Cape Charles' 1924 fire engine set to return to town's July 4 parade — fingers crossed

BY TED SHOCKLEY
Eastern Shore Post

For years, every parade in Cape Charles was led by the Cape Charles Volunteer Fire Company's 1924 American LaFrance fire truck, which town firefighters bought brand-new a century ago.

It's spartan and tiny compared to today's colossal fire engines, which gleam with chrome and lights.

But the old truck's motor's water pump went bad a few years back. And it was hard to find a replacement.

"Every time we'd try to run it in the parade, it would run hot and boil over," said Ryan Peake, the fire company's treasurer.

The pump, however, has been replaced. Fire company officials plan on having the centenarian truck back in its usual spot — at the front of the line, right behind the color guard — in the town's Independence Day parade on July 4 at 10 a.m.

"We're crossing our fingers," said Peake, with a nod to the balky nature of 100-year-old vehicles.

A Pennsylvania machinist who specializes in repairing old American LaFrance trucks created a new water pump.

Supervisors OK rezoning, permit for massive Onley project

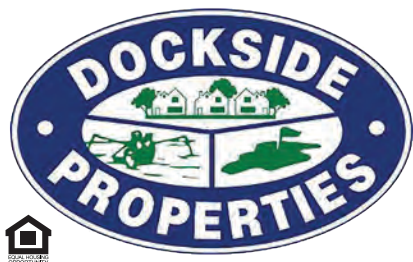

BY JANET BERNOSKY
Eastern Shore Post

The Accomack County Board of Supervisors voted unanimously June 20 to grant a rezoning request, along with a separate conditional-use permit, for the developer of a massive housing community proposed for an area near Onley and Tasley.

The Accomack County Planning Commission had recommended approval of a conditional rezoning, subject to proffers, after it held public hearings on the matter in March and April.

Owner and developer Chris Carbaugh, of Atlantic Group and Associates Inc., and Coastal Square and Residences LLC, requested a zoning change of 95.89 of approximate 100 acres of land from a business and agricultural district to village development.

Built in several phases, the Coastal

Fire engine

Even at its advanced age, company officials say it last worked a fire alarm in the 1980s, when it pumped water from the town harbor on a boat fire.

The engine still has its original wood ladders, wooden spoke wheels, and an oil-fired lantern on its side.

After the parade, the engine will be on display at Peach Street Books for the public. The fire company also will be accepting donations at the display.

Peake said the fire company hopes to buy a new fire truck — the town has given the company a $250,000 matching grant toward its purchase.

The fire company's pumpers and tankers are more than 25 years old — in a growing community that has seen more than 300 homes built in the past five years.

Peake said a new fire truck could cost $800,000 — so the company has some fundraising ahead of it.

When the money is raised and a new fire engine is eventually purchased, it will share a home with the town's first truck, which is working on its second century in town.

"It's amazing it has stayed intact this long," Peake said.

Supervisors get briefing on state legislation impacts

BY STEFANIE JACKSON
Eastern Shore Post

Northampton County Attorney Michelle Clayton on Tuesday, June 25, apprised supervisors of new state legislation with potential local impacts.

Two of the bills that recently passed the Virginia General Assembly deal with the hot-button issue of short-term vacation rental homes:

House Bill 1461 states that, if a person is leasing or subleasing a property, a locality cannot bar that person from offering the property for short-term rental if the person has the permission of the property owner.

Senate Bill 544 states that a locality can neither require a special- or conditional-use permit for the short-term rental of an accessory dwelling unit nor bar a property owner from offering an accessory dwelling unit for short-term rental if the property owner legally occupies the main home as his or her primary residence.

The General Assembly also passed legislation, House Bill 634 and Senate Bill 308, that prevents a locality from enacting or enforcing an ordinance prohibiting home rental for 30 consecutive days or longer.

A locality may regulate these rentals if the regulations are reasonable and do not exceed the requirements for owner-occupied homes or rental homes with lease terms of 12 months or more.

Clayton reviewed several bills on land use that may have local impact:

House Bill 755 allows a locality, by ordinance, to charge a civil penalty for a commercial or industrial facility for certain property violations. For example, a retail store could be penalized for allowing a mosquito pond in its parking lot, the county attorney said.

Senate Bill 296 states that local planning commissions must use the same approval processes for residential developments as the planning commissions use for commercial developments.

House Bill 1486 and Senate Bill 48 allow a locality, by ordinance, to require a property owner to register a building that has been vacant for 12 months or longer, meets the definition of “derelict structure” or “criminal blight,” or is occupied by a squatter – a person living in the building without the permission of the property owner.

Furthermore, House Bill 478 and Senate Bill 49 allow a locality to establish a community revitalization fund to prevent neighborhood deterioration. Richmond currently is the only Virginia locality to have such a fund.

Clayton reviewed several bills with environmental impacts, including House Bill 220, which allows sewage treatment facilities to employ licensed operators to monitor the facilities remotely and stay in compliance with state regulations.

She also discussed other bills, including one that prohibits workplaces from discriminating against employees for the lawful use of cannabis oil.

Law enforcement officers are exempt from that protection, which Clayton deemed “not very fair, because they have pretty stressful jobs.”

Development

Square development, located near Cooperative Way and the Chesapeake Square shopping center in Onley, will consist of multiple residential and commercial options.

Plans include the construction of 312 garden-style apartment units housed in 13 buildings, 55 townhouses, 76 duplexes, and 22 loft apartments created over commercial spaces.

Carbaugh said 20% of the garden apartments would be designated as “workforce housing” for middle-income individuals, couples, and families who typically don’t qualify for most federal housing assistance programs.

The tree-lined community would include amenities such as basketball and tennis courts, walking trails, a pool with clubhouse, a recreational center, a child care facility, sidewalks, and playgrounds.

Water service would come from the town of Onancock.

“I think we have a good project here,” said Carbaugh, adding that it will help to address the county’s housing shortage, while offering options for residents other than single-family dwellings.

In other news,

■ County Administrator Mike Mason expressed an interest to host a roundtable discussion with local business and industry representatives, to address the need for increased child care options in northern Accomack County, including Chincoteague.

His plans would include involving representatives from the Navy, NASA, private contractors, and space companies, plus larger corporations such as Tyson Foods. Local child care providers would also be an integral part of the discussion.

■ Representatives from the Foodbank of Southeastern Virginia and the Eastern Shore presented statistics showing a sharp rise in the number of food insecure individuals in the county, from 3,230 to 4,340 in one year’s time, an increase of 34%.

They suggested an expansion of the Tasley foodbank facility as a potential solution to serve more people, jump-started through funding from a non-matching $100,000 Department of Health and Community Development planning grant.

Mike Mason assured the supervisors that DHCD planning grants aren’t part of that department’s funding cap. Therefore, he said, this would not impact the county’s DHCD funding earmarked for derelict housing demolition and renovation projects scheduled in Horn-town.

He suggested that further discussion to develop a non-binding memorandum of understanding (MOU) between the county and the foodbank regarding specifics of the project occur at the next monthly meeting scheduled for July 17.

■ The Board of Supervisors unanimously approved a FY 2025 funding request from the Eastern Shore 911 Commission to increase staff compensation from 1% to 3% to match the compensation of county employees.

Burn ban instituted in Accomack County

In accordance with the Accomack County Code, Article II, Open Burning, Section 42-49, the county administrator has declared a burn ban due to dry conditions creating a threat to life and property throughout the county.

This suspension of burning applies to and prohibits all open burning within Accomack County’s jurisdiction only. This suspension is effective immediately and will continue until conditions change.

Campgrounds and agriculture activities are exempt.

Any violation of the Accomack County Open Burning Ordinance is punishable as a Class 1 Misdemeanor, which may result in confinement in jail for not more than 12 months and a fine of not more than $2,500, either or both.

Questions regarding this announcement may be directed to the Accomack County Administration Office at 757-787-5700.

SERVING VIRGINIA'S EASTERN SHORE

THE PAPER'S POSITION

Celebrating our farmers during Virginia Ag Week

Gov. Glenn Youngkin proclaimed June 23 to 29 as Virginia Agriculture Week in recognition and celebration of the Commonwealth's agricultural industry.

The Virginia Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services encourages the public to join in supporting the Commonwealth's farmers and local economy by purchasing Virginia grown and produced agricultural goods from the state's diverse offerings.

"Agriculture is Virginia's largest private industry and an economic driver for the state. The industry contributes over $82 billion to our economy, with more than $43 billion in value-added impact, and provides over 381,000 jobs throughout the Commonwealth," said Youngkin.

According to the USDA National Statistics Service data, the Commonwealth is home to approximately 39,000 farms that cover 7.3 million acres. Virginia's diverse agricultural production includes livestock, field crops, fruits, vegetables, poultry, dairy, greenhouse and nursery, aquaculture, and vineyards. The Commonwealth ranks third in the nation for seafood landings and leaf tobacco, fifth for apples, sixth for turkeys, eighth for peanuts; and ninth for broilers measured in head and pounds.

Scientific and technological advancements have fueled greater efficiency in agricultural production. Present-day farmers produce enough to feed their family plus the equivalent of 155 people around the world, compared to less than ten people in the 1930s.

"Virginia Agriculture Week is the perfect opportunity to celebrate and support the local family farm businesses at the heart of so many of our communities," said VDACS Commissioner Joseph Guthrie.

In June, awareness of the acronym PRIDE

BY SARAH BARNES

Since 1970, LGBTQ+ people have gathered in June to march with pride and demonstrate for equal rights.

Three to five thousand marchers participated in the inaugural PRIDE and today participants number in the millions.

A video from this original event is available in the Library of Congress archives.

The video highlights the atmosphere surrounding the struggle of the LGBTQ+ community to access self-expression and human rights.

PRIDE is an acronym for Personal Rights in Defense and Education.

The video is filled with interviews of the parade participants and the onlookers.

One participant was asked what was the most negative experience that they had faced from the public opinion on homosexuality.

What is a shout-out? Instead, let's just say 'thank you'

Sometime along the way, we stopped publicly complimenting and thanking people.

Ted Shockley

Instead, these days we give them a “shout-out” to express our gratitude.

Gone are thanks and kudos, regard and respect, appreciation and acknowledgment.

In their place is the slangy shout-out, an odd term that sounds more like disagreement than thankfulness.

We're apt to say, “I want to give a shout-out to all the donors who made this possible,” adding informal language to what should be a formal conveyance of gratitude.

We also say: “I'd like to give a shout-out to my peeps for helping me get through the tough times.”

(We also should stop using the term “peeps” to refer to people dear to us. I am nobody's “peep,” but I am friends to many. “Peeps,” where I come from, are sugary marshmallow snacks brought by the Easter bunny.)

“Shout-out” is a strange term. It actually sounds like the description of an argument:

“Mama got mad after I told her I was dropping out of college and we had a shout-out in the front yard,” someone might say.

Or: “They shorted me a spicy tender at Ro-Fo and I had a shout-out with the cashier, and told him I was about go off if I didn't get more chicken.”

(When I was growing up, the term “go off” meant “to leave,” as in, “Alfred, our kitty cat, was about 45 years old when he decided to go off and die, and we haven't seen him since.”)

These days, “go off” means to lose one's cool and have a tantrum. I don't know why.

Using “shout-out” to express gratitude is akin to using the term “swearing in” or “sworn” to mean “oath of office,” which is one of my pet peeves.

“Oath of office” sounds dignified, almost regal. Judges, politicians, and the like take an oath of office, I always argue. They aren't sworn in.

“Swearing in” or “sworn in” sounds like what you do, in a fit of rage, to a lawn mower that won't start.

These days, however, when thanking the people who fixed your lawn mower, you'd give them a shout-out:

“I'd like to give a shout-out to the guys at the shop who fixed my broken mower after the swearing-in I gave the darned thing.”

Why do we have this affinity with unnecessarily injecting the words “shout” and “swear” into our everyday vernacular?

I think the attraction to the term “shout-out” comes from the general reluctance of people to say “thank you,” which are the most important two words in the English language.

Maybe expressing sincere gratitude by saying “thank you” appears weak or subordinate.

Perhaps using the term “shout-out” sounds more chic and contemporary, two characteristics that have never much concerned me.

So the next time you want to publicize or vocalize your appreciation, just say “thank you.”

It sounds more sincere than a shout-out. And sincerity should always be a goal of ours.

Creating safe spaces is a pivotal protective factor for any form of community. Safe spaces involve learning the facts, using inclusive language, and finding collaborative resources.

Even an individual can be a safe space through understanding and kindness.

Learning the facts could be as simple as having an open-minded approach to learning about the experiences of those within the LGTBQ+ community.

Using inclusive language could be saying “Hello everyone,” instead of saying, “Hello boys and girls.”

Inclusive language could also refer to the use of identifying pronouns (she/her, he/him, they/them).

This slight change opens the door for the individual to state how they view themselves.

Northampton Historic Preservation Society sponsors Savage lecture

The Northampton Historic Preservation Society will present “Lecture at the Mimosa Barn” on Sunday, July 14, at 2 p.m.

Dr. David Scott will discuss one of Northampton County's most interesting and popular early settlers, Ensign Savage.

Come and hear the story of this important individual who lived with the Native Americans near Jamestown in the early years of the Virginia Colony. Why was he called “Ensign”? When did he come to the Eastern Shore and how did “Savage Neck” get its name? Who was his wife and was she one of the earliest women to receive a patent for her own land in America? These questions and more will be discussed.

No fees are charged for this lecture, but attendees are asked to consider a $10 donation to support ongoing NHPS preservation and education efforts. Bring a lawn chair and dress comfortably.

was the oldest daughter of the late James Jerome Hunter and the late Margaret Anne Hunter.

Linda was proud to be the first grandchild in her family, earning her the honor of naming her grandparents, thus creating the beloved name “Baba,” which her cousins and siblings fondly adopted. A well-behaved, kind, and studious young lady, Linda was an avid reader and a straight-A student, known for her academic prowess.

Linda graduated with a bachelor’s degree in English from Longwood College in 1969 and earned her master’s degree in education from Old Dominion University in 1977. She began her teaching career in 1969 in the Virginia Beach Public Schools. After meeting her husband, Donald Fletcher III, she moved back to the Eastern Shore and taught at Parksley Middle School. She spent a total of 31 years teaching in the classrooms of Accomack County, with 19 of those years at Arcadia High School, inspiring countless students with her dedication and passion for learning.

Linda had many passions, including scrapbooking, enjoying Diet Cokes, and frequenting Sonic.

She loved her church family at Atlantic Baptist Church, where she was a devoted Christian and found great joy in her faith and community. Her most important role in life was as a mother to her son, Donald. Despite his lifelong health problems, Linda was his dedicated caregiver and even donated a kidney to him. His passing a few years ago was a profound loss for her.

Linda is survived by her sister, Margaret “Peg” Hunter Baldwin (Kirk); cousins, William T. McCready III (Donna), Scott Hunter (Maria), Timothy A. McCready (Barbara), and Glenn Hunter (Jeanne); nephew, Hunter Baldwin (Casie); and great-nephew, Jack Baldwin.

She was preceded in death by her parents, James and Margaret Hunter; husband, Donald Frank Fletcher III; and son, Donald Frank Fletcher IV.

A memorial service is being planned for August and will be announced on the funeral home website once available.

In lieu of flowers, contributions may be made to Atlantic Baptist Church, P.O. Box 397, Atlantic, VA 23303, or the Atlantic Volunteer Fire and Rescue Co., P.O. Box 207, Atlantic, VA 23303.

Betty West

Mrs. Betty Bloxom West, of Wallops Island, walked humbly into the arms of her Lord and Savior on Wednesday, June 19, 2024, at the age of 87. Born Dec. 23, 1936, on her family’s bayside farm in Accomack County, she was the daughter of the late Charles Clement Bloxom and Ruth Magdalene Nock Bloxom. Though she was an only child, Betty shared a special bond with her neighboring cousins, whom she considered siblings, creating countless precious memories together.

Following graduation from Atlantic High School in 1955, Betty continued her education at the Medical College of Virginia School of Nursing, where she attained her bachelor’s degree. Having been fortunate enough to have found the love of her life in high school, Betty Bloxom became Mrs. William W. West on July 20, 1958. Together she and Bill returned to the ESVA and began their 66-year love story.

A faithful and active member of Atlantic Baptist Church since 1960, Betty’s involvement within her church community began in her teenage years and continued through her devotion to the Woman’s Missionary Union and the church choir, and she always looked forward to leading vacation Bible school in the summers.

Her faith was a cornerstone of her life, and she extended her commitment to The Community Church of Vero Beach, Fla., while wintering there with Bill over the past two decades. Their time in Vero Beach was especially precious, as it was then they spent quality time with their granddaughters. Betty and Bill’s bond was an inspiration to all who knew them. Together they traveled extensively, often accompanied by dear friends, Bill and Priscilla West, and original neighbors and friends from Wallops, Ed and Karen Olander. These journeys were filled with endless laughter and cherished memories.

Professionally, Betty made a significant impact on the community as a registered nurse in family planning for the Accomack County Health Department, a position she held for over 20 years. Over those years, she and lifelong friend, Pat Bloxom, became especially close with co-workers, Elaine Brehm and Dale Parks. They called themselves the “Silver Foxes.” This group, which often included honorary members Priscilla West and Peggy Williams, in various iterations, socialized and traveled together. They, along with their husbands, celebrated life’s milestones and joys, and especially looked forward to their annual New Year’s Eve gatherings at the home of Pat and Bob Bloxom.

From August 1972 to June 1992, Betty served as a member of the Accomack County School Board, where she worked alongside her treasured friend, Dr. Donald Fletcher. Their commutes to meetings in Accomack were filled with lively discussions about various topics and issues, reflecting Betty’s deep commitment to education and community service. She was known for her kindness, regularly providing rides to the grocery store or church for elderly friends. As a young mother, those trips provided an invaluable lesson to her children about the importance of treating others as you wish to be treated.

Betty’s legacy of care extended to her personal life, where she lovingly nursed her mother, mother-in-law, and father during their final days. Her compassion and dedication were testaments to her character and the profound love she had for her family.

She is survived by her loving husband, William Witmer “Bill” West; her children, Steve Rodney West and his wife, Libby, of Horntown, and Linda West Shipley, of Vero Beach; her granddaughters, Nancy Shipley Beaumont (Ian), Anna Magdalene Shipley (Nick), and Lillie Shipley Spiro (C.J.); her cousin, Richard Marshall, and his daughters, Susan Marshall and Sandi Robison; and last but certainly not least, her beloved Atlantic Baptist Church family. She loved every single one of you. In addition to her parents, she was predeceased by her dear cousin, Jo Ann Byrd Bloxom, and her husband, Daniel.

Funeral services were held at the Atlantic Baptist Church on Saturday, June 22, at 2 p.m., with the Rev. Maury Enright officiating. Interment followed at the John W. Taylor Memorial Cemetery. There was a visitation at the church one hour prior to the service.

Contributions in Betty’s memory may be made to Atlantic Baptist Church, P.O. Box 397, Atlantic, VA 23303.

John "Ben" Reinoehl

Mr. John Benjamin "Ben" Reinoehl, 92, a resident of Belle Haven, formerly of Bethlehem, Pa., passed away peacefully on June 23, 2024, at Commonwealth Senior Living on the Eastern Shore.

He was born Sept. 28, 1931, in Pottsville, Pa., a son to the late John Benjamin Reinoehl Sr. and the late Anna "Bessie" Marquette Reinoehl. Ben led a life marked by intelligence, humor, and dedication, in both his personal and professional endeavors. Ben was a loving figure in his family.

Mr. Reinoehl

Ben finished high school at Wyoming Seminary before pursuing a degree in industrial engineering at Lehigh University. His academic pursuits were complemented by his involvement with Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity, fostering lifelong friendships and connections.

Ben proudly served his country in the U.S. Army as a first lieutenant from 1954 to 1956. He began his career at Bethlehem Steel under the guidance of his father-in-law, eventually moving to Air Products. Known affectionately as "Mr. Helium," Ben's entrepreneurial spirit and vision were instrumental in advancing the company's global leadership in the helium industry. Ben also served the company in several key areas, among them hydrogen, argon, and welding gases.

He was awarded the Chairman's Award in 1993 for his contribution to Air Product's success.

Ben's personal life was filled with joy and love, marked by his marriage of 59 years to Barbara Clements Reinoehl, who predeceased him. He is survived by his daughter, Elizabeth "Beth" Reinoehl-McClaskey; son-in-law, Stephen; son, Jonathan Reinoehl; daughter-in-law, Karen; and grandchildren, Jonathan (fiancée, Sophie Strome), Jacob, and Lauren McClaskey.

Ben served as an usher at First Presbyterian Church in Bethlehem. An avid sports enthusiast, Ben enjoyed playing tennis and golf at the Saucon Valley Country Club, watching sports on TV, playing poker, reading, and going to the beach with his buddies. His sense of humor and loyalty enriched the lives of all who knew him.

Ben's legacy of warmth, wit, and wisdom will be deeply missed but fondly remembered by his family and friends.

The family would like to thank Kesha West and Kenya Strand, as well as Riverside Hospice and the staff at Commonwealth Senior Living, for their compassionate care over the last four years.

Douglas graduated from Nandua High School in 1993. Soon after graduation, he relocated to Greer, S.C., where he worked as a carpenter for more than two decades until returning home to the Eastern Shore.

Mr. Hopkins

If there was one thing he never wavered on, it was the Washington Redskins, and he was about as die-hard as they come. As much as he loved the Skins, he shared this passion for all sports and was especially fond of the Boston Celtics and the Baltimore Orioles. Temperanceville woman jailed for smuggling drugs to inmate

BY NANCY DRURY DUNCAN
Eastern Shore Post

A Temperanceville woman will spend three months in jail for delivering an illegal drug to an inmate in the Accomack County Jail.

Last October, an informant told authorities that a controlled substance could be found on a female prisoner.

A search revealed buprenorphine, a synthetic opioid used to treat pain and opioid use disorders.

Mychael Lezelle Jones, 28, “has no significant criminal record,” said Commonwealth’s Attorney Spencer Morgan.

He said he entered into a plea agreement with Jones.

In exchange for her plea of guilty to one felony, he agreed not to prosecute the second felony charge of conspiracy to deliver a controlled substance to an inmate.

That charge resulted from authorities listening to recordings of jail phone calls as Jones and inmate Amanda Daisey planned their scheme to get the drugs to her.

Morgan told the court that the drug was taken to Daisey inside the lining of an eyeglasses case.

“Jones has children. She didn’t get paid for this; she was a friend of the inmate,” said defense attorney Garrett Dunham.

Judge W. Revell Lewis III accepted the agreement and sentenced Jones to five years with all but three months suspended. Jones will be on supervised probation for three years, which will begin upon her release.

Neal lands 260-pound bigeye tuna

The official start of summer, at least according to the calendar, ushered in temperatures more associated with late August than mid-June. These hotter-than-average air temperatures have raised local bay and inshore seaside surface water temperatures, causing concern among some local anglers that typical springtime fisheries may be short-lived.

On the bright side, the warmer waters will fall into the comfort zone of the typical summertime species such as Spanish mackerel, cobia, and sheepshead. The warmer offshore water temperatures should jump-start the offshore blue water fishery with arriving tuna, dolphin (mahimahi), wahoo, and blue and white marlin.

Bill Hall

Captain Matt Abell, at the Sea Hawk Sports Center, reported that Pocomoke and Tangier sounds continue to provide catches of speckled trout and red drum in the shallow grassy areas. Chunks of peeler and soft crab continue to be the bait of choice when they can be found. Red drum have ranged from puppy-sized all the way up to trophy-sized release citation qualifiers.

Upper Shore

Schools of medium- to larger-sized bluefish are still being encountered in the Chesapeake Bay. The best chance of locating these predatory game fish is to concentrate over and around deeper water structures, especially rock piles and submerged vessels. While bluefish can be found patrolling the waters above the structures, sheepshead have started taking residence inside and along these same fish-attracting artificial reefs. Cobia catches continue to be made from the mid-bay down to the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel.

Chincoteague

Flounder action has been sporadic inside the inlets, with one captain telling me that clients are catching as many as nine throwbacks for every fish that meets the 17.5-inch minimum size limit. Anglers willing to put in the time are managing to boat a few flounder to 20 inches for their effort. The best action continues to be on a two-hook top and bottom rig, baited with Berkley Gulp and a live minnow or silverside, and fished from the hour before through the hour after high tide.

Kingfish (whiting) have been a welcome bycatch inside Chincoteague Bay. Spot and small croaker catches have come from inside of Chincoteague Inlet.

Though not as plentiful as inside the inlet, a larger class of flounder are starting to bite on the inshore ocean wrecks for anglers jigging large bucktails baited with larger Gulps or strip baits. These same wrecks are holding increasing numbers of gray triggerfish, sheepshead, and Atlantic spadefish.

Yellowfin tuna and a few bigeye tuna are starting to hit trolled ballyhoo in the blue waters of the canyons, while deep droppers continue to do well with blue-lined tilefish.

Jimmy Vasiliou, at Captain Steve's Bait and Tackle, told me that fishing in the surf "has been great lately," especially with kingfish (whiting), with anglers, at times, reporting strikes on almost every cast.

PHOTO COURTESY

CAPTAIN ZED'S BAIT & TACKLE

This 260-pound bigeye tuna was caught aboard the charter vessel Teaser with Captain Keith Neal.

Wachapreague

Captain Lindsay Paul, aboard the Almost Persuaded, told me that flounder continue to be caught when clear water can be found. He said that keeper-sized fish have been caught around the changes of the tides, with Gulp and live minnows or silversides being the productive bait presentation.

Black sea bass continue to be caught on the offshore wrecks. Captain Paul said that Captain Keith Neal, aboard the Teaser, landed a 260-pound bigeye tuna and Wayne Evans released a white marlin and landed a tuna aboard the White Bite.

Lower Shore

Jeb Brady, at Bailey's Bait & Tackle, told me that the lower bay cobia fishery is still capturing the attention of almost all of the local anglers. Bottom fishing for cobia was described as "slow" over the last week, although a few nice-sized fish are still being landed. Sight-fishing for cobia was said to be more eventful, with anglers spotting lots of fish cruising the surface waters.

Brady reported that anglers using chunks of crab have boated some large sheepshead from around the pilings of the bridge-tunnel. Spadefish catches on clam baits have come from the waters around the fourth island of the bridge-tunnel.

The flounder fishery remains steady inside the Ditch and around the Fisherman Island bridge, with squid and Gulp combinations being one of the most productive bait presentations.

Tasty kingfish (whiting) are showing up in large numbers around the Kiptopeke concrete ships and are being caught with pieces of clam fished on the bottom.

Large schools of bluefish have been cruising up and down the lower bayside shorelines. Anglers tossing topwater lures into the schools have been rewarded with blues measuring up to 30 inches. Small trout and croaker catches have come from the Kiptopeke State Park and Cape Charles piers.

Bayside Poker Run is July 27; supports Rotary, Ruritan clubs

There is still time to register for the 18th annual Bayside Poker Run Saturday, July 27, at the Eastern Shore Yacht and Country Club.

Sponsored by the Pungoteague Ruritan Club and the Onancock Rotary Club, this event raised over $10,000 last year for local scholarships and nonprofit organizations.

This annual Bayside Poker Run is a fun day on the waters of the Chesapeake Bay and adjoining creeks in the clubs' community service areas.

Any boat owner may register to participate in the event, which is an opportunity to explore the bay from Onancock Creek to Nandua Creek in a fun and leisurely fashion.

It is not a race but simply boaters choosing their own course and own pace to locate and visit five pre-chosen locations designated on a nautical chart with notes and guidelines.

An added feature this year will be a limited registration of vehicles that will arrive at the same checkpoints traveling Eastern Shore roads.

The event has long offered a land option if rough seas made participants uncomfortable traveling by water. This year non-boaters may sign up and enjoy the fun without owning a boat.

Registration for the event is $150 for the boat or vehicle and captain, which also includes four crew members. Extra crew beyond four members are $25 each, and extra poker hand entries are $75. Entries include the meal at the awards banquet following the event and a chance at many dock prizes donated by local merchants.

Captain's Sponsors are also available for $250 and include five crew members plus recognition on signs and in the program. Additional sponsorships of $150 are also available for business and individuals who wish to support the organizations who will benefit from the proceeds of the event.

Registration forms must be received in advance prior to July 19.

Entries will be limited to a number of boats and vehicles the committee feels can be safely handled, so don't delay. For more information or to obtain registration forms, email Courtney Nottingham at mrs.anott2014@gmail.com or call 757-710-5739 or 789-3500. Registration forms can also be picked up at 25020 Shore Parkway Suite 1E, Onley (Onley Town Center).

Competition in the event will be in two parts — the "navigational skill" part and the "luck" part of the event. The navigation prize will be $500 and the poker prize will be a Fall Vacation Getaway package of equal value for a grand prize total value of $1,000.

Shore breezes through District 8

BY RYAN WEBB
Eastern Shore Post

Azalea vs. Shore

Shore Little League's junior softball all-star team soundly defeated Azalea 20-0 after three and a half innings on Saturday, June 22, in the opening game of the District 8 tournament, hosted by North Accomack Little League at the Chincoteague Municipal Complex.

Lela Lusk got the start and win in the circle for Shore, pitching a perfect game that ended early due to Little League's mercy rule. Lusk struck out all 12 batters she faced.

Shore got on the board in the bottom of the first inning after a Hayden Cornish groundout scored a run. Jordan Rae Lewis singled to score a run. A Corrin Burrell single drove in another run. Walks from Brynna Travis and Ava Webb each scored a run. Two runs scored on a Kylie Vergara single. A passed ball allowed another run to score. Bella Bono-Evans singled, scoring a run. Ryleigh Caison launched a ball past the center fielder for a two-RBI triple.

Shore added to its lead in the second. Lewis led off the inning with a base hit and was driven in by a Burrell triple to left field. Burrell scored on a single by Keely Castaneda. Travis reached base on an error by the shortstop. Webb reached base on a fielder's choice. Both scored to cap off the scoring in the inning, giving Shore a 15-0 lead heading into the third.

In the bottom of the third, Bono-Evans led off with another hit. Miranda Smith walked, then Caison drove in a run on a single. Hayden Cornish singled to drive in another. Lewis had an RBI single, then Burrell collected her second triple of the game — this time to right field — scoring two more.

Overall, Shore compiled 17 base hits in the game, with 11 of 12 batters recording at least one hit. Lewis and Burrell were 3 for 3 on the day. Caison, Castaneda, Vergara, and Bono-Evans each had two hits.

North Accomack vs. Shore

Shore returned to the diamond on Sunday, June 23, and defeated North Accomack 15-0 after four innings.

Lusk again got the start and win, pitching a no-hitter, recording 9 Ks, and allowing two walks.

Shore scored one run in the bottom of the first on a Lewis groundout that drove in Smith. In the second, Shore scored on a passed ball to make it a 2-0 game.

In the third, Shore scored eight runs. Lusk led off the inning with a base hit. Ruby Buck had an RBI triple to right field. Bono-Evans singled to score a run. Another run scored on a passed ball. Burrell doubled, scoring two runs. Castaneda singled, scoring another. Travis tripled to drive in a run, then Webb singled to score her. Shore led 10-0 after three.

Bono-Evans led off the fourth inning with her fourth consecutive hit of the tournament. Smith earned a free pass, then Caison singled to score a run. Another run scored on a dropped third strike. Lewis drew a walk. Burrell reached on a single, and Castaneda singled, driving in two runs to end the game.

In Cape Charles, 11 vie for three town council seats

BY TED SHOCKLEY
Eastern Shore Post

A crowded field of 11 residents have filed to run for three town council seats in Cape Charles, the polished beachfront vacation spot riven by the issue of short-term rentals and their impacts on the town.

Two of the three current council members whose terms end Dec. 31 did not file for re-election to the six-member council.

Councilman Andy Buchholz is the only incumbent who filed for the Nov. 5 town election. The filing deadline was June 18.

Also running for council are Edward Wells, Malcolm Hayward, Mark Usry, John Rowe, Carol Sabo, Martin Beckett, Clayton Newman, Tara Ashworth, Jo Bronson, and Courtney Fraas.

Vice Mayor Steve Bennett and Councilman Andrew Follmer are not seeking reelection. Cape Charles' mayoral seat and three other council seats are not up for election this year.

The town has been divided in opinion over vacation rentals, which detractors say take a disproportionately large number of parking spaces, create late-night noise, and erode the town's neighborly vibe.

Proponents say short-term rentals are the lynchpin to the town's business successes and have led to the continued renovation of blighted homes.

Cheriton

In Cheriton, former town clerk Stacey A. Sparrow is running for mayor against Larry LeMond, the current mayor.

In addition, there are eight candidates running for six town council seats: Ivan Pena (incumbent), Kandy Pena, Robert K. "Bo" Lewis (incumbent), Terri Lynn Tatem, B.B. "Barry" Downing Jr. (incumbent), Sheila M. Traina, Jason B. Sparrow (incumbent), and Norma Spencer (incumbent).

Council member Greg Hardesty did not file for the election.

Eastville

In Eastville, incumbent Mayor James C. Sturgis is running unopposed, but eight candidates are seeking six town council seats.

Town council candidates include Eleanor Gordon (incumbent), Diane Crockett, John Crockett, Allen Philpot (incumbent), Barbara Thomas (incumbent), Bonny Lewis, Leslie Shiflett, and Anne Sayers (incumbent).

Council members not running for re-election are Mary Beth Briggs and Douglas Coburn.

Nassawadox

In Nassawadox, incumbent Mayor Patricia Stith is running unopposed. Only three candidates filed for six council seats: John Hallett Sr., Thomas Wilson Rippon, and Andrea Fox.

Exmore

In Exmore, incumbents Thomas Lewis, Chase Sturgis, and John C. "Coby" Metz all filed for re-election. Claudia Andrews is the lone candidate for a vacant council seat.

Supervisors raise taxes a nickel, give schools $2.3M hike in local money

BY STEFANIE JACKSON
Eastern Shore Post

Northampton supervisors have approved the county's fiscal year 2025 budget and set new tax rates that will help pay for more than $23.6 million in general fund expenditures.

"This is going to be the lowest tax rate since 2016," said Supervisor Ernest Smith on Tuesday, June 25.

He was speaking of Northampton's new real estate tax rate, which is effective for the current year and will be used to calculate the tax bills that homeowners receive in December.

The rate was reduced from 76 cents to 68.5 cents per $100 of assessed value, which will help offset the higher tax bills that many will pay due to rising property values.

The real estate tax rate was reduced by about 10%, but property values increased an average of around 20%, meaning many homeowners will still pay higher taxes than they did last year.

In accordance with Virginia Code, the county had calculated an equalized tax rate of 63.35 cents per $100 — the rate that would produce real estate tax revenue equal to the amount Northampton received last year, plus an additional 1%.

However, supervisors declined to adopt the equalized rate and opted for a rate of 68.5 cents, about five cents higher, to fund the county's bulging budget. That decision also was permitted by state law.

Supervisor Oliver Bennett stood alone in opposing the effective tax increase.

"I ask myself the question, 'Are we good stewards of citizens' money?' It's not my money," he said.

Bennett questioned whether all of the items in the budget were truly needed and warranted raising taxes.

Northampton will receive about $2.9 million more in real estate tax revenue this year, a total of nearly $21.3 million. The county generated about $18.4 million in real estate tax revenue last year.

"When I raise taxes, I say, 'Am I hurting those folks that I'm trying to help?'" Bennett said.

Much of the additional tax revenue will support Northampton County Public Schools.

Last year, the county's contribution to the cost of running the school system was nearly $10.5 million.

This year, the schools will receive about $12.8 million in local funding — an increase of around $2.3 million.

At least $1 million of that additional funding was needed because a state calculation called the local composite index determined that Northampton can afford to pay more of the cost of its public education.

The local composite index is based 50% on real property values, so a county with a high percentage of low-income families won't necessarily benefit.

Smith supported the new tax rate but suggested Northampton should do more to draw attention to its tax relief program for the elderly and disabled.

A taxpayer with an annual household income of no more than $50,000 can receive up to $1,000 in tax relief per year.

Deputy County Administrator Janice Williams said that every Northampton real estate tax bill provides notice of the tax relief program and directs the taxpayer to the county website for more information.

Supervisors noted that some elderly residents don't see the notices on

DAR donates book to the Eastern Shore Regional Library

The Eastern Shore of Virginia Chapter, National Society Daughters of the American Revolution, recently donated a book to the Eastern Shore of Virginia Regional Library.

The book, "The History of the Virginia Daughters of the American Revolution 1891-2022," was compiled by Nancy Alexander Simmons, state historian, from 2019 to 2022.

The dedication reads, "This volume is dedicated to the Virginia DAR whose interest, loyalty, devotion, and service through the years have resulted in an outstanding record of achievement."

The Eastern Shore of Virginia Chapter is chronicled in the 16th State Convention, which was held in Onancock on Oct. 8-9, 1912.

Other references to the chapter include Listing of County Records Preservation, Listing of Parish Records Preservation, and Listing of State American History Essay Winners.

The book also contains a history of the chapter.

Receiving the donation was Christopher Pote, system director, and Jazmine Collins, circulation and reference manager.

The book will be added to the Heritage Center collection. The National Society Daughters of the American Revolution was founded to preserve the memory and spirit of those who contributed to securing American independence.

Any woman 18 years or older, regardless of race, religion, or ethnic background, who can prove lineal descent from a patriot of the American Revolution is eligible for membership.

their tax bills or use the internet.

Smith said many residents complained because they did not become aware of the program until after the application deadline had passed.

He also suggested raising the program's income limit.

But "I don't want schools cut. I don't want anything ... that we need to be cut," Smith said.

Supervisor John Coker noted that, over the last two years, the rate of inflation was about 12%, "and this budget is not near that kind of increase."

"This is not a big increase," Coker said, "and it's an increase I think we need to make."

In Hallwood, John W. Poulsen Jr. is running for mayor.

In Keller, incumbent S. Beth Hart is running for mayor.

For the Keller Town Council, Rose Anna Moore, Heather Littlefield, Teresa Guy, Linda Guy, and Anna Hart are candidates.

In Melfa, nobody filed to run for mayor.

For the Melfa Town Council, David A. Peffer, Gregory J. Spady, James R. Wilson, and Raymond W. Lewis Jr. are candidates.

In Onancock, incumbent Fletcher D. Fosque is running for mayor.
