Rural Health NP arrested for child porn

BY TED SHOCKLEY

Eastern Shore Post

An Accomack County man employed as a clinical director and nurse practitioner with Eastern Shore Rural Health was arrested at his home Tuesday, July 16, by federal authorities and charged with distributing child pornography, an allegation that roiled the community and shook the area's largest health care provider.

Lucas Allen Fussell, 42, of Coastal Boulevard, Onley, who had been employed by Rural Health for 12 years, was arrested by the FBI with the help of the state police in an attention-drawing morning raid on a quiet town thoroughfare.

Resident tells supervisors STR 'stakes are very high'

BY STEFANIE JACKSON

Eastern Shore Post

A concerned Eastville resident on Tuesday, July 9, briefed Northampton supervisors on the county planning commission's work to develop regulations for short-term vacation rental homes in compliance with new state law.

Sheryl Dalessio, of Hungars Beach Road, said the planning commission is "tackling the most awaited and much-needed" regulations to address the county's "short-term rental problem."

At stake for Northampton residents are "our safety, security, and quality of life," Dalessio told county supervisors in June, when she also spoke about STRs

She is one of many who say they have been negatively impacted by the short-term vacation rental industry that has dominated rural Northampton County, including the town of Cape Charles.

Dalessio has addressed county supervisors on the short-term rental problem on several occasions, noting that guests of vacation homes can trespass, litter, and cause noise and lighting disturbances, all without consequences for the business owner.

On July 9, she told supervisors that the Northampton Planning Commission has a "clean draft" of the proposed regulations, which "has many good points but may be a bit misguided."

In the proposal, a short-term rental period is less than 30 days.

The proposed zoning amendments include definitions of bed-and-breakfasts, hotels and motels, and three types of short-term rental units —

Type A, Type B, and Type C.

Type A is a home that is the primary residence of the owner. According to new state code, a special-use permit cannot be required to offer a primary residence for short-term rental.

Type B is a home that is not a primary residence and has no more than four bedrooms. This rental type requires a minor special-use permit.

Type C is a home that is not a primary residence and has five or more bedrooms. This rental type requires a major special-use permit.

A bed-and-breakfast may have up to six bedrooms under the proposed ordinance, down from a maximum of nine bedrooms.

A hotel or motel has seven or more guest rooms, according to the proposal.

The vague language that allowed "five or more bedrooms" in a Type C rental was what Dalessio found to be "misguided."

She recommended limiting both bed-and-breakfasts and Type C vacation homes to six bedrooms.

Otherwise, a Type C rental could have seven or more bedrooms, surpass a bed-and-breakfast, and "become a hotel," Dalessio pointed out.

"Please give a second look to that," she said.

The proposed minimum standards for short-term vacation rentals include:

- Requiring a person leasing a home to get permission from the owner or contracted real estate agent before offering the home for short-term rental.
- Limiting parking to one space per bedroom plus one additional space and requiring all parking to be onsite.

Prison time capped at 20 years in first-degree murder

BY NANCY DRURY DUNCAN

Eastern Shore Post

A 20-year-old Onancock man charged with killing a man from whom he was planning to buy marijuana pleaded guilty to first-degree murder and attempted robbery.

The crime occurred in the middle of the afternoon in Onancock in October

In an agreement with the commonwealth, Jordan Eric Ames admitted to shooting and attempting to rob 23-yearold Nicholas Kyle Joseph, of Painter.

In exchange for his pleas of guilty, Ames' prison time will be capped at 20 vears and several other charges will not be prosecuted.

Ames faced a possible sentence of life plus 28 years for the crimes.

On Oct. 13, 2021, police received a report of a vehicle that had crashed into a pole on Johnson Street along with reports of gunshots heard in the area.

When officers arrived, they found Joseph in his car with numerous gunshot wounds in his head, face, and upper body.

He was transported to Sentara Norfolk General Hospital, where he later died.

Ames, who was 17 at the time, was seen nearby on a neighbor's doorbell camera, said Commonwealth's Attornev Spencer Morgan.

Police went to Ames' Onancock home and questioned him.

They obtained a search warrant to test for gunshot residue on Ames' hands. The test showed he had recently fired a gun.

DNA testing on an Airpod found at the scene of the shooting also connected Ames to the crime.

Two other juveniles were identified and also charged with the killing, Morgan said.

Morgan said Joseph had gone to meet the three teens to sell them marijuana when he was shot.

Several firearms and marijuana were found in Joseph's car. Ames has been held in juvenile detention since his arrest. He will remain there until sentencing. Judge Lynwood W. Lewis ordered that a presentence investigation report be prepared. Ames' sentencing is set for Nov. 7.

■ Limiting occupants to two adults per bedroom. The proposed ordinance does not stipulate the number of children allowed.

In addition to a special-use permit, where applicable, a business license will be required to operate a shortterm vacation rental. Violations of the short-term rental rules or laws may result in a $500 fine or the prohibition of the continued operation of the business.

According to the proposal, shortterm rental use could be conditionally approved for new home construction. Dalessio objected and said this would allow the permitting process to be circumvented.

She also noted that the proposal contained no prohibition on one person buying multiple lots in a development and building short-term vacation rental homes.

"What a way to obliterate a community and turn it into a free-for-all," Dalessio said.

She told supervisors, "The stakes are very high for you all."

Wilderson

The couple, who have been married six years, are from Pennsylvania and first came to the Eastern Shore for the fishing.

They made the Shore their permanent home over two years ago and moved into the house they built off Arlington Road, near Kiptopeke.

"We actually do everything together," Nancy Wilderson said of her husband. "He's a great partner, great supporter ... encourages me to do things, and we trust that God's going to guide us to do the right things."

Nancy Wilderson is a U.S. Army veteran who began her training in 1978 and served five years, including three years driving a tractor-trailer for an engineer battalion in Germany. She was honorably discharged in 1983.

Wilderson had a 20-year career as an office manager in Harrisburg before she retired in 2022.

'I'm looking to continue the positive unity and family that it represents.'

> Nancy Wilderson, the first woman in the 102-year history of American Legion Post 56 in Cheriton to be named commander

The new Post 56 commander said there are several opportunities on the Shore to be a part of the American Legion — even for individuals who never served in the U.S. military.

A veteran may become a legionnaire — a member of the American Legion — at one of the Eastern Shore's three posts in Cheriton, Parksley (Post 100), or Chincoteague (Post 159). Sons of The American Legion is for men who are descendants of U.S. veterans who served honorably, such as parents and grandparents.

The American Legion Auxiliary is for women who are related to U.S. veterans, including the wives, mothers, grandmothers, daughters, granddaughters, and sisters of those who served honorably.

And even American Legion friends and supporters who are not related to a veteran have been welcomed at the potluck dinners that the legion community hosts on the first Friday of every month, Wilderson said.

Wilderson described the position of commander as "a face for the legion to be promoted and help as many people in the community as we can help, especially veterans and their families."

She noted that some veterans who served a few years "but were not really in a war sometimes don't feel (as) worthy of being called a veteran as those who have been in combat or those that have served 30 years."

"But we joined, intending to serve our country no matter what that meant," and are "nonetheless worthy" to be called veterans, Wilderson said.

It's a message that "especially women" should hear, she said.

Wilderson said being the first woman in 102 years to become commander of Post 56 is a "big deal ... but it's more important for other women to know that we are represented."

The Post 56 commander has a lot of responsibility, but Wilderson knows the job will be easy with the dedicated members of its three units working together.

She described one member of the Sons of The American Legion, who is over 80 years old and serves as his unit's finance officer "because his father was killed in action, and he finds it rewarding to honor his father that way.

"That's the kind of people I'm serving with," Wilderson said.

SERVING VIRGINIA'S EASTERN SHORE

THE PAPER'S POSITION

The 99th annual edition of the Shore's signature event

The 99th annual Chincoteague Pony Penning is upon us, with all the excitement, pageantry, and fellowship that goes along with it.

It is the Eastern Shore of Virginia's signature event — and probably the best-known event on the Delmarva Peninsula. We can't think of another that rivals it.

The annual pony auction, set for Thursday, July 25, raises money for the Chincoteague Volunteer Fire Company, which owns and maintains the famous herd.

All of the volunteers — including the Saltwater Cowboys — work all year caring for the ponies and preparing for the annual event.

Some people even refer to swim day, which this year is Wednesday, July 24, as Chincoteague's own holiday. Some island natives who aren't working in the tourist industry or volunteering for the event will take the day off from work to enjoy the spectacle.

One of the many unique components of Pony Penning is that it is free to spectators — and there are many ways to bear witness to the grand tradition.

Some will rise early to watch the beach walk Monday. Others will trek to the swim site Wednesday to watch the actual swim.

Some will gather on the parade route to watch the ponies herded down the streets to the carnival grounds after the swim.

Others will attend the Chincoteague Volunteer Fireman's Carnival on Wednesday night to see all of the ponies in the corral before the auction.

There's an enjoyable aura to the Pony Penning crowds and the buzz of Chincoteague Island during this special week. Thanks to everyone who makes this grand event happen.

Watch out for turtles, gulls on roadways

To the editor:

It's that time of year again. Turtles are being run over on the Chincoteague causeway and gulls are flying into windshields along the road.

Surely we can do better than this.

A consortium of the Virginia Department of Transportation, the Chincoteague National Wildlife Refuge, The Nature Conservancy, and the Virginia Institute of Marine Science could address the turtles.

The easiest thing would be to put signs at intervals along the causeway, calling motorists' attention to turtles.

More elaborate solutions would involve preventing turtles from crossing.

Somewhere near Dover, Del., — maybe along Route 1 — the road is flanked by high nets.

I don't know what their purpose is there, but they could be used along the causeway to

Don't put a parking lot in front of Accomac School

To the editor:

Sometimes things seem to run so smoothly. Everything moves without friction and fits into nice, easily imagined patterns. I call this common sense.

Common sense tells us how to do things fairly effortlessly. It tells us where the best places are to put things.

So why am I hearing that someone has lost some common sense regarding the former Accomac School?

When I was a student at Accomac School, common sense prevailed. By bus and by car we arrived at school at the School Street entrance.

School system pays $130K fee to recruit international teachers

BY STEFANIE JACKSON

Eastern Shore Post

Northampton Public County Schools continues to find creative ways to repurpose savings and keep its programs funded.

The school division on Tuesday, July 9, received the approval of Northampton supervisors to transfer $129,500 between funds within the school operating budget, from the category of instruction to the category of administration, attendance, and health.

The funds will cover the fees charged by an agency that recruits teachers internationally and helps them find employment in the United States and obtain visas.

Northampton County, like many localities, has had to cast a wide net for educators due to the national teacher shortage.

Teachers have traveled from countries such as Colombia and the Philippines to work on the Eastern Shore.

The funding that will pay the recruitment fees for the international teachers is money that Northampton schools saved by hiring those same international teachers.

That is, the international teachers are not U.S. citizens, so they are not eligible to participate in the Virginia They are working hard. They are productive individuals.'

Retirement System and the school division does not have to contribute to a retirement fund for those teachers.

Neither is the school division required to contribute to the cost of health insurance for the international teachers because they typically are insured through the recruitment agency, resulting in additional savings for Northampton schools.

Supervisor Oliver Bennett, who is a teacher at Northampton High School, said the international teachers "are doing a great job."

"They are working hard. They are productive individuals. They go above and beyond," he said.

The motion to approve the $129,500 funding transfer passed unanimously.

One of my mother's teachers rode her horse. The one thing everyone had the common sense not to do was go in the doors at the front under the portico.

Common sense should tell you it's too far from any of the previous parking areas — unless someone is going to "pave paradise and put up a parking lot."

We were so excited and relieved that it was decided to renovate our school. We were told that parking would be behind the building and the front of the school would be restored as was original. Common sense prevailed in that decision.

However, I have since heard that a ramp will be placed at the portico doors. Does this mean we will have a parking lot there too?

Where did common sense go? May I suggest placing the ramp at the School Street entrance to the building?

A handicap parking area may be placed there and connect easily to the ramp. It would be easily accessible and visible, and certainly less expensive.

The Code of Virginia section regarding accessibility and existing buildings does not require accessibility in the front of the building.

I have been an advocate for and worked with people with disabilities most of my life. User-friendly access is a must. Common sense is an asset.

99th annual Pony Penning begins

The community is gearing up for Chincoteague's 99th annual Pony Penning, with tens of thousands flocking to the island to catch a glimpse of the ponies during the swim from Assateague to Chincoteague or to take home a foal after the Pony Auction.

This year, the swim will be held on Wednesday, July 24, and the auction will be on Thursday, July 25.

The Chincoteague Volunteer Fire Company, which owns and maintains the herd, has announced it will be a late swim — between noon and 1 p.m., but time is subject to change depending on the tides.

An estimated 40,000 to 50,000 people attend the annual event.

Festivities kick off the Saturday before the Pony Swim with the southern herd roundup and continue through Friday, when the ponies swim back across the channel to Assateague Island.

Gathering the herds

Pony Penning kicks off on Saturday, July 20, with the southern herd roundup starting around 7 a.m.

The Saltwater Cowboys — members of the Chincoteague Volunteer Fire Company on horseback — will ride to the southern end of Assateague Island to guide ponies and their foals into the southern corral.

The public is invited to the corral on Beach Road, where the southern herd will stay through Tuesday.

The corral is in front of the Woodland Trail parking lot, on Assateague, just off the road that leads to the beach. Visitors can park in the Woodland Trail lot or along Beach Road.

Those who park in the Woodland Trail lot will not be able to leave until all ponies are in the corral and the gates are closed.

The next Pony Penning event takes place Sunday with the northern herd roundup of more than 100 ponies.

This event is closed to the public.

On Monday, July 22, around 6 a.m., the pony beach walk begins. The Saltwater Cowboys will release the northern herd from its corral and walk the ponies down Assateague beach to join the herd in the southern corral.

To watch the beach walk, plan to arrive at Assateague Island National Seashore by 6 a.m. to park. The seashore opens at 5 a.m. and guests must park before 6:30 a.m. to watch the walk, according to Chincoteague National Wildlife Refuge staff.

On Tuesday morning, July 23, around 9 a.m., a veterinarian will check the ponies to ensure each equine is healthy for the swim from Assateague to Chincoteague the next day.

The public can view the ponies in the southern corral during the vet checks. Parking is available in the Woodland Trail lot.

Buyback foals will also be selected Tuesday morning, ensuring enough colts and fillies return to the island to replenish the herds.

Pony Swim

Wednesday morning, July 24, is

Pony Swim day, when the Saltwater Cowboys guide the ponies across the channel from Assateague Island to Chincoteague, where the foals will be auctioned the next day.

The swim this year will take place between noon and 1 p.m., during slack tide, when the current is weakest and the ponies can make the swim across the channel.

The swim takes place at Pony Swim Lane, just south of Veterans Memorial Park, at 7427 Memorial Park Drive.

Attendees should prepare to spend several hours in the marsh and wear clothes they do not mind getting muddy, including close-toed shoes or rubber boots.

No seating is available at the swim site. Bring sunscreen, water, and bug spray for the wait for the ponies to arrive.

Once the ponies hit the water, the swim lasts roughly three minutes as the herds cross the channel from Assateague to Chincoteague island.

Chincoteague provides a free shuttle service beginning at 5 a.m. between various locations on the island and the swim site at Veterans Memorial Park.

Visitors coming to the island for the day should catch the shuttle at the Chincoteague Municipal Center at 6155 Community Drive.

The first foal to reach the shore after the swim each year is dubbed King or Queen Neptune and will be raffled during a drawing at the carnival grounds around 7 p.m. that evening. The ticketholder must be at the carnival to win.

Tickets are sold nightly at the carnival, which runs 7 to 11 p.m. July 19, 20, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, and 27 and at Pony Swim Lane during the wait for the swim.

After a short rest, the ponies will parade down Main Street to the corral at the Chincoteague carnival grounds, 3648 Main St., where they will stay until the auction Thursday morning.

Pony Auction

The Pony Auction kicks off at 8 a.m. on Thursday, July 25, at the carnival grounds.

The auction is the fire company's largest annual fundraiser. A portion of the proceeds helps the company maintain and care for the ponies.

The auction provides an opportunity to see the foals up close. Plan to arrive early, as the event draws a large crowd. Bring a folding chair, hat, sunscreen, and water for the roughly four-hour event.

The auction will again be a hybrid in-person and online event, after bidding went online during the coronavirus pandemic.

Preregistration is not required for bidders at the live event but is required to bid online.

Visit the Chincoteague Volunteer Fire Company's Facebook page for the auction preview and to register online.

The adult ponies and remaining foals will make the swim back to Assateague Friday morning at a time to be determined.

Feather Fund helps children buy ponies

BY JANET BERNOSKY

Eastern Shore Post

The Feather Fund was founded in late 2003 by Lois Szymanski, Shannon Szymanski Meyers, Melissa Bechtel, and Ed Suplee after the death of Suplee's first wife, Carollynn, that October.

The name might seem a bit odd for a group that assists children in purchasing a Chincoteague Pony, when horses clearly don't have feathers.

But pony fairies do have them in their wings — and the pony fairy in this case was Carollynn Suplee.

The story begins in 1995 at the Pony Auction held at the Chincoteague carnival grounds after the annual Pony Swim.

Lois and Dan Szymanski were attending with their young daughters, Shannon and Ashlev.

The girls had secretly saved and pooled together money they earned working. With their $500, they announced plans to their parents to purchase a foal at the auction that year.

While privately they were not optimistic because they knew prices might be too high, the Szymanskis didn't want to deter their enthusiasm and encouraged the girls to try.

The family arrived at the carnival grounds on the day of the auction. What happened next can only be described as one of those days when, in hindsight, the sequence of events just fell into place, despite not having such an auspicious beginning.

The audio system wasn't working at the carnival grounds, but Ashley was singing at the Museum of Chincoteague Island later in the day. Dan grabbed her microphone and speakers from their car for the auctioneer to use.

Meanwhile, Ashley struck up a conversation with a volunteer fire company member, David Savage, telling him about her plans to buy a pony for $500. Bear in mind, this conversation might not have happened had the auction started on time.

Almost 40 ponies later, despite Ashley bidding on every single one, chances appeared bleak, tears were shed, and the girls were ready to give up when they saw Savage walking toward them, accompanied by a man and woman who were introduced as Carollynn and Ed Suplee — their pony fairy had just arrived.

Carollynn told the family she was quite certain she was meant to help them get a pony and she wanted to explain why, but Dan Szymanski adamantly declined her kind offer.

Meanwhile, a crowd formed around them, listening as the conversation unfolded. Carollynn removed her floppy hat to reveal her sparse hair that was beginning to grow back after chemotherapy.

Many sobbed as Suplee told the story of her malignant brain cancer diagnosis and how she prayed she would survive the impending surgery.

Weeks before it occurred, Carollynn began finding feathers — lots of them — and sometimes in weird places. As she put it, she took this as a divine sign that she would be safe.

She then visited a religious shrine and found a Bible open to the scripture that talks about being safe and covered in feathers and took it as another sign.

Carollynn felt that despite her illness, she had so much to be thankful for in her life and felt compelled to pay it forward by helping others. That day, the Suplees arrived at the auction too late to bid on a buyback pony, as planned. That's when David Savage told them about the Szymanski girls.

Carollynn told the family and the crowd about the importance of feathers in her life. She mentioned that as she saw them, a sea gull feather drifted down in front of her. Then, she looked down and noticed that Shannon Szymanski was wearing a shirt bearing a feather design.

As the crowd chanted repeatedly, "Let her buy it," Dan relented.

They won the bid for foal number 42, a colt. The girls had their pony and announced they wanted to name him Sea Feather.

The colt had a jagged white marking resembling a feather on the pony's neck — which they took as another sign.

The Szymanskis returned home to Maryland with Sea Feather and remained in touch with the Suplees. Lois, who is an author, meanwhile penned and published a children's book about the story of Sea Feather's purchase.

Ed and Carollynn returned to Chincoteague yearly, either purchasing a buyback (including Copper Moose in 1996) or helping another child buy a pony.

In the 2002 auction, Carollynn noticed a mother walking along with her tearful daughter. She immediately stopped, asking the girl if she needed help buying a pony.

The girl, Alissa Swenson, told the story of how she and her mother flew from Wisconsin to attend the swim and auction.

Her father had also planned to make the trip, but he had recently passed away from cancer. Mother and daughter decided to keep their plans. They wanted a pony but hadn't figured out how to transport it back home.

Alissa chattered away to her new friend about this book she had read about a Chincoteague Pony that Carollynn (who hadn't mentioned her own name yet) probably had never heard of named Sea Feather and that there was a lady named Carollynn in the book who seemed so kind.

Imagine Alissa's surprise when Carollynn introduced herself as that lady and said, "Guess what? I am your pony fairy."

The plan was for the Swensons to return home, prepare a place for the pony to live, and figure out transportation details. They would all meet up next year at the 2003 auction.

However, fate intervened. In April 2003, Carollynn began having seizures that grew progressively worse. Her cancer had returned.

Meanwhile, "Animal Planet" heard about the story and wanted to film a documentary featuring Alissa winning her pony, which she named Lucky, at the auction.

Carolynn and Ed attended the auction and the filming of the documentary, but Carollynn was confined to a wheelchair at that point, paralyzed on one side.

She passed away on Oct. 8, 2003.

Sea Feather is alive and well at age 29, living with Shannon Szymanski Meyers and her family in Pennsylvania. Her three children learned to ride on this gentle horse's back.

Ed Suplee has remarried and lives near Richmond. A history buff, he leads tours at Monticello and in Jamestown.

Lois Szymanski has written numerous books about Chincoteague ponies over the years. Melissa Bechtel lives with her family near West Chester, Pa.

It might be said that Lois is now the Pony Fairy, but for her Carollynn Suplee has always been one of her angels and angels also have wings — with feathers.

Scott "Cheech" Leager

Mr. Scott Leonard "Cheech" Leager, 49, of Horntown, passed away at his home in Trail's End on Tuesday, July 9, 2024. He was born June 12, 1975,

Mr. Leager

Md. He moved to Chincoteague Island as a baby, and from then on, he was an island boy through and through. Everything he did was near the water; from patent-tong in Chestertown, clamming to jamming to classic rock, he always stayed close to the peaceful shores of the Atlantic and the Chesapeake.

Fate brought Scott to the love of his life, Christy, on Chincoteague, 17 years ago. A quick stop at Corner Mart for a Pepsi led to meeting the girl who would stay by his side until the very end, and together, they built a beautiful life.

Known as "Cheech" to most of his friends, Scott had an eclectic taste in music, loving Led Zeppelin, Van Halen, Billy Joel, Patsy Cline, and of course, Johnny, Hank, and Waylon. Evenings often found Cheech and Christy engrossed in historical dramas, enjoying their quiet moments together. A simple man with the kindest heart, Cheech had a deep affection for animals, especially his pets.

Loyal and generous, he was the type of friend who would give you the shirt off his back. Cheech could fix just about anything, and before his career as a waterman, he was a master technician mechanic and a trucker. It will never be the same without him here, but a little piece of him will live on with every grain of sand and every wave that crashes on the beach.

Scott is survived by the love of his life, Christy Outten Leager, of Horntown; his father, Leonard Nathaniel Leager, of Horntown; brother, Mark Smith (Renea Smith), of Baltimore; niece, Stephanie Smith, of Baltimore; uncle Leon and aunt Kathy Leager, of Ellendale; nephews, Bryan and Daniel Outten, of Girdletree, Md.; and extended family, Cindy Outten and Rhonda Whitehead, of Girdletree.

Sara Goffigon

Mrs. Sara Nottingham Goffigon, 91, of Pickett's Harbor (Cape Charles), widow of Francis Cooke Goffigon, died July 4, 2024. Born Aug. 14, 1932, she was the daughter of the late Virginia Chandler Nottingham and the late Leonard Thomas Nottingham.

Sara attended high school at Fairfax Hall in Waynesboro and then attended college at Randolph-Macon Woman's

Mrs. Goffigon

College in Lynchburg before marrying in 1951 and starting a family. After moving to Richmond in 1962, she later enrolled and graduated from Richmond Professional Institute in 1967, after which she began a career in education. She taught at Douglas S. Freeman High School in Richmond until moving to the Eastern Shore in 1971. She then joined the faculty at Broadwater Academy in Exmore, where she taught for 33 years. During her tenure at Broadwater, "Mrs. Goffigon" developed a reputation as a demanding teacher with high expectations. For many, she was a major influencer in their lives.

Sara and her husband also operated Pickett's Harbor Bed and Breakfast until 2006. In a past interview, she expressed her love for her homestead. "There is not much private beach on the East Coast, and we're hidden in the woods and have the beach, so there is a nice serenity here. People will come out here and say 'How in the world did you find this place?' I laugh, because we didn't find it, we just grew up here."

Her family has deep roots on the Eastern Shore. In the 17th century, her ancestors, the Nottinghams, were granted a large parcel of land by the King of England. The land has been passed down, generation by generation. "We certainly have enjoyed it," she said.

She will be remembered for her devotion to her work and her passions for gardening, swimming, and walking. During the early years of her retirement, she would awake before the crack of dawn, drive 45 minutes to the YMCA in Onley three days a week, swim for an hour, and then return home for gardening and other chores. When the opportunity arose, she became a proponent and supporter of the YMCA branch in Cape Charles. Throughout life, she remained actively engaged in the lives of her family and friends and enjoyed following the accomplishments of her former students.

She is survived by her five children, Sarah Goffigon Chandler (Scott), Francis Cooke Goffigon Jr. (Nancy), Thomas Nottingham Goffigon, Margaret Goffigon Widgen (Johnny), and Haley Cooke Goffigon; six grandchildren, Elizabeth Riordan (Mike), Dixon Leatherbury, Turner Widgen, Carter Goffigon (Tim), Ethan Goffigon, and Owen Goffigon; and two great-grandchildren, Sally and Bobby Riordan. She is also survived by her sister-in-law, Bonnie Nottingham.

Services were held at Holmes Presbyterian Church in Bayview on Saturday, July 13, at 11 a.m. The family requests that, in lieu of flowers, remembrances and tribute gifts be made to Broadwater Academy, P.O. Box 546, Exmore, VA 23350.

Isaiah "Bill" Bagwell IV

Mr. Isaiah William Bagwell IV died July 11, 2024. A native and lifelong resident of the Eastern Shore, Bill, 75, was the son of the late Isaiah William Bagwell III and the late Anne Nelson Bagwell.

He grew up in Onancock, where his love of boating, inherited from his father and grandfather, began. From small boats in Onancock Creek to larger boats in the Chesapeake Bay, it was the joy of his life. He made more than a dozen trips down the Intracoastal Waterway, traveling to Florida, Charleston, and the Abaco Islands, and exploring northward in the Atlantic to New Jersey and New York.

Bill was proud of being a direct descendant of Henry Bagwell, who was on the Sea Venture when it wrecked on Bermuda in 1609. Henry Bagwell later settled on the Eastern Shore, becoming the first Clerk of Court of Northampton County. In line with his interest in family genealogy, Bill appreciated being able to live in Mount Prospect, a historic home built by his great-grandparents.

Bill treasured his many lifelong friends, making new friends, and a good laugh. He was always the last to leave a party. He loved rock 'n roll and attended his eighth Rolling Stones concert in June. Other interests included the Yankees, traveling, and Eastern Shore history.

Bill attended Onancock High School and graduated from Woodberry Forest School. He received his bachelor's degree from the University of Virginia, where he was a member of the Delta Upsilon fraternity.

Bill began his professional career working with his father at Bagwell Oil Company, a heating oil and gasoline business started by his grandfather in 1915. In his more than 35 years with the company, he grew its footprint by adding new products and services, including propane and a service department. He also created Corner Mart, a chain of 10 convenience stores, and purchased Davis Oil Company, Nordstrom Oil Company, Cape Charles Oil Company, and Fulcher and Martin Oil Company. When he retired and sold the business in 2013, it was the oldest continuously operating business in Onancock, just shy of 100 years.

Bill was predeceased by his parents. He is survived by his wife of 46 years, Claudia Turner Bagwell, and his two children, Anna Bagwell Burger and her husband, Ray Burger, of Onancock, and Isaiah William "Thomas" Bagwell V and his wife, Alex Bagwell, of Deerfield Beach, Fla.; three grandsons, Edward Burger, Cecil Burger, and William Bagwell; and two sisters, Linda Bagwell Custis and her husband, Henry, and Jean Bagwell Styer and her husband, Bruce, and their families.

Charles "Dickie" Kellam

Mr. Charles Richard "Dickie" Kellam Sr., 82, of Keller, husband of Trudy Ward Kellam, passed away Sunday, July 14, 2024. Born Aug. 14, 1941, in Nassawadox, he was a son of the late Charles Frederick "Charlie" Kellam and the late Lois Chambers Kellam.

Following graduation from Central

Mr. Kellam

High School, Dickie answered the call to serve his country in the U.S. Army. Upon honorable discharge in 1962, he was commissioned to the CIA, serving in the Philippines, Pakistan, and Bangkok, Thailand, specializing in telecommunications. Dickie was very proud to have had the honor and privilege to be of service to our great nation for several years before returning home to the Eastern Shore of Virginia.

Once back home, he ran the Keller Filling Station, and his lifelong love for cars led him to establish Dick Kellam Auto Body, which he owned and operated for decades. His enthusiasm was shared with his friends working on "The Bad Banana" for the Tasley Mud Hops.

Dickie spent many summer evenings playing ball with "The Blues," in which, after the games, both wins and losses were always celebrated with cold PBRs. Dickie was a loyal member of the Exmore Moose Lodge, where he spent many hours, both making things happen (4th of July) and drinking beer at the bar.

Dickie was kindhearted, and his love and generosity extended to all, young and old. He was in his glory when surrounded by family and friends. The Kellam home was known for its legendary porch parties, where holidays, birthdays, and NASCAR races were celebrated with Dickie's cheeseburgers, cold beer, and lots of laughter. If you're lucky, you've had a slice or two of his pizza or experienced his signature Christmas morning breakfast.

Dickie loved his family and there was nothing he wouldn't do for them. He was affectionately known as "Pop" to not only his grandchildren, but to most children he came in contact with. Everyone loved Pop.

Everything Dickie Kellam was will live on through those he leaves behind — his wife, Trudy Ward Kellam; children, Charles R. "Richie" Kellam Jr. (Teresa), of Painter, Jayanne Bridges (Read), of Keller, Jesse Mariner (Lisa), of Melfa, and Ariel Bishop (James), of Parksley; sisters and brother, Sandra Russell (Dickie), Gail Longo, and Tim Kellam (Vicki); stepchildren, Jason Calloway (Heather), of Hacksneck, and Elizabeth Gibbons (Garry), of Jamesville; grandchildren, Katelynn Krassowski (Chad), Billy Kellam (Eva), Daisey and Wyatt Callaway, Miranda and Cailee Gibbons, and Mason and Justice Mariner, and many great-grandchildren. In addition, he leaves behind his former wife, Jadean Watkinson (mother of Richie and Jayanne). He was predeceased by a former wife, Debbie Justice Kellam (mother of Jesse).

A service to celebrate Dickie's life was conducted from the chapel of the Williams-Onancock Funeral home on Thursday, July 18, 2024, at 2 p.m., with the Rev. Bobby Parks officiating. Following the service, family and friends gathered at the Exmore Moose Lodge to share a cold one in honor of Dickie.

Red drum catches reported on both sides of Shore

Local anglers have had to deal with windy conditions and extreme air temperatures in their attempts to do battle with local game fish. Once on the water, the overall fishing remains good, with little impact from the summer doldrums.

Red drum catches have been reported from the upper reaches of both sides of the Eastern Shore of Virginia all the way down to the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel.

Flounder remain cooperative on the seaside, with the larger fish coming from the ocean waters. Cobia continue to be seen in good numbers in the lower Chesapeake Bay. Offshore trolling for the area's pelagic species continues to be on the slow side.

Upper Shore

Captain Matt Abell, at the Sea Hawk Sports Center, said he remains pleasantly surprised at the number of puppy drum still available both in the shallows and around submerged structure in the central portion of the Chesapeake Bay.

The small drum have bit both paddle tailed artificials and chunks of crab, fished on the bottom or under popping corks. Perch catches have been made inside the guts and creeks from just south of the Virginia state line up into the Pocomoke River. The best perch action has come on small pieces of cut crab fished on small hooks.

Matt reported that cobia action remains good down in the southern portion of the bay, where anglers may also find trophy-sized red drum near the bridge-tunnel.

Chincoteague

The inshore ocean wrecks have started to produce better numbers of flounder; however, recent windy conditions have prevented access to the ocean sites on several days.

Spadefish, sheepshead, and a few cobia remain possible bycatches around these same structures. Inside the inlets, flounder catches have been surprisingly good, considering the warm water temperatures, with the best catches coming during the cooler influx of ocean water around the high tide mark. Berkley Gulp Swimming Mullet and Gulp Shrimp fished with live minnows or silversides have become the baits of choice. Though decent numbers of flounder can be found inside of the inlet, limit catches remain hard to come by.

The surf on Assateague Island is still producing a few red drum and good king-fish (whiting) catches plus unwelcome by-catches of small- to medium-sized sharks, skates, and ravs.

Offshore blue water trolling remains slow, with a few yellowfin tuna, dolphin (mahi-mahi), wahoo, and an occasional billfish encounter. Captain Steve's Bait & Tackle weighed in its first wahoo of the year, a 54-pounder caught at the Parking Lot. Most vessels are still relying on deep dropping for tilefish to put a decent amount of meat into the cooler.

Wachapreague

Captain Lindsay Paul, aboard the Almost Persuaded, said that the flounder fishing over the last week has been "phenomenal," even calling action during a recent flood tide as "world class!"

Undersized fish continue to make up the bulk of the bites, but keeper-sized fish measuring up to 25 inches have been boated. The best action has occurred from the flood tide through the first of the ebb on Gulp baits with live minnows or silversides.

The ocean wrecks are producing black sea bass and flounder. Deep dropping remains productive, while blue water trolling remains slow with just a couple of tuna and some mahi-mahi reported, according to Paul.

Lower Shore

Jeb Brady, at Bailey's Bait & Tackle, said that sight fishing for cobia has been more productive than bottom fishing, as long as the weather cooperates. Tower casters are reporting lots of fish sighted on the surface, with keeper-sized fish measuring 42 to 48 inches being landed.

While sight casters can be selective, bottom bait fishermen are having to deal with lots of unwelcome shark and ray by-catch for their efforts. Jeb has been receiving reports of schools of Spanish mackerel moving into the waters of the lower bay. These speedsters have been hitting small spoons trolled fast behind planers.

Larger bluefish can be found feeding under flocks of diving gulls and terns, particularly inshore and around the lower bay reefs.

Flounder fishing has been good inside the "Ditch" and around the Fisherman Inlet Bridge. The sheepshead bite has been good during periods of slack tide around the bridge-tunnel pilings.

Sand mullet (whiting) catches are coming from around the concrete ships off Kiptopeke, while the lower bay piers are producing small trout and croaker for pier fishermen fishing pieces of crab and squid on the bottom.

The shop weighed in a potential state-leading 11-pound, 2-ounce Atlantic spadefish for Koby Sparrow. The fish was caught over an ocean wreck.

Parking lot in park results in discord

BY STEFANIE JACKSON

Eastern Shore Post

One Chincoteague resident is driven to restore a parking area in one of the island's public parks to its natural, grassy state and is asking why modifications were made without the authorization of the town council.

"They paved paradise and put up a parking lot," said Donna Leonard, borrowing an often-repeated line from a 1970 Joni Mitchell song.

Leonard is a Chincoteague resident, a member of the town's recreational and community enhancement committee, and the sister of Mayor Arthur Leonard.

The "paradise" of which she spoke was Donald J. Leonard Park, which is named after her late father.

The park is nearly three acres with a water view on north Main Street, across from Chincoteague Combined School.

In the spring, an asphalt-filled parking lot was installed at the park entrance. The lot is approximately 100 feet long, with spaces for 11 vehicles.

The parking lot was created using asphalt millings — gravel that is made by grinding up old asphalt.

"I, along with many others, feel that changed the whole atmosphere of the park," Leonard said.

She recalled requesting the planting of grass seed in the park to cover a "bald spot" that had resulted from the high school holding bonfires there for homecoming every year.

But Leonard never asked for a parking lot because "cars weren't the problem," she said.

She wondered if she had "missed a meeting" in which the Chincoteague Town Council authorized the construction of the parking lot.

Leonard addressed the town council on the issue at both of its June meetings and learned it had not discussed the matter.

EASTERN SHORE POST/STEFANIE JACKSON

A car occupies a parking spot at Donald J. Leonard Park on Chincoteague Island. A paved parking lot on the site has drawn the ire of the park's namesake's daughter, who said it "changed the whole atmosphere of the park."

"I realized that nobody had approved it, that the town manager had made the decision on his own," she alleged.

Leonard said the parking lot cost $15,000 and questioned whether the project was done in accordance with Chincoteague's town code.

She referred to the town code, section 2-266, which states that a purchase order of more than $10,000 may be approved by the town manager and the mayor "with the prior approval of town council."

Chincoteague Town Manager Mike Tolbert said that in January, the recreational and community enhancement committee, which includes two town council members, discussed the need for improvements at Leonard Park.

He acknowledged that typically, a committee makes a recommendation to the town council, which then acts on the recommendation.

In the matter of the parking lot at Leonard Park, this step was skipped, "but we won't be doing that anymore," Tolbert said.

He said the parking lot was installed to restrict vehicles and preserve the area that was filled with topsoil and seed "so everyone could enjoy the grass."

Tolbert confirmed the materials for the parking lot cost approximately $15,000 and noted that Chincoteague's public works department completed the entire job.

Leonard is now advocating for the restoration of the parking lot site. She said a mix of topsoil and grass seed can be spread over the gravel in the fall, and the area will return to its previous, natural state.

She said, "Everybody makes mistakes, and I'm not the only person that thinks this is a mistake."

Desmand Wessells Awarded Prestigious Gates Scholarship

Desmand Wessells, a 2024 graduate of Northampton High School, has been selected as a prestigious Gates Scholar and will attend University of Virginia's School of Engineering and Applied Science in August.

The Gates Scholarship is a highly selective, last-dollar scholarship for outstanding, minority, high school seniors from low-income households. The scholarship is awarded to exceptional student leaders to help them realize their maximum potential. Desmand was one of only 300 students selected nation-wide from a pool of over 37,000 applicants.

A first-generation college student and resident of Exmore, Desmand is a graduate of Project Horizons, a program of Eastern Shore Community College Foundation that provides college track mentoring for students in grades 7-12 in Northampton and Accomack public schools.

At Northampton, Desmand was a member of the National Honor Society, Scholastic Bowl team, Cape Charles Rotary Interact Club, and Northampton High School Band where he played percussion. He works at McDonalds in Exmore and explains, "I want to be an electrical engineer and hopefully one day work for a big tech company. I want to be successful so I can help my current and future family and ensure that we no longer have to struggle financially."

Desmand joined Project Horizons in August of 2023 and approached Coordinator Miriam Cornwell, for assistance. Miriam explains, "Throughout the 2023-2024 school year Desmand and I spent many hours working on college applications, essays, and scholarships. I learned about his goal of becoming an electrical engineer, how he was responsible for his two younger brothers from a young age, and how his family had struggled at times throughout his childhood."

Miriam arranged for Desmand to spend a day at Wallops in January shadowing NASA professionals in aerospace engineering and computer science. She continued to work with him on scholarship applications through the winter. Desmand was notified that he was a finalist for both the Questbridge scholar program and the Gates Scholarship.

In April Desmand received news that he was selected as a Gates Scholar, with 100% of his tuition, fees, housing, and expenses covered for four years. The Gates Scholarship also provides mentoring and support throughout college and will help him transition to a career. Desmand attended The Gates Summer Institute in Arizona, also paid for through his scholarship. While there, he and other Gates Scholars networked with industry experts and received support for college and career readiness.

At ESCC's Project Horizons senior celebration in June, Desmand expressed his gratitude, "I am so appreciative of Ms. Cornwell's help and for believing in me. I would not have become a Gates Scholar if it had not been for her efforts."

Miriam explains, "We are so proud of Desmand and all that he has accomplished this year, and we can't wait to see him reach all of his goals." For more information about Project Horizons, funded in part by Project Discovery of Virginia, contact Miriam Cornwell at mcornwell@es.vccs.edu.

Arrest

Charging documents from the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia show Fussell also shared explicit genitalia descriptions of male adult and child patients he saw at the Onley Community Health Center, where he was employed.

Lucas Fussell

Fussell made an initial court appearance Tuesday and was jailed pending a hearing on the federal charges scheduled for Friday, July 19, at 2:30 p.m., in Washington, D.C., according to Daniel Ball, a public affairs specialist with the U.S. Attorney's Office for the District of Columbia.

Rural Health Chief Executive Jeannette Edwards said Thursday Fussell had been fired in the wake of his arrest. She also worked to reaffirm Rural Health's emphasis on conduct and allay community fears.

"These criminal charges were a shock to all of us at Eastern Shore Rural Health," said Edwards in a statement. "All our staff are required to adhere to the highest standards of ethical and professional conduct, and we condemn any contrary behavior.

"We want to reassure our patients, their families, and the community at large that our top priority is the health, safety, and security of all our patients."

Rural Health has established a telephone number for patients and families with questions and concerns in the wake of Fussell's arrest. The number, 757-678-1523, directs callers to leave a message.

A member of Rural Health's leadership team will return the call, the health care provider reported on its website.

Edwards said patients who have appointments with Fussell will be called to reschedule with another provider. She did not say whether Rural Health plans an internal investigation into Fussell's actions.

Rural Health is the Eastern Shore's largest healthcare provider with 34 medical providers on staff and almost 91,000 medical visits in 2023 alone.

The FBI began its investigation after a March arrest of a suspect whose cell phone included messages with Fussell on an encrypted communications platform.

Fussell and the man met at his Onley home and Fussell sent photographs of his genitalia to the man, according to charging documents.

Apparently unaware of the man's arrest, Fussell reached out in June, while the man's phone was in custody of the FBI, documents allege.

Fussell sent child pornography files on June 22 and June 30.

In earlier conversations, Fussell:

- Admitted to having a sexual relationship with a man who was a patient while also seeing the man's wife as a patient.
- Described in coarse, graphic detail the genitalia of a male patient who had an erection while getting a genital exam.
- Described the genitalia of a father and sons he saw as patients, saying the erection of an 11-year-old was "so hot."
- Spoke to the length he took to avoid online detection, including using a virtual private network that conceals content and location.

GHOTES hosts genealogy conference

For four days at the end of June, Parksley was a hive of activity as the new Eastern Shore of Virginia Heritage Center hosted the Genealogy and History of the Eastern Shore 2024 conference. All 75 attendees were either residents of the Eastern Shore of Virginia or visiting descendants of Eastern Shore families.

The GHOTES organization was founded in 1996 by Barbara Goffigon Cox and grew from an email list to an active email and Facebook group with a website of local history and Eastern Shore family information.

Chris Pote, Eastern Shore Public Library System director and archivist at the Heritage Center, welcomed the group in the conference's first session. He gave an overview of the new center with its state-of-the-art archive room, which offers access to sources of non-printed Eastern Shore family history.

Several presentations in the conference explored new directions of genealogy research and heritage in the six years since the last meeting, especially dealing with DNA analysis. Dr. David Scott, with the Northampton Historic Preservation Society, explained how analysis of male y-DNA can confirm or reveal surprises as it connects to family groups.

DNA researchers Marie Rundquist and Wesley Revels presented research about DNA analysis of early indigenous groups on the Shore and family history tracing James, the "Indian Boy."

M.K. Miles, creator of the MilesFiles, a database of Eastern Shore families including 120,000 names, spoke about how DNA confirms information about family lines that couldn't be found in other searches.

Crystal Castleberry, public archaeologist, and Evan Bell, a curator, both at the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation, spoke about a project that closely analyzes archeological data from the John Custis family at Custis Square in Northampton County. By building a comprehensive database of names of enslaved people mentioned in legal documents only by first name, researchers are bringing family stories and narratives to light for African Americans who are searching for information about their ancestors.

Dr. David Scott presented a photo tour of old homes on the Eastern Shore and arranged an evening group visit to Eyre Hall. Retired ESPL director Cara Burton rounded out the topics with recommendations for taking family history beyond the genealogy of names and dates with projects that help engage other family members in GHOTES and preserving family archives.

GHOTES conferences always include an opportunity to socialize with each other and the local community. This year's banquet dinner was held at Historic Onancock School. Dennis Custis, retired educator, entertained with a history of the school.

There is no fee to join GHOTES. For more information, go to ghotes.net or the GHOTES Facebook page.

BMP cost-share signups are now

Farmers and landowners may receive financial assistance for planting a winter cover crop under the Virginia Agricultural Best Management Practice Cost-share Program administered by the Eastern Shore Soil and Water Conservation

Cost-share offered is an incentive to offset a portion of the establishment costs.

Sign-up began July 15 and will end on Aug. 23. Contact Carmie Ross, district manager, 757-302-4431 (carmie.savage@esswcd.org), Bill Savage, conservation specialist, 757-302-4437 (bill. savage@esswcd.org), or Palmer Smith, conservation technician, 757-302-4421 (palmer.smith@ esswcd.org) to schedule an appointment.

The Eastern Shore SWCD strongly supports the planting of cover crops as one of the leading BMPs to help reduce the leaching of nutrients into groundwater and in helping to meet Chesapeake Bay WIP goals.

Several different programs for fall cover crops are offered, including small grain cover crops, harvestable cover crops, legume cover, as well as a cover crop for specialty crops and vegetables.

Planting dates and cost-share rates vary by practice. Current Nutrient Management Plans, written by a certified Virginia Nutrient Management Planner, are required prior to receiving cost-share for any approved BMP.

Cost-share is available for the writing and/or revision of nutrient management plans; sign up for those acres may be taken during this sign-up

As set forth by the state code 58.1-339.3 and 58.1-439.5, state law currently provides a tax credit for implementation of certain BMPs.

For those practices that are unfunded yet still planted to DCR's specifications, tax credits may be an option. If interested in tax credits, sign-up will be taken for those during this sign-up period as well.

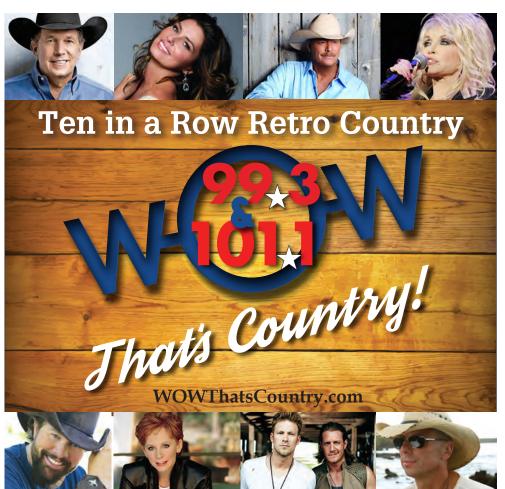

For more information about the BMPs mentioned above or other district programs offered, visit the district website at www.esswcd.org

Community Tennis Association offers free lessons

For 30 years, the Community Tennis Association of Chincoteague Island has offered free tennis lessons to youth and adults. The first free tennis lessons of the year were offered at Memorial Park on July 10.

Matt Ryan, the assistant tennis coach at Salisbury University, conducted the lessons. There will be a second session on August 17 at 9 a.m. for children ages 6 to 16, and at 10:15 a.m. for adults.

"We want to introduce children to tennis because it is a wonderful physical activity and a lifelong sport," said Debbie Ullmann, who is organizing this year's lessons. "My son took lessons on Chincoteague when he was 8 years old. He is now 31 and continues to play."

Ullmann also encouraged adults who have never played, or who haven't played in a while, to attend the lessons.

The inter-generational and lifelong nature of the sport was evident at the Tennis Association's recent Memorial Day Tournament and Picnic.

Former Association President Rick Willis, who is in his 80s, and his grandson, Ben Gadams, who is in his 20s, tied for third place in the round robin event.

The association welcomed Richard Werksman and Jim "Lucky" Loeffert to the tournament's awards ceremony. These founding members are in their 90s and only gave up playing tennis a few years ago.

Both Werksman and Loeffert remember when the association started in the 1980s at a rental tennis court on Maddox Boulevard. When those courts closed, the tennis group worked with the town and helped finance the building of two courts at Memorial Park in Free tennis lessons began that year, when the group became USTA certified.

In 2006, the Association again worked with the town and helped finance the building of a third tennis court. A backboard for practice play was added in 2016.

Contact the association at community tennisassoc.2013@gmail.com for more information about registering for the free tennis lessons or membership.

Students participate in career exploration

The Virginia Department of Aging and Rehabilitative Services partnered with Eastern Shore Community College, Sentinel Robotics Solutions, and the Eastern Shore Community Services Board to provide a one-week career exploration learning experience for students with disabilities. The academy was held at the Eastern Shore Community College Workforce Development Center from July 15 to 19.

Students working with DARS learned about the field of aerospace, as well as careers involving drones.

Employers were invited to speak during the lunch break to educate students on careers on the Eastern Shore and in other areas.

Participants toured Eastern Shore Community College to learn about its programs and services.

A graduation ceremony was planned for July 19, which parents and family members were invited to attend.

Students also received FAA Trust Certificates to recognize them for their participation in the program. Kaleb Jeffries, who attended the program previously and is now employed by Sentinel Robotics Solutions, was the instructor for the class with the assistance of Jason Taylor.

State Fair seeks recipe entries using Dublin Farms potatoes

Cut flowers, duct tape, grilled cheese, and Plymouth Rock are all competition categories at this year's State Fair of Virginia, which will be held Sept. 27 through Oct. 6.

Competition guides for adult and youth creative and culinary arts, horticulture, and field crops, as well as 4-H and FFA competitions and livestock shows are posted on the State Fair's website, StateFairVa.org

Most entries are due in the beginning of September, but it's not too early to start tapping into your creativity.

"We're excited about the diversity of all the competition categories, and we know our competitors enjoy the creative outlet that these contests afford them," said Sarah Jane Thomsen, the fair's manager of agriculture education. "We also are happy to offer ribbons or prize money, but all of them get bragging rights."

Cut flowers are one of the horticulture categories, and entries will be judged live on Oct. 2. Plymouth Rock is a breed of chicken that will be part of the poultry shows this year. Duct tape creations are one of many categories in the youth creative arts competitions.

This year's culinary contests include a live grilled cheese judging on Sept. 29. Sponsored by the Virginia State Dairyman's Association, the event is part of dairy days at the fair, celebrated the first weekend. Twelve contestants will prepare and cook a grilled cheese sandwich using their choice of bread, cheese, and any additional ingredients they want to add.

Another dairy days culinary category is charcuterie boards. Entrants will prepare a charcuterie board on Oct. 2 using at least six items that are grown or processed in Virginia. Last year's winner, Michelle Duggins, owner of Michelle's Table in Fredericksburg, incorporated local goat cheese and caramel apple jam on her board.

Three new food competitions this year are the Virginia potatoes recipe contest, sponsored by Dublin Farms' Virginia's Finest Potatoes; the Virginia homegrown vegetable casserole contest, sponsored by the Bowling Green Community Farmers Market; and the Sabra hummus recipe contest, sponsored by Sabra.

Dublin Farms is a fifth-generation family farm in Accomack County on the Eastern Shore, where 80% of Virginia potatoes are grown. Contestants must prepare a dish in which the potatoes (white, red, or yellow, but not sweet) are the star of the show. They are encouraged to use Dublin Farms' potatoes from their local grocery store. Entries will be judged on Oct.

Participants in the veggie casserole contest are required to use vegetables grown in their own yards or purchased from a local farmers market.

The Virginia Peanut Growers Association is sponsoring a grab and go peanut competition. Contestants are encouraged to create snacks — hot or cold, sweet or savory — using Virginia peanuts or peanut butter.

Creative arts categories include traditional jewelry making, painting, photography, quilting, sculpture, and woodcrafts. Other unique divisions include antler art and deer, fish, or bird mounts. Other divisions cover jewelry crafted with wildlife parts like antlers or feathers, and floral arrangements made with similar components.

The 2024 State Fair of Virginia will run from Sept. 27 through Oct. 6. Information is available at State-FairVa.org

The State Fair is held each fall at its permanent home at The Meadow Event Park in Caroline County and attracts 200,000 fairgoers.

HOLY TRINITY CHURCH DONATES TO AICC

EASTERN SHORE POST/CAROL VAUGHN

Walta Pruitt, of the Accomack Interfaith Crisis Council, accepts a donation from Father Ed Hunt of Holy Trinity Episcopal Church in Onancock on Sunday, June 30. Holy Trinity recently began donating the plate offering received on the second Sunday of each month to a local charity. Representatives of the charities are invited to a communal meal at Holy Trinity to receive the offering and provide additional information about the organizations' activities. The initiative was undertaken in May, after Holy Trinity's vestry at its annual retreat in April focused on stewardship. AICC was formed a number of years ago by an interdenominational group of local churches. AICC assists people in serious need of help with utility bills and other critical expenses.

Literacy Council receives $1,100 from United Way

The Eastern Shore Literacy Council was recently awarded $1,100 from the United Way of Virginia's Eastern Shore Community Impact Fund.

The award will be used to support the Dolly Parton's Imagination Library program to promote children's literacy.

Graduates of Dolly Parton's Imagination Library, registered children turning 5 years old in 2024, will be mailed a book and card congratulating them on graduating from the program.

The book will be mailed directly from the Eastern Shore Literacy Council and will add one additional free book to the child's home library.

The intended outcome is that children will continue reading and preparing for kindergarten. In all, 430 local children have graduated from the Imagination Library in three years since the Literacy Council became an Imagination Library affiliate.

Studies indicate when a child enters kindergarten ready for school, there is an 82% chance that child will master basic skills by age 11, compared with 45% for children who are not school ready.

Since its inception in 1991, the United Way of Virginia's Eastern Shore has raised more than $8.4 million to support local organizations and initiatives that help others improve the lives of those who live and work in our community.

Find out more about the Literacy Council at www.shoreliteracy.org or by calling 757-789-1761.
