriff's deputies.

This celebration of the Shore's diversity continues to this day, currently as a Soup for Seniors grassroots outreach. Under Janie's leadership,

CBES is proud to be a partner.

Before Juneteeth was a national holiday, Jane worked diligently to recognize this day of freedom for all right here in our Shore community.

This year's celebration marks the 25th year of bringing our diverse community together with a parade and festivities in Exmore Town Park.

We all agree that no one can say no to Janie. Her partnering finesse is legendary. With her team she partnered with CBES and held candidate and race relations forums.

She joined her voice to the outcry of the proposed location of a maximum-security prison in a tiny Black community. Later she worked with Bayview leaders to help lift the village out of third-world conditions.

With her professional background in healthcare, she tries to provide free health screenings at all her events.

During the COVID pandemic, as the director of the Eastern Shore

NAACP — a position she still holds — she advocated on the state level that the Shore's people not be forgotten, especially the elderly, the shut-ins, and our underserved people.

This is just an abbreviated version of Jane's many contributions to the Shore.

But just as important is for us to recognize what is at the core — the heart — of Janie's dedication.

Jane Cabarrus builds bridges — not the kind of bridges that span great waters or the gap between mountains — but bridges that reach across differences between peoples.

Jane Cabarrus builds bridges — not the kind of bridges that span great waters or the gap between mountains — but bridges that reach across differences between peoples.

Jane Cabarrus builds bridges — not bridges to be neglected, left to collapse under the ignorance of time — but bridges tended with partnerships built strong.

Janie has won many awards, so we hope she will find a space for this one.

This Suzanne Wescoat award was created especially for her. It's a watercolor painting by talented Shore artist and dear friend of Janie's, Sarah Morgan.

It captures the humble, yet profound spirit of the Do-Drop Inn, started by her parents, Lloyd and Annie Giddens, in 1967. Built by her father's hand, the Do-Drop is loved by many for its decades-long role as a Shore gathering place.

Janie has often said her father opened its doors to people from all walks of life, regardless of the color of their skin, their faith — there are no barriers at the Do-Drop.

CBES sees this painting as a fitting symbol of the place where Janie first began building bridges of diversity.

And grateful are we as a community, that to this day, Jane Cabarrus builds bridges.

Eastern Shore Post

Joetta Collison

Ms. Joetta Jane Collison, 56, of Parksley, passed away at Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital in Onancock on Saturday, June 1, 2024. Born Jan. 20, 1968, in Seattle, Wash., she was the daughter of the late Ronald Lee Collison and the late Erlene Joetta Trahan Collison.

Growing up, Joetta was a tomboy at heart. She loved all things outdoors, including deer hunting, fishing, and crabbing. She was often found at the bowling alley. In school she played in the band, and she was a boss on the softball field.

Ms. Collison

Joetta's life revolved around helping others. She worked as a security guard for NASA for many years, and she was an active member of the Parksley Volunteer Fire Company. Joetta was passionate about her involvement with PVFC. She loved running calls as #738 and organizing fundraisers, especially the craft show.

Joetta was never afraid of a hard day's work, and as a single mom of four, she stopped at nothing to make sure her babies never went without and had everything they needed. She made sure they knew what good music was all about, and they knew every song on the Poison album. Family cookouts were a must, and everyone looked forward to Joetta's lasagna, fried chicken, mac and cheese, potato salad, eclair cake, and coconut cake. When her children's and grandchildren's birthdays came around, they knew their cakes were going to be one of a kind.

As hard as she worked, she sure loved to have just as much fun. A rabid Baltimore Ravens fan (Go B-More!) and forever a Dale Jr. fan, you couldn't tell her anything about them that she didn't already know. And Joetta loved vacationing with the kids and grandchildren. Last August, the family made it to Disney World, with a little disarray, a little pandemonium, a lot of chaos, and on a wing and a prayer — the way they loved living life (on their own terms). She worked hard, she played hard, and she loved even harder, especially when it came to her grandkids. She spent most of her time with her babies. When she wasn't with them, she could surely be found with her best friend, Wayne, taking boat rides on Folly Creek, solving puzzles, playing cornhole and rummy, and having "just one" Corona.

Joetta was hard-headed, stubborn, prideful, and funny as hell, and every one of her children is proud to be cookie cutter versions of all that she was, having learned from her example of hard work, determination, and unwavering love.

She is survived by her children, Loretta Collison (Ian Kartak), Theresa Daughton (Brian Daughton), Ronald Collison (Shelby Stokes), and Amber Harris (Rod Woods); sister, Brenda Collison; grandchildren, Michelle, Christina, and Eliana Lee, Alaric and Kaeden Daughton, Brelynn Collison, Arielle Woods, Damon Lee, Peyton Daughton, and Bryson Collison; dear and special friend, Wayne Marshall Sr.; special nephew, Malcom Harris; several nieces and nephews; and many friends at the Parksley Volunteer Fire Company, all of whom were like family. In addition to her parents, she was predeceased by her sister, Lena Grauel.

A memorial service will be held Friday, June 14, at 1:30 p.m., in the chapel of the Williams Funeral Home in Parksley. Visitation will begin at 1 p.m. at the funeral home. Immediately following the service, a reception will be at the Parksley Volunteer Fire Company.

In lieu of flowers, contributions may be made to Williams Funeral Homes, P.O. Box 1, Parksley, VA 23421, or Parksley Volunteer Fire Company, P.O. Box 14, Parksley, VA 23421 to assist with funeral expenses.

Katie Killmon

Mrs. Katie Mae Nock Killmon, 88, of Hacksneck, was welcomed into the loving arms of her Lord and Savior and her husband, the late Wade Matthew Killmon, on Wednesday, June 5, 2024. Born Jan. 1, 1936, in Harborton, she was the only child of the late Leland Nock and the late Sallie West Nock.

As the matriarch of her family, Katie led by example through her relentless faith in the Lord, unwavering love for her family, and dedication to her community.

Mrs. Killmon

Once her youngest child started school, she began working as a school bus driver for Accomack County Public Schools, sharing her sweet smile with countless children for over 16 years. During her time with ACPS, she also worked part-time for the Hacksneck and Harborton post offices, happily filling in whenever needed.

A devout Christian, Katie was a longtime member of Evergreen United Methodist Church and the United Women of Faith. When she was home, you'd often find her in the kitchen baking and never for herself. Katie found great joy in sharing her baked goods with family and friends, and she especially looked forward to helping those who needed a ride or help with errands. Her beautiful heart and endless generosity were known and appreciated by many, all of whom will be forever grateful for having the opportunity to share this life with her.

Joseph Witek

Mr. Joseph Walter Witek, husband of Evelyn Shigo Witek, transitioned peacefully in his home with his wife and daughter, Theresa, at his side at the age of 83. Born in Brooklyn on Aug. 11, 1940, he was the youngest of seven children born to the late Joseph and Anelia Witek.

In his journey from carpenter to successful business owner, Joe's first priority was always the nurturing of his family. With three children under the age of nine, Joseph and Evelyn made the difficult decision to leave their extended family and move from Long Island to Connecticut, where they became involved in many aspects. Joe's love of sports led him to become a coach in soccer, hockey, and lacrosse for his children and other youths, making an impact on their lives that was carried through into their adulthood.

After a lifetime of working, Joe and Evelyn relocated to Franktown, where they retired. During this time, they were able to enjoy their love of travel and developed strong friendships throughout their community. Through those friendships, Joe was able to fulfill his passion for fishing and being on the water, for creating with wood, for being "handy" with his hands, and for hosting family in his home.

He is survived by his wife, Evelyn; his daughters, Deborah Witek Deren (John) and Theresa Witek; and his son, Michael Witek (Pier); his three grandchildren, Joseph Deren, Ty Witek, and Torin Witek; and his adoring sister, Irene Witek Zatorski; along with many nieces, nephews, and cousins.

In Joe's words, he lived, he worked, he raised his family, he fished, and he died. And in between he had some fun. Amen.

A resurrection mass to celebrate Joe's life will take place Saturday, June 15, at 11 a.m. at St. Charles Church in Cape Charles.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests donations be made to the charity of your choice.

Diane Ames

On Sunday, June 2, 2024, Ms. Diane Eloise Ames passed away at her home in Temperanceville. Diane was born on Dec. 4, 1954, in Exmore, to Milton E. Ames Sr. and Elizabeth Holiday Thomas Ames. She was the second oldest girl of five children.

Diane graduated from Northampton High School in 1973. She continued her pursuit of academic excellence by receiving her bachelor's degree in business education from Radford College and her master's degree in education from Old Dominion University.

Diane taught business education in Accomack County Public Schools for 37 years. She began her teaching career at Central High School. In 1984, Nandua High School opened through the merger of Onancock High School and Central High School. Diane was one of the first business teachers at Nandua High School, teaching keyboarding and accounting.

She continued to expand her computer knowledge and received several computer program certifications. She had extensive Microsoft Suite certifications, which made her a subject matter expert in the computer programs she taught her students. She was adamant about fostering her students to produce quality and professional work, regardless of their academic struggles.

Diane excelled as an outstanding educator throughout her career because of two significant mentors and role models — coworker, Mr. Jesse Poulson, and her high school teacher, Mrs. Mary N. Kellam. Diane also taught adult business classes at Eastern Shore Community College and for Accomack County Public Schools.

Diane, known as “Ms. Ames,” maintained an orderly classroom and enforced strict standards of conduct and respect. She wanted her students to gain valuable and useful knowledge of the business industry that would be beneficial tools and life skills in their chosen careers. Diane communicated and demonstrated this philosophy in her leadership role as one of the teachers in charge of the Future Business Leaders of America club by having field trips and encouraging students to participate in local and state conferences/events.

She was also active in her community. She served as a Girl Scout troop leader for the troop that met at Eastern Shore Community College. Over 40 youth, spanning all levels of Girl Scouts and ages 5 to 18, participated in the program with six volunteers in the early 1990s. During the first year of the troop, they sold over $28,000 worth of Girl Scout Cookies, a significant amount at that time, equivalent to $68,000 today. Members of the Girl Scouts participated in educational activities, field trips, camping trips, and various educational programs. They buried a time capsule that was excavated 20 years later in 2012 at Eastern Shore Community College. After retiring, Diane served as a church secretary for Emmanuel Episcopal Church in Jenkins Bridge.

Diane's passion for life and cooking was expressed in her active involvement in nurturing her nieces and nephews and providing home-cooked, delicious, and mouthwatering meals for all the kids at their grandmother's house. Aunt Di, as she was affectionately called by her nieces and nephews, took them to plays, movies, museums, and parks to expose them to different educational activities.

Diane was also devoted to her parents, investing time and money to make them happy. She gave her father a television with a remote control so he would stop calling her to change the channel. She finally convinced her mother to start using the dryer and not hang clothes out in the winter months. She often spoke of how frugal her parents were and how she had to beg her father to buy her a typewriter and a watch. However, Diane was a person who showed love whenever she was around her loved ones and never bit her tongue when she had something to say.

Diane's love of cooking was her source of joy, and she enjoyed cooking for friends and relatives. Diane believed in buying the best name-brand pots and pans, kitchen appliances, and tools, thoroughly investigating each item before purchasing. She expanded her culinary skills by watching the Cooking Channel and YouTube cooking videos to explore ways of creating masterful and delicious foods.

Diane hosted summer family events when she purchased her home in Temperanceville. She also was an avid lover of rhythm and blues/soul music, especially the classics like “Clean Up Woman,” “Put It On Paper,” and “Love Them & Leave Them.” She enjoyed watching television shows like “Star Trek,” “Law and Order,” “Matlock,” “Murder She Wrote,” and many others. Diane was also the family historian who could tell you all of their relatives and how they were related, along with a little about each relative.

Diane leaves to cherish her memories her son, Aaron Ames; brothers, Milton E. Ames Jr. (Linda), of Tucson, Ariz., and Larry E. Ames (Geraldine), of Chesapeake; sisters, Brenda E. Holden (Ronnie), of Onancock, and Gloria D. Bailey, of Melfa; and one aunt, Glory Carrie Dean Byrd, of Hampton; nieces and nephews, Hope (LeCarston) Chestnut, Larry Esau Ames Jr., Ronnita (James) Holden-Heyward, Gerald Patrick Ames, Alexandra (David) Ames, Heather (Winston) Tucker, Alison Ames, Travis Bailey, Gabriel Bailey, and Kristen Bailey; great-nieces and nephews, Jazmine Wiggins, Talia Ames, Aliyah Ames, Naayah Ames, Jabriel Ames, Ronnie T. Harmon, Brandon Littleton, Angel Chestnut, and Trinity Bailey; great-great-nieces and nephews, Brian Pierce-Bailey, King Ames, Alyssa Tucker, Alanna Tucker, and Noah Tucker; first cousins, Robert Ames Jr., Reynold “Boney” Byrd, Mary Akers, Phyllis Baker, Ydette Rogers, and Yetta Howard, lifetime best friends, Renee Clark, of Bartonville, Pa., Diane “Shirley” Harmon, of Richmond, and Paulette Harrison, of Knoxville, Tenn.; and many other cousins and friends.

Diane Ames' legacy of love, education, and community service will be fondly remembered by all who knew her.

Cobia fishery has been ‘off the hook’

Saturday, June 15, marks the much-anticipated opening of the recreational cobia season in Virginia, although a catch and release fishery has been occurring since the last part of May.

According to the Virginia Marine Resources Commission website, the regulations for the 2024 recreational cobia season are: “... 40-inch total length minimum size limit; one fish daily possession limit or two fish daily vessel limit, whichever is more restrictive; only one fish per vessel per day may be greater than 50 inches in total length; an open season of June 15 through September 15; and gaffing is prohibited.” A special recreational cobia permit is no longer required.

Upper Shore

Captain Matt Abell, at the Sea Hawk Sports Center, was excited with the early onset of the Chesapeake Bay cobia fishery. Even though the Virginia cobia season does not legally start until June 15, Abell said the fishery has been “off the hook,” with anglers catching and releasing the brown fighters for a couple of weeks.

Most of the hookups have been made by fishermen baiting 8/0 hooks with chunks of bunker fished on fishfinder rigs in 15’ to 25’ depths. The bayside bite has been occurring from the waters of Pocomoke Sound all the way south to the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel.

The upper bay shallow flats fishery of the Pocomoke and Tangier sounds remains productive with catches of rockfish, red drum, and speckled trout. The trio of species are being caught on chunks of cut peeler and soft crab baits. Light tackle anglers are enjoying success with casting paddletails with and without popping corks, suspending Mirrolures, and X-Rap lures.

The shop will be hosting the second annual Michael C. Taylor Flounder Frenzy Charity Fishing Tournament on June 14 and 15, with all proceeds going to the National Down Syndrome Society.

Chincoteague

The new 17 ½” minimum size limit for flounder has majorly impacted the number of keeper flounder coming over the gunnels, though good numbers of smaller fish are still active.

Some of the most consistent action has occurred over the shallow water flats during high tide. Berkley Gulp, combined with live minnows, silversides, or squid have all been productive baits.

Look for the nearshore oceanic structure fishery for flounder, triggerfish, and spadefish to take off with the warmer water temperatures. Red drum, black drum, and sharks have been pulled from the surf. Tilefish and black sea bass have come from offshore bottom fishing trips.

Wachapreague

Captain Lindsay Paul, aboard the Almost Persuaded, said the flounder fishing out of Wachapreague has improved over the last week. Lots of the fish have been undersized, though there have been some bigger fish in the mix.

Gulp with live minnows or silversides have been productive bait combinations, especially fished around the periods of slack tides. Black seabass catches are still coming from the offshore wrecks. Some offshore vessels were preparing to test the blue water trolling fishery early in the week.

Lower Shore

Jeb Brady, at Bailey’s Bait & Tackle, said the recent span of nice weather has brought out the fleet of sight fishermen, searching the lower bay for schools of incoming cobia.

Live eels cast from the cobia towers have resulted in numerous hookups. The cobia bottom fishery was described as “okay” for anglers soaking fresh cut baits on fishfinder rigs. Jeb said the flounder fishing remains good along the lower Shore seaside inlets and inside the Ditch, with most anglers using combinations of Gulp and squid.

The breakers around Fisherman Island are still holding a population of big red drum, with the best action occurring on chunks of female crabs (sooks) fished during the evening hours.

Catches of sheepshead have started coming from the pilings along the bridge-tunnel on chunks of hard crab and fiddler crab baits. Sand mullet (whiting) are starting to hit small pieces of clam along the concrete ships. The lower bay piers are seeing catches of small croakers and trout.

Jordan Nestor, at Oceans East — Eastern Shore, told me that spadefishing at the Chesapeake Light Tower is great, as well as the offshore black sea bass fishery over any wrecks that have not already been hammered. He described the lower bay fishery as “heating up,” with “tons” of cobia, big red drum, and good flounder action.

The writer was the first Eastern Shore resident to achieve Virginia Saltwater Master Angler status. He has been named Virginia Saltwater Angler of the Year and Virginia Saltwater Release Angler of the Year. He has won numerous Virginia Press Association awards for his columns.

Jacket soccer teams wrap up successful seasons

BY MARK MORING
Eastern Shore Post

A week ago, there were just two high school teams still standing on Virginia's Eastern Shore — Northampton's boys and girls soccer squads.

Both had advanced to the semifinals of the Class 1 state championships in Salem, where the boys were defending their 2023 state title and the girls were hoping to get a shot at the big trophy.

Unfortunately for the Yellow Jackets, neither happened. Both lost in the June 7 semifinals to teams that would go on to win state titles the next day. The boys fell to Galax, 2-1, in overtime, and the girls lost to Auburn, 6-0.

The two losses effectively ended the 2023-24 high school sports season on the Shore.

In the boys game, Galax was gunning for payback against Northampton — the Maroon Tide had lost to the Jackets, 4-1, in the 2023 semifinal.

NHS coach Chase Baxa said that might have made the difference in this year's rematch.

"They wanted to get us back from last year, and I think we were too comfortable with the thought that we were the defending champions," he said. "I wouldn't say cocky, but we were looking too far ahead and got caught in the moment."

Northampton controlled the first half, going up 1-0 on a Diego Montalvo goal. When Galax tied it up early in the second half, "we deflated," said Baxa.

Still, it was anybody's game in overtime. The Tide scored to go up, 2-1, early in OT, but the Jackets couldn't strike back, despite several scoring opportunities.

Northampton finished the year at 15-3 and ranked No. 2 in Class 1; Galax (18-2-4) finished at No. 1.

Baxa said it was "a challenging season" with a difficult schedule, but that "we played a very high level of soccer and I only see that rising in the future. We are so proud of this team, especially our seniors (Diego Montalvo, Henry Mayorga, and Jorge Rodriguez Cantu). They gave so much."

Baxa is already looking forward to 2025: "The future looks bright."

This week, three Jackets were named first team all-state: juniors Thomas Dix and Jose Palacio, and sophomore Sebastian Mayorga. Henry Mayorga was second-team all-state, and Dix was named Player of the Year in Region 1A.

Girls fall in semifinals

The Northampton girls played Auburn to a 0-0 halftime tie, but "ran out of gas" in the second half, said coach Ernest Bethel.

Bethel says this was one of the toughest schedules in school history, including games against five Class 5 schools and four Class 2 schools.

The Jackets, who finished 11-9 overall, have now won or tied for 11 consecutive Eastern Shore District titles — they were co-champs with Nandua this year.

Bethel credited senior midfielder Ryan Jones, the district Player of the Year, with much of the team's success. "Without Ryan, we don't make it to the state tournament," he said. Jones, a four-year starter and three-time all-state selection, had 42 career goals and 52 assists.

Bethel also cited forward Edith Palacio and defender Abigail Locklear, both seniors, as key players. They're among the seven seniors "who will be missed," Bethel said.

The others are JyAsia Graham, Citlaly Cruz Gomez, Johana Huacozon Molina, and Vannesa Mateo. "I'm very proud of all of them, and I can't wait to see what the future holds for them."

He's also looking ahead to next spring.

"We have a strong team coming back next year," Bethel said. "Our goal is to get to the state championships again."

ANGLERS' CLUB FISHING DAY

SUBMITTED PHOTO

Morley's Wharf attracted a record crowd for the June 2 youth day sponsored by the Eastern Shore Anglers' club. The previous annual event broke the record with 37 kids fishing last year. This year the club had nearly 100 kids register and fish the Morleys Wharf pier. Each child who entered received a brand-new Tsunami rod-and-reel combo. The club thanks the Virginia Marine Resources Commission for help with sponsoring the event and also would like to thank Seahawk Sports in Pocomoke City for helping the club secure the rod combos, bait, and tackle needed. This event was free to all the children. Youth received trophies for the biggest fish caught on their brand new rod-and-reel combos. First place went to Kingston DeCarlo for his 9" croaker, followed by Evan Celick in second and the tie for third went to both Santiago Panuco and Lindsey Reynolds. There will be more youth events on the calendar this season at Saxis pier and possibly Kiptopeke State Park in the fall. Visit www.esanglers.org for the schedule. The Eastern Shore Anglers Club also has a Facebook page as well. The club invites anyone, regardless of where they live, to come join the club and help to introduce youth anglers to the sport. Meetings are held at the Sage Diner in Onley on the second Monday each month, with a few exceptions.

Choral concert is set in Cape Charles

A free choral concert featuring songs of the shore — Eastern Shore and other maritime communities — will begin at 4 p.m. on Sunday, June 23, in the Palace Theatre, Cape Charles.

The music will feature shanties, ballads and even a requiem, capturing many facets of life between the Chesapeake Bay and Atlantic Ocean.

Performing will be the Shore Singers, a more than 22-member volunteer chorus under the direction of singer and director Megan Cartwright.

Admission is free.

Turkey harvest down, but still high

The Virginia Department of Wildlife Resources announced a harvest of 21,988 turkeys during the 2024 spring turkey season.

While this represents a 10% decrease from the record harvest in 2023, this remains one of the highest spring turkey harvests in Virginia history.

Ryan Brown, DWR executive director, stated, "The continued high harvests over the last several years is a great sign for the future for Virginia's hunters and wildlife enthusiasts. Further, numerous reports of hens with young poults already this spring provide hope that 2024 will be a year of strong productivity in Virginia's wild turkey population."

DWR biologists anticipated the spring turkey harvest would decrease during the 2024 season for two primary reasons: back-to-back years of record harvests are not typical for the wild turkey, and brood survey results in 2022 were below average. The Department's annual brood survey measures productivity and recruitment within Virginia's turkey population.

In 2022, the survey indicated below average recruitment of turkey poults across much of the state. These birds would be 2 years old this season, the age group that tends to make up the majority of the annual spring gobbler harvest. With fewer 2-year-old birds on the landscape, a drop in harvest was expected.

The majority of the spring turkey harvest took place on private lands (93%). Public land hunters (both federal and state) accounted for 7% of the total spring harvest, which was an increase from the prior two years. National Forest lands accounted for the majority of public land harvests.

Northampton

"I hope with all my heart that the members of the board have the courage and the fortitude to make the necessary decisions that will consider our safety, security, and quality of life, all in jeopardy of being lost," she said.

Northampton officials were considering an ordinance that would require special-use permits for short-term vacation rental homes.

But Virginia Senate Bill 544, which recently became state law, prohibits a locality from requiring a special-use permit for a property owner to rent, for a period of 30 days or less, part of his or her primary residence, Clayton said.

In line with her recommendation, county supervisors voted unanimously to deny approval of the proposed ordinance, essentially scrapping a year's worth of work and going back to the drawing board.

However, Clayton had prepared suggestions for regulating short-term vacation rental homes without violating state code:

Except for homes that are primary residences, a short-term vacation rental home with four or fewer bedrooms could be allowed only by a minor special-use permit, and a short-term vacation rental with five or more bedrooms would be allowed by major special-use permit.

Such a business may be regulated by county supervisors approving a special-use permit only if the applicant agrees to certain conditions. The permit may be revoked if the conditions are not met.

Primary residences with accommodations for short-term rental must be added to a registry that Northampton County staff will create and maintain.

Property owners would be required to show their driver's licenses or voter registrations as proof that their homes are their primary residences.

A person who offers short-term-rental accommodations in a primary residence also must obtain a business license and collect and pay transient occupancy taxes.

A person may be fined $500 and prohibited from offering short-term-rental accommodations if the individual fails to register the business or pay transient occupancy taxes, or three substantiated complaints are made against the business within a one-year period.

Every operator of a short-term vacation rental home may be held accountable through either the permitting process or registration.

For example, Virginia Code states that real estate agents cannot be required to join a short-term-rental registry, but their properties would be subject to local permitting processes.

Short-term vacation rental homes currently operating in Northampton would be grandfathered. These businesses would not require special-use permits but would be added to the county's short-term-rental registry.

Northampton's zoning code on short-term rental homes, which includes rules on noise, parking, trash, and fire alarms, will remain in effect.

Northampton officials also are considering publishing online a list of short-term-rental properties to assist the public in reporting violations.

Supervisor Dixon Leatherbury made a motion to approve a resolution referring the matter of short-term rentals to the Northampton Planning Commission, which was seconded and passed unanimously.

The planning commission must act on the resolution within 100 days. Both the planning commission and board of supervisors must hold public hearings before supervisors vote to approve or deny the planning commission's recommendations.

Betsy Mapp, chair of the Northampton Board of Supervisors, estimated a decision would be reached in two or three months.

County Administrator Charlie Kolakowski agreed the process shouldn't span an "extended time period" and the matter should come to a final vote "fairly quickly."

City council won't raise real estate taxes this year

BY JANET BERNOSKY
Eastern Shore Post

The Pocomoke City Council voted unanimously not to raise real estate taxes for fiscal year 2025 at the meeting held on Monday, June 3.

It came in the form of an emergency resolution with a single reading by Mayor Todd J. Nock, followed by a public hearing, then the vote.

The matter was urgent, as Worcester County officials had a June 4 deadline to send this information to the state of Maryland.

Tax rates will remain the same as fiscal year 2024 levels.

■ Council voted to table the first reading and introduction of a resolution pertaining to the budget for fiscal year 2025.

Nock said this will give council time to advertise again and still pass the budget before the June 30 deadline.

■ Melinda Stafford was introduced as the new city clerk.

Stafford, who is from Salisbury, was previously employed by the town of Hebron as the town clerk.

She is currently enrolled in the Joseph R. Biden School of Public Policy, working to become a certified municipal clerk.

Stafford is also a notary public.

■ Prompted by an email from councilmember R. Scott Holland, Nock expressed interest in reviewing the current homestead rate at some point.

Noting that Pocomoke City is in a solid place financially, he said a reduction in this rate would be a good way for residents to reap this benefit.

■ Nock expressed disappointment that the landlord rental registration was not up and running by June 2 as planned, indicating that he would like an update at the next council meeting.

When reached after the meeting, City Planner Dan Brandewie said the landlord guide and required forms are ready. He is in the process of reviewing software, but can roll out manually, if need be. He is anticipating the approval of a new staff position to oversee this program when the upcoming budget is passed in a few weeks.

■ Thomas "Tommy" Gladding took the oath of office to serve on the Board of Zoning Appeals. Mike Blake took the oath for the Planning and Zoning Commission.

■ The city council met on Monday, June 10 for the introduction and first reading of the budget resolution, as well as the fee schedule, for FY 2025.

The next scheduled meeting will be held on Thursday, June 27 in City Hall, 101 Clarke St., Pocomoke City, when it is expected that council will pass the budget.

All proceeds will go toward Shore Christian Academy's new building needs.

There will be lots of furniture, cookbooks, an organ, household items, antique glassware, tables, office stuff, toys, clothes, large bolts of upholstery fabric, quilting fabric, exercise equipment, and something for everyone.

Shore Christian yard sale set

Shore Christian Academy will have a benefit yard sale at 14031 Shields Bridge Road, Belle Haven.

It will be held on Friday, June 28, and Saturday, June 29, beginning at 8 a.m. both days.

Eastern Shore voters have dual primary Tuesday

BY CAROL VAUGHN
Eastern Shore Post

Voters in Accomack and Northampton counties can vote in a dual primary election on Tuesday, June 18.

Registered voters can vote either in a primary to determine the Republican U.S. Senate nominee or in a primary to determine the Democratic U.S. House of Representatives, 2nd District, nominee.

Five people are vying to be the Republican candidate for one of Virginia's two Senate seats.

The winner will face incumbent Sen. Tim Kaine, a Democrat, in the November election.

Two people are competing to be the Democratic candidate for the House of Representatives 2nd District seat. The primary winner will face Republican incumbent Jen Kiggans.

Virginia has open primaries, so a voter Tuesday can pick either party's ballot to vote, but can not vote in both.

Polls are open on Election Day, June 18, from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. Bring identification.

Democratic House primary

In the Democratic primary, Jeremiah A. "Jake" Denton IV and Missy Cotter Smasal are vying to be the party's candidate in the Nov. 2 District House election.

Denton, 48, is a civil rights and constitutional law attorney who grew up in Virginia Beach. His grandfather, Jeremiah A. Denton Jr., a former U.S. senator, was a POW for seven years in Vietnam.

Denton graduated from the University of Virginia, where he majored in history. He then worked as a foreign correspondent and a reporter covering Hampton Roads' economy, local government, and social issues.

Denton also worked for the Virginia Port Authority as editor of The Virginia Maritimer for seven years.

He graduated cum laude from the William and Mary School of Law and is a graduate of the University of Virginia's Sorensen Political Leadership Program.

Cotter Smasal, 46, served as a Surface Warfare Officer in the U.S. Navy and deployed aboard the U.S.S. Trenton during Operation Enduring Freedom.

She owned and operated a small business, a local Rita's Italian Ice, for more than a decade. She now is executive director of Valor Run, a nonprofit organization that honors servicewomen, and is an adjunct professor at Old Dominion University.

She serves as the Virginia citizen representative on the Chesapeake Bay Commission.

She has a bachelor's of arts degree in political science from Villanova University and a master's degree in education from Old Dominion University.

Among those endorsing Cotter Smasal is former Gov. Ralph Northam.

Republican Senate primary

In the Republican primary, five men are vying to be the party's candidate for Senate.

The candidates are Hung Cao, Edward C. "Eddie" Garcia Jr., Jonathan W. Emord, C. L. "Chuck" Smith Jr., and Scott Thomas Parkinson.

Hung Cao, 52, of Purcellville, is a retired U.S. Navy captain who served in Special Operations for 25 years. His family fled Vietnam just before the fall of Saigon and came to the United States after spending seven years in Africa.

Bridgforth new leader of Community Foundation

Monika Bridgforth has been named the new executive director of the Eastern Shore Community Foundation.

Bridgforth brings over three decades of finance, management, and nonprofit experience to the foundation, according to a prepared release.

She began serving in her new position at the foundation on June 1.

Bridgforth replaces Julie Badger, who announced her retirement as of June 30.

Badger served as the second executive director for the nonprofit and led the organization over the past eight years.

Cara Burton, foundation board chair, expressed her appreciation for Badger's service.

"We are immensely grateful for

Monika Bridgforth

Julie's leadership and service to the foundation," she said.

"Julie led during a time when, now more than ever, the nonprofits on the Shore rely on the grant and donor funds that the foundation manages. She has helped make the grant application more than just completing a form by engaging nonprofits, attending their events, and educating them about nonprofit management.

"Today, thanks to Julie's unwavering commitment, the ongoing involvement of our board of directors and the support of our exceptional community, the ESVCF has never been stronger. Julie has had a very successful career on the Shore, and we appreciate that we have benefited from her experience and expertise. We wish her the best in her retirement."

Burton said, "On behalf of the board of directors of the foundation, I am delighted to welcome Monika as our new executive director. Her wealth of experience and demonstrated leadership in serving our community will help the foundation move forward in its mission to enrich lives on Virginia's Eastern Shore."

Bridgforth said, "I have always felt a personal desire to serve my community, which is why the mission of the Eastern Shore of Virginia Community Foundation resonates so strongly with me. I can't imagine a more compelling (and rewarding) mission than to help build capacity within our non-profits sector and to encourage and facilitate a culture of philanthropy among our residents."

Bridgforth and her husband moved their family to Cape Charles 19 years ago. Over the years, she has worked with many key Eastern Shore individuals and organizations, including The Barrier Islands Center and the Eastern Shore Yacht and Country Club.

The foundation is a permanent charitable endowment that connects people with the causes they care about and provides grants to nonprofits on Virginia's Eastern Shore. For more information, visit www.esvcf.org

Occohannock teacher earns lottery funding

Thousands of Virginia educators received a thank-you note in the Virginia Lottery's Thank a Teacher campaign. One lucky Virginia teacher received that and a lot more.

Rachel Powell, a third-grade teacher at Occohannock Elementary School in Exmore, won $2,500 courtesy of the Virginia Lottery and its partners, IGT and NeoPollard Interactive.

The school where Powell teaches, Occohannock Elementary School, will receive $2,500 in supplies from The Supply Room.

Powell's name was randomly selected in the prize drawing from nearly 17,000 entries submitted by teachers who entered a special code from their thank-you notes. The Virginia Lottery and its partners gathered to surprise Powell at her school with the good news on June 4.

The ninth annual award-winning Thank a Teacher campaign was held in conjunction with National Teacher Appreciation Week.

This year over 130,000 thank-you notes were sent to Virginia K-12 public school teachers by their students, parents, or other Virginians. The notes, which could be hard-copy or electronic, each had one of three pieces of artwork designed by Virginia elementary, middle, and high school students who won the Thank a Teacher Art Contest.

ESCC Guides Students to Internships and Opportunities

William Truslow and his family moved to the Shore from Charlottesville in 2016. He brought with him a strong interest in music and sound production. His family settled in Cape Charles in search of a more rural setting and he first attended Cape Charles Christian School and then Northampton High School in 2021.

Playing guitar and bass and quickly mastering various software audio production platforms, William was forming career goals already. As he entered the dual-enrollment program at your Eastern Shore Community College, he also found more challenging classes that aligned with his many other interests.

William commented that “ESCC classes were immediately more satisfying because I felt I was learning and retaining more. Some of my favorites were my English 112 and Children’s Literature classes with Christina Duffman, Biology with Dr. Alex Foxworthy, and Communications with Dr. Emily Moore. While not directly related to my main interest, they all taught skills that are certainly applicable across the board.”

In regards to his main interest, ESCC Student Advisor Suzanne Henderson talked to William about his goal of working with sound and audio. “I knew we have a great working relationship with our community partners at WESR Radio and thought an internship may be a possibility. Our Career Services Center on campus is helping students daily find these types of opportunities and we’re fortunate to see a growing number of possibilities.”

Will Russell at WESR welcomed William’s interest and immediately found ways for him to be exposed to hands-on experience that includes many audio production aspects directly relating to his future endeavors. Russell continued, “William almost immediately was able to tackle on-air and board operation duties. We’ve enjoyed watching his progress. As a community station we welcome the partnership with ESCC in providing opportunities like this.”

As William enters his senior year of high school as a dual-enrollment student at ESCC, he’ll continue laying the groundwork for his dream job in audio production. “Public speaking, community involvement, and many other aspects of my time at ESCC, are all paving the way to helping me achieve my goals of owning my own recording studio one day and even a record label. Helping artists capture their own unique creations will be a dream come true.”

The Fall Semester begins on August 26th at ESCC and registration is underway. The Career Services Center on campus is also available to assist with students and non-students in discovering career and internship possibilities. Jeff Holland, right, was the speaker at a recent Eastern Shore Christian Businessmen's Association meeting. Holland, the executive director of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge and Tunnel District since 2005, gave a thorough history of the 17.6-mile span, opened in April 1964 at a cost of $200 million. Eventually named after Lucius Kellam Jr., the Eastern Shoreman who spearheaded the project, the bridge-tunnel replaced the ferry system that made travel from the Eastern Shore to Hampton Roads time consuming, especially during the holidays. Ongoing construction of a second tunnel under the Thimble Shoal channel was delayed for eight months when it hit a century-old anchor. It is now expected to be completed in August 2027. Garland wins West Scholarship

The Nicki L. West Memorial Scholarship is awarded to a Chincoteague High School student on the basis of character, citizenship, leadership, ability, and need.

According to her eldest granddaughter, Jessica West, these were “many of the values that were important to Nicki West and many of which she effortlessly embodied herself.”

The recipient is chosen by a board-appointed committee that includes members of the West family.

Jessica West presented the 2024 Nicki L. West Memorial Scholarship to Allison Garland at the Chincoteague High School Awards Banquet on May 15.

Garland plans to attend Old Dominion University in the fall to pursue a major in chemistry with a pre-med track.

Her ultimate goal is to attend medical school and specialize in radiology.

While maintaining the highest academic ranking in her class, Garland has also been very involved in numerous extracurricular activities throughout her high school career including BETA, track, cheerleading, volleyball, soccer, and yearbook committee.

She also participated in many community projects such as the Chincoteague Elementary School Pumpkin Patch, Manna Cafe, and the Ukraine Soldier Family Fund, where she set up a website and planned events and activities. Her involvement in the Ukraine fund “enriched her understanding of compassion, resilience, and the power of community,” she said. Nicki West was president of the Chincoteague Chamber of Commerce in the early 1980s and her dedication lives on through this scholarship established by her family after her death in 1991.

Under her leadership, the chamber expanded its involvement in the community by creating local events such as the Easter Decoy Festival. She was instrumental in recruiting and educating local businesses about the benefits of joining the Chincoteague Chamber of Commerce.

Harriet Tubman program is June 18 in Parksley

There will be a program entitled “Life and Times of Harriet Tubman” on Tuesday, June 18, at 6 p.m., at the Eastern Shore of Virginia Public Library and Heritage Center in Parksley.

Clara L. Small, a distinguished retired professor from Salisbury University, will deliver the presentation.

Tubman’s journey from slavery to becoming a pivotal figure in the Underground Railroad is a testament to her indomitable spirit.

As a “conductor,” she guided countless individuals to liberty. Her contributions extended beyond the railroad — she served as a scout, spy, and nurse for the Union Army during the Civil War and later championed women’s suffrage.

This event will also feature poster exhibits showcasing slave quilts, which played a crucial role in guiding and communicating with those on the trail to freedom.

This free public event is sponsored by the Virginia Humanities Latimer Fund and the Community & Family Development Training Center.

Cape Charles Christmas ornament is available

Since 2019, Cape Charles Main Street has released an annual Christmas ornament of an iconic structure in Cape Charles to celebrate the town's historic and coastal character.

These ornaments are created by the same company that makes ornaments for the White House and come gift-boxed with descriptive cards telling the story of each memorable structure.

The 2024 limited edition ornament depicts the Cape Charles Memorial Library at 201 Mason Ave., a limestone structure with a grand Neoclassical style interior and exterior.

It was constructed to house the Farmers and Merchants Trust Bank, which opened in 1922.

Today, the building serves as the Cape Charles Memorial Library. The library's journey began in 1919, when it was initially established in a private home at 501 Tazewell Ave. in honor of those who served in World War I.

In 1926, the library relocated to the vacated First Presbyterian Church building at 500 Tazewell Ave., which is now the Civic Center, before finally settling into its current location at 201 Mason Ave., where the plaque commemorating those WWI veterans is on display.

These ornaments will be available at select merchants throughout Cape Charles.

Cape Charles Rotary honors seven in community

The Rotary Club of Cape Charles honored seven community leaders during the club's 100th anniversary celebration on Saturday, May 18.

During an evening program at Cape Charles Christian School, the club bestowed two awards and named five honorary Paul Harris Fellows.

The fellowships are named after the founder of the first Rotary Club in 1896 and what has become Rotary International.

Presented with Community Contributor Awards were S. Dawn Goldstine and Laurie Klingel.

Named honorary Paul Harris Fellows were Bruce Bradley, Adam Charney, John Coker, John Hozey, and Smitty Dize.

■ Goldstine served as superintendent of Northampton County Public Schools from 1989 to 2003, leading the district with uncommon distinction through a tumultuous time.

During her tenure, all four Northampton schools were named Virginia Schools of Excellence and three were identified as National Blue Ribbon Schools.

Goldstine graduated from Columbia University with a doctoral degree.

She became the first female member of the Cape Charles Rotary Club and first female president of the club, as well.

■ The master's degree thesis of Cape Charles store owner Laurie Klingel gave fruit in 2015 to the nonprofit New Roots Youth Garden.

The garden, located prominently at Fig and Randolph streets near the entrance to Cape Charles, gives children hands-on experience harvesting and selling produce and teaches children that they can grow things naturally.

Klingel owns and operates Chuckletown Productions, a creative apparel shop in Cape Charles' Mason Avenue business district.

horticulture.

■ "If it weren't for Bruce Bradley, there would be no YMCA in Cape Charles," said former Rotary Club president and retired attorney John Burdiss.

The building of the YMCA began with a conversation between Bradley and Russell Goodrich, senior pastor of Cape Charles Baptist Church, said Burdiss.

The idea percolated briefly, but once Bradley committed to lead the project, he raised $4.5 million in just eight months.

The campaign was the shortest fundraiser ever accomplished by the South Hampton Roads YMCA, which has 29 locations.

Bradley had previously served as chairman of the South Hampton Roads YMCA.

Bradley currently chairs the Board of Visitors of Old Dominion University as its rector.

Bradley was formerly publisher of The Virginian-Pilot newspaper.

Bradley graduated from Villanova

University with a bachelor's degree and from Old Dominion University with a master's degree in business administration.

He and his wife, Lilly, reside in Virginia Beach and Cape Charles.

■ Adam Charney was elected mayor of Cape Charles in 2022 and has proven himself as an able communicator and leader.

Adam is a mortgage officer and graduated from the University of Maryland.

He and his wife, Melissa, reside in Cape Charles.

■ John Coker has been the District One supervisor for Northampton County since 2017 and was re-elected in 2021.

"I can assure you that John is one of the hardest working supervisors I have ever known," said Burdiss.

"He's very diligent, he's very interested, he works hard, ... and when he wants something done, as he has done with me several times, he will badger you to no end," Burdiss said.

Prior to moving to the Eastern Shore in 1998, Coker was a senior executive with Mellon Bank.

Coker graduated from Emory University with bachelor's and master's degrees in mathematics.

■ Town Manager John Hozey has guided Cape Charles' government through four years of pandemic and rapid town growth, including significant zoning revisions, sale of the municipal water system, and negotiating the purchase of the old railroad yard.

Although born in Philadelphia, Hozey's ties to a Chincoteague summer house run three generations deep.

Built by Hozey's grandfather in the 1950s, the house was passed to Hozey's father and then to Hozey himself.

Prior to starting as Cape Charles town manager in 2020, Hozey served as deputy chief of staff for Gov. Bill Walker, of Alaska. That job ended when Walker's term expired in December 2018.

Hozey holds a bachelor's of science degree in aeronautical engineering from Emory-Riddle Aeronautical University in Daytona Beach, Fla.

He spent 11 years in the U.S. Air Force as a rescue pilot and senior rescue controller, Pentagon program manager, and flight commander.

During that period, he earned a master's degree in public administration from Central Michigan University in Mount Pleasant, Mich.

■ Former mayor Smitty Dize personifies Cape Charles' longtime link to the Chesapeake Bay.

Dize not only led the town government from 2018 to 2022, but kept a tight rein on spending and taxes.

The harbormaster and former waterman also worked tirelessly behind the scenes to promote the town.

Among his quieter successes was attracting Jon Dempster to run the Shanty in Cape Charles.

Randall graduates from forensic science academy

Barry W. Randall

The Virginia Forensic Science Academy has concluded its 111th session and the Northampton County Sheriff's Office announces that Investigator Barry W. Randall has successfully met all requirements and graduated March 29.

The academy's objective is to provide high-level training to qualified crime scene search officers.

Law enforcement personnel learn to properly recognize, document, collect, and preserve — for laboratory examination — items of physical evidence found at crime scenes.

The academy participant becomes familiar with the capabilities and limitations of the modern forensic laboratory in examining the spectrum of materials which can be collected as evidence in criminal cases.

The nine-week course of study also provides officers with the necessary background information and practical application techniques which, coupled with the student's previous experience, permits maximum utilization of the forensic sciences to their departments and the criminal justice system of the commonwealth.

"Investigator Randall's graduation from the Virginia Forensic Science Academy is an accomplishment that will help the Northampton County Sheriff's Office to better serve our community," said Northampton Sheriff David Doughty.

Onancock Main Street adds new leader, board member Onancock Main Street has added Lisa Fiege as its new president and Jeff Adler as a new board member.

Fiege holds a master's degree in political science from Florida State University.

She has been a resident of the town of Onancock since 2016 and worked for the town for eight years from 2013-2021.

She joined the OMS board in December 2022 and was elected to the position of treasurer the following February.

Her knowledge of the town and willingness to put the work into the organization made her the natural candidate to be the next president of OMS, according to a prepared release.

Fiege also is a member of the Economic Development Authority of the Town of Onancock and the Onancock Farmer's & Artisan's Market board.

Adler brings a wealth of experience to the board, having held roles in various successful businesses throughout his career, according to a prepared release.

These roles include director of technology for an international management consulting firm, vice president for a startup technology company, and founder and chief executive of a company that provides technology services to small- and medium-sized businesses.

Adler's focus on finance and operations will be invaluable as OMS works to strengthen and promote Onancock's business community, the release stated.

He and his wife and two children moved to Onancock three years ago.

Adler joins five other board members for OMS, which is part of the Virginia Main Street Program.

OMS is a volunteer-driven, nonprofit organization that works to develop and sustain Onancock's historic downtown.

As examples, OMS has supported high-impact downtown revitalization projects such as assessing the feasibility of renovating vacant commercial buildings, murals to enhance the downtown district, tourism advertising, and marketing support for businesses.

PUBLIC NOTICE – ENVIRONMENTAL PERMIT

PURPOSE OF NOTICE: To seek public comment on a draft permit from the Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) for the withdrawal of ground water in Accomack County, Virginia.

PUBLIC COMMENT PERIOD: June 14, 2024 to July 15, 2024

PERMIT NAME: Ground Water Withdrawal Permit issued by DEQ pursuant to applicable water laws and regulations

APPLICANT NAME, ADDRESS AND PERMIT NUMBER: MHC NAC Inc.; 2 North Riverside Plaza, Suite 800, Chicago, IL 60606; GWI000223

NAME AND LOCATION OF WATER WITHDRAWAL: Virginia Landing; 40226 Upshur Neck Rd., Quinby, VA 23423

PROJECT DESCRIPTION: MHC NAC Inc. has applied for a reissuance of a permit for the Virginia Landing campground. The permit would authorize the applicant to withdraw a maximum of 6,000,000 gallons per year and 1,580,000 gallons per month from the Upper Yorktown-Eastover aquifer. The ground water withdrawal will support the public non-municipal water supply. The top of the Upper Yorktown-Eastover aquifer at the proposed withdrawal site was determined to be 140 feet below land surface. An aquifer is a body of rock or layer of sediment in the ground in which ground water is stored and transported. DEQ has made a tentative decision to issue the permit.

AFFECTED AREA: The radial distance from the well to where computer modeling predicts the aquifer may experience one foot of drawdown due to the withdrawal does not extend beyond the applicant's property. The Draft Permit can be viewed at <https://tinyurl.com/5n96vj2c>

HOW TO COMMENT AND/OR REQUEST A PUBLIC HEARING: DEQ accepts comments and requests for public hearing by hand-delivery, e-mail, or postal mail. All comments and requests must be in writing and be received by DEQ during the comment period. Submittals must include the names, mailing addresses or email addresses of the commenter/requester and of all persons represented by the commenter/requester. A request for public hearing must also include: 1) The reason why a public hearing is requested. 2) A brief, informal statement regarding the nature and extent of the interest of the requester or of those represented by the requester, including how and to what extent such interest would be directly and adversely affected by the permit. 3) Specific references, where possible, to terms and conditions of the permit with suggested revisions. A public hearing may be held, including another comment period, if public response is significant, based on individual requests for a public hearing, and there are substantial, disputed issues relevant to the permit.

CONTACT FOR PUBLIC COMMENTS, DOCUMENT REQUESTS AND ADDITIONAL INFORMATION: Nicole Reungoat; DEQ Central Office, P.O. Box 1105, Richmond, VA, 23218; Phone: 804-698-4192; E-mail: nicole.reungoat@deq.virginia.gov. The public may review the draft permit and application at the DEQ office named above by appointment or may request copies of the documents from the contact person listed above.

David Long, right, of the Tidewater Emergency Medical Service Council, presents the award to Greg DeYoung, Northampton EMS director.

Northampton EMS earns regional innovation award

The Northampton County Department of EMS was presented with the Tidewater Emergency Medical Services Council's Regional Award for Innovation Excellence in EMS at an awards ceremony in Chesapeake.

The award honors an EMS provider, EMS agency or private/public organization that exemplifies innovative excellence and advancement at the local, regional, statewide, and national level.

As a regional award recipient, the nomination for Northampton County Department of EMS will now be forwarded to the state level for a chance to receive the Governor's EMS Award later this year.

Over the last two years, one of the Northampton EMS goals has been to enhance the learning and training opportunities for EMS providers and citizens in Northampton County.

It was awarded two grants, a USDA Rural Development grant, and the Rural Public Health Workforce Training Network Program Grant. Both have allowed the department to offer comprehensive and up-to-date training programs in an updated training facility.

In 2023, the Northampton EMS training facility was granted permission to be a designated webcast receiving site through the Virginia Office of EMS.

This allows Northampton County to bring live education to Eastern Shore EMS providers from the Tidewater region and other areas virtually.

"Our agency is committed to continuously evaluating and updating our training programs to ensure they meet the evolving needs of EMS providers and align with the latest industry standards. Through collaboration with our local hospital, other emergency services, and educational institutions, we strive to create a supportive and enriching learning environment for EMS providers in Northampton County," the county stated in a prepared release.

On top of that, I have guaranteed price matching for wherever you are currently having your vehicle serviced.

To our present Shore customers that have already entrusted us for all of your automobile needs, I thank you sincerely and look forward to continue to serve you in the future.
